WLB HEAD SAYS WARD'S SEIZURE WAS NECESSARY

Davis Tells House Group Agency Will Act 'Wherever There Is a Stoppage' Until Halted by Congress.

'ONLY WAY TO SAVE NO-STRIKE POLICY'

Failure to Step In Would Have Left 15,500,000 in Various Industries Free to Walk Out, He Asserts.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—William H. Davis, chairman of the War Labor Board, told a special House committee today his agency had to act in the Montgomery Ward labor dispute or admit that 15,500,000 people in various industries "would be free to strike."

Davis, first witness in the House investigation of the mail order plant seizure in Chicago last month, asserted that the WLB intends to step in wherever there is a work stoppage until Congress "tells us clearly" that there are segments of the national economy that are not concerned with the war.

Representative Dewey (Rep.), Illinois, sponsored the investigation on the theory that the Ward mail-order plant should not have been seized because it is not a direct war production concern.

Must Bar All Strikes.

Davis said the only way to have an effective no-strike policy is "to bar all strikes" and set up the WLB as the forum for settling all disputes.

"It is our opinion," Davis declared, "that failure or refusal of the Government in time of war to furnish a means of peacefully resolving disputes directly involving the employes of this company would without the slightest doubt lead to substantial interference with the war effort. It is the unanimous opinion of our members that this company is engaged in activities directly related to the successful prosecution of the war."

If it should be decided that Montgomery Ward is not subject to the no-strike pledge, Davis said, all the employes in distribution, transportation, service trades, wholesale and retail services would have no obligation to remain on the job either.

Such a situation, he said, "would lead finally to a complete disintegration of the existing machinery set up by Congress to preserve industrial peace."

Davis said he thought the Smith-Connally Labor Disputes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 22 (AP).—Most early shift war production workers returned to their jobs today at Montgomery Ward's Springfield subsidiary, the Hummer Manufacturing Co. plant seized yesterday by the Army on orders from President Roosevelt after it had been strikebound for 17 days.

Lt. Col. Nelson Talbott, War Department representative in charge, said 220 of 240 workers reported for the 7 a. m. shift. Spokesmen for 450 AFL machinists involved said "over 90 per cent—all we could notify last night" of about 325 normally employed on two-day shifts agreed to report.

Col. Talbott said about 25 employes were assigned to temporary work because some airplane subcontract machinery they formerly had operated had been shipped or packed for shipment out of the idle Hummer plant. Otherwise, he said, full operations have been resumed.

Two Montgomery Ward executives from Chicago arrived at the plant soon after it opened and entered a conference with Col. Talbott. They were H. B. Pearson, vice-president and treasurer, and H. C. Anderson, general manager of Montgomery Ward factories. The Ward men made no public statement.

John J. Saxer, plant manager, said he and other plant officers were "co-operating to the fullest extent" with a 10-member Army contingent which took possession 16 hours earlier. No additional soldiers were at the plant today.

J. T. Farr, union business representative, said he had appealed to striking workers by radio and telephone calls to return.

The Hummer plant was the second Montgomery Ward property to be seized by the Army within four weeks.

Operations at the factory site had been halted by a strike of AFL machinists who protested against the concern's rejection of a War Labor Board directive to

LEND-LEASE ARMS GO TO EUROPE FOR 3-WAY INVASION

'Allies About to Strike Mightier Blows From West, South, East,' F.D.R. Tells Congress.

$24,225,000,000 IN SUPPLIES, SERVICES

Much of It Sent in Recent Months—Three-Fourths to Britain and Russia.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—Lend-lease arms and equipment to power a three-way invasion smash at Europe are moving out of this country at a steadily growing speed, President Roosevelt told Congress today.

"United Nations forces are now about to strike new and mightier blows at Nazi-occupied Europe from offensive bases in the west, the south and the east," the President said as he submitted the fifteenth report on lend-lease operations.

"They are armed with the most powerful weapons that the combined resources and ingenuity of the United Nations can produce. . . . Through lend-lease we have made certain that every man in the forces of the other United Nations who goes into battle beside an American fighting man has what he needs to hit the common enemy as hard as possible."

Much of It Recent.

The report shows $24,225,000,000 worth of equipment, services and supplies have gone from this country's lend-lease arsenal—nearly three-fourths to Britain and Russia and much of it in recent months.

(Richard L. Stokes, in a special article last week in the Post-Dispatch, said "For two years the fact has lurked undetected in jungles of statistical tables that in addition to lend-lease appropriations of $24,683,629,000 made to the President by Congress, the Army and Navy have been authorized to supply an aggregate of $35,970,000,000 in military supplies to Allied countries, while the Maritime Commission has leased to war associates shipping valued at two billions.")

Billion in Planes, Parts.

"China is being helped to the utmost of our ability," Roosevelt said. But the report itself shows the supplies being flown into that country—already record-breaking in terms of air transport—are only a trickle against the flood of equipment being massed before the Nazi fronts.

"In actual physical exports, not counting other materials or such expenditures as shipping costs, pilot training, or erection of industrial plants within the United States, more than a billion dollars in plants and parts, a like amount of guns and ammunition and almost that value in tanks and war vehicles have gone to the United Kingdom — three-fourths of them in the last year. British planes are dumping American-made bombs on Germany and American fighters roar up from the decks of British carriers.

1400 Vessels to British.

The United States — now the owner of the world's largest Navy has leased almost 1400 naval craft to the British under lend-lease, the report said.

They include more than 30 convoy-escort aircraft carriers, destroyer-escorts and merchant ships, and are in addition to 200 million dollars' worth of landing barges, P-T boats and other smaller craft sent to the United Kingdom.

The bigger ships which sail from American docks under their own power are leased to the Allies for the duration of the war. Title remains with the United States.

RAIDS FOLLOW UP BRITISH BLOW AT DUISBURG, RECORD FIGHTER SWEEPS

R. A. F. Loses 30 Bombers in Night—35 American Pursuit Craft Missing in Widespread Thrusts at Reich.

LONDON, May 22 (AP).—United States Flying Fortresses bombed the German submarine center of Kiel and Liberators pounded German fortifications in the Pas de Calais area of France today after a night in which 750 heavy British bombers saturated the major inland Nazi port of Duisburg with 2800 tons of explosives.

Up to 250 Flying Fortresses and the same number of Liberators, each group protected by swarms of American fighters, carried into the fourth day the newest Allied aerial prelude to the western invasion.

The United States Strategic Air Force in Europe announced tonight that 22 enemy planes were destroyed in today's operations, against the loss of American five bombers and eight fighters.

Activity over the Channel continued throughout the forenoon today with fighter formations sweeping out toward the Boulogne and Dieppe areas as another returned from Calais.

Missourian Bags Nazi.

A group of Mustangs escorting the bombers to Kiel encountered 30 ME-109s but the pilots and Lt. Ralph Hofer of Salem, Mo., shot down one.

The British attack on Duisburg, coupled with raids on the rail and rubber center of Hannover and a German airfield in Belgium, cost the Royal Air Force 30 bombers.

These latest blows dovetailed into the Allied strategy aimed at crippling Germany's movement of troops and supplies, adding their weight to the attacks of yesterday, when some 3000 planes in all, most of them fighters, sprayed nearly every moving piece of German transport sighted in western Europe with machine-gun and cannon fire.

57 Planes Lost.

The widespread fighter sweeps yesterday cost the Americans 35 planes, a record loss for this type of aircraft in one day's operations. Altogether, 57 British and American planes failed to return yesterday. Twenty German fighters were destroyed in air combat out of a relatively small number of interceptors sent up by the enemy.

The attack on Duisburg last night was described by the Air Ministry as "very heavy." The loss of 30 night bombers was the greatest suffered by the R. A. F. Since May 3, when 49 bombers failed to return from widespread Soldier Who Got Furlough After Letter to Roosevelt Will Attend Special Celebration.

GENESEO, N. Y., May 22 (AP).—Thanks to his mother's letter to President Roosevelt, Tech. Sgt. Arthur Hasler, 37 years old, has returned from Italy to celebrate belatedly his father's one hundredth birthday anniversary.

Hasler, an air crew chief, came home yesterday, and plans were made for a party to be held Sunday at which all of Mr. and Mrs. Hasler's 13 children and most of their 38 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren will attend.

Mrs. Hasler, who is 76, requested her son's return in a letter to the President which was relayed to military authorities. The elder Hasler became 100 years old May 18.

PHYSICAL CHECK-UP FOR F.D.R.

He Plans to Visit Medical Center Some Time This Week.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt will visit the Naval Medical Center in Maryland some time this week for a formal physical check-up to make certain he has thrown off the effects of last winter's flu and bronchial trouble.

V. Adm. Ross T. McIntire, the President's personal physician, announced after the Chief Executive's month of rest in the South recently that he would give the President a final check-up even though he appeared to be in excellent shape. Roosevelt said last week that the examination would take place some time this week.

WLB PLEAS FAIL TO END EAST SIDE STEEL WALKOUT

Company Says Meeting of the 3 Groups Involved Is Necessary to Any Settlement.

The strike of machinists at the Granite City Steel Co., makers of invasion craft steel plate for the Navy and Maritime Commission, went into its eleventh day today despite two appeals from the War Labor Board at Washington that work be resumed pending settlement of the jurisdictional dispute.

The dispute, growing out of disposition of maintenance work in the company's hot strip mill, involves the AFL International Association of Machinists, District 9, and millwright members of the CIO United Steel Workers of America. Stoppage of work by 125 machinists resulted in the plant shutdown.

A spokesman for the company told the Post-Dispatch today the management has taken the position that settlement can come only through a joint meeting of the three groups. Clyde Huffstutler, regional director of the CIO union, asserting that "the CIO is not on strike," said the millwrights would

11,500 CHRYSLER WORKERS IDLE DESPITE WLB ORDER

CIO Tells Its Members to Go Through Picket Lines, But They Refuse.

DETROIT, May 22 (AP).—About 11,500 Chrysler Corporation employes remained idle today despite a War Labor Board back-to-work order and instructions from the United Automobile Workers (CIO) to go through picket lines set up by a group of strikers protesting against the dismissal of 16 fellow workers.

The strikers voted yesterday to continue their protest today and George F. Addes, secretary-treasurer of the international UAW-CIO said he would ask that an administrator be appointed for the Chrysler union local involved if work was not resumed today.

The dispute which crippled or halted operations in seven Chrysler plants in the Detroit area had its inception in a jurisdictional argument between the AFL teamsters union and a rival CIO union involving truck drivers delivering soft drinks to one of the Chrysler factories. The jurisdictional dispute has been adjusted, at least temporarily, with a WLB order for a collective bargaining election.

Allies Radio More Orders To Europeans

London Train Schedules Suddenly Canceled.

By NED NORDNESS

LONDON, May 22 (AP). — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters told the peoples of occupied countries today more ways to help the invasion armies—by providing intimate knowledge about roads, bridges, rivers, woods and possible landing fields.

Meanwhile, thousands of passengers missed their trains at London stations today, with blackboards announcing that many schedules had been canceled without warning.

The broadcast by the new American station in Britain came after a German threat of "terrible and bloody reprisals" against any French patriots who heed Eisenhower's previous call to take up arms and help the invasion forces.

A member of Eisenhower's staff told the radio listeners:

"Listen carefully. For some time you have been receiving from voices already well known to you advice and instructions on how to prepare yourselves for the final phase of the struggle for liberation.

"The supreme commander wishes you to know that what you have heard is in accordance with his plans and wishes. In due course, you will receive advice and instructions from the supreme commander himself. In the meantime, he directs you to continue to note well and to act on advice and instructions by speakers whom I introduce in his behalf.

'Operational Instructions.'

"Now here is a speaker to give you the second operational instructions. . ."

This speaker said:

"The subject is the importance of everyone having the fullest knowledge of his or her own surroundings. This applies equally to town and country districts. Allied forces or individuals will repeatedly want information. Often they will want guides. It is very important that this information should be accurate and that guides should be quite certain of the way by day or night.

"Answers might be wanted to such questions as these:

"First about roads. How many roads come into the town or village? Are they marked or easily

STUFFING BALLOT BOX IS ADJUDGED FEDERAL OFFENSE

Supreme Court, in Another Case, Upholds Right of OPA to Penalize Ration Violator.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—The Supreme Court reversed 6 to 3 today a lower court decision that there is no Federal statute covering "the reprehensible election fraud commonly known as ballot box stuffing."

The finding by the Eastern Kentucky United States District Court was made in dismissing ballot-box stuffing charges filed against eight election officials in two precincts of Harlan County. The charges were brought after the general election of November, 1942, in which Senator Chandler (Dem.), Kentucky, was re-elected.

The Supreme Court's majority opinion was delivered by Justice Roberts. Justices Douglas, Black and Reed dissented.

The election officials were accused of improperly voting a large number of ballots for Chandler. The District Court held, however, that under the established policy of Congress, "the protection of the public from such type of election" is left to state laws.

Majority Opinion.

The majority opinion said:

"For election officers knowingly to prepare false ballots, place them in the box, and count them, is certainly not honestly to count the votes lawfully cast.

"The mathematical result may not be the same as would ensue throwing out or refusing to count votes lawfully cast. But the action pursuant to the con-

Pawned Suit Returned to Owner on Day-to-Day Basis, Still Exhibit A

Silas Sanchez's natty black and white pinstriped suit, which was stolen, pawned, seized by police and turned over to Judge David W. FitzGibbon of the Court of Criminal Correction, was back in the hands of its owner today—marked "Exhibit A."

However, Judge FitzGibbon reminded Sanchez that the suit was being returned to him on a day-to-day basis, that he might wear it but that he would be required to produce it in Circuit Court next month when Leeandrew O. Brown, a Negro charged with the theft, comes up for trial.

The Judge said he had been moved by Sanchez's appeal that he "needed that suit."

The suit was stolen from Sanchez's home, 1926 Cora avenue, and pawned for $15 in a shop at 4135 Easton avenue from whence it was returned, in several stages, to Sanchez. He valued the suit at $45.

Peters Family to Move 5 Bodies So All Will Be Together in Death

The disinterment and removal from Bellefontaine Cemetery of five bodies, including that of Henry W. Peters, an executive of the International Shoe Co. who died 16 years ago, was authorized today by Circuit Judge William L. Mason.

Authorization had been sought by Peters' son and daughter who explained they had purchased 10 crypts in the Oak Grove Memorial Mausoleum so all members of the family might be "together in death as in life." A court order was required because the Bellefontaine Cemetery Association was in doubt as to the legality of the removal.

The bodies to be removed next fall to the Oak Grove Mausoleum are those of Peters' wife, Mrs. Anna Peters, who has been dead 33 years; Edwin Peters, their son, dead 13 years; Edwin Peters' first wife, Mrs. Stella Peters, dead 16 years; and Arthur F. Lauman, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Peters, dead 26 years.

Oliver F. Peters, vice-president of International Shoe Co., and his sister, Mrs. Ella Peters Lauman, who made the request, explained that they desired to be buried above ground and that they "wished tthe same for our loved ones."

Daniel N. Kirby, attorney for the Bellefontaine Cemetery Association, explained that the association had refused to permit removal of the bodies without a court order because Henry W. Peters had provided funds to the cemetery for perpetual care of the five graves. He said the association had been unwilling to risk a breach of that long-standing agreement.

AMERICANS GAIN 9 MILES, ENTER TERRACINA, BUT ARE FORCED OUT

Nazis Commit 17 Divisions to Task of Halting Allies—Canadians Penetrate Main Hitler Line.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 22 (AP).—The German high command has thrown all its reserves south of Rome into a desperate effort to halt the Allied drive in Italy, Allied headquarters reported tonight.

Seventeen German divisions, some of them badly mauled in the fighting of the last 10 days, have been committed on the main front and the Anzio beachhead, headquarters said, but the Allies since yesterday have made net gains all along the front, despite a forced withdrawal in the Terracina area.

American troops on the coast advanced nine miles up the Appian Way and patrols entered Terracina, coastal anchor of the Nazi "switch line" against only light opposition. However, the Germans soon moved in reinforcements and the Americans were forced to pull back to a line three miles northwest of Terracina.

Yanks Take Three Peaks.

The Americans continued to press into the remaining masses of the Aurunci Mountains separating them from the Pontine plain. Against severe opposition the United States troops captured Mount Marino, Mount Autone and Mount Capiccio, all northeast of Terracina, which itself is 24 miles from the edge of the Anzio beachhead.

On the Anzio beachhead United States patrols pushed out five miles from the right flank of the perimeter in a daring stab, and the Germans reacted with a sharp counterattack southwest of Cisterna.

In advancing to Terracina the Americans had covered 25 miles from their jumping off places in the lower Garigliano Valley in 10 days.

French Close in on Pico.

Farther inland French troops closed in on the key town of Pico, pivot point of the Hitler line, after taking, losing and recapturing Mount Leucio west of Pico. To the east of Pico other French forces cut the Pico-Pontecorvo highway, main lateral road connecting the Appian Way and the Via Casilina.

Canadians penetrated the Hitler line northeast of Pontecorvo, on

MERRILL FORCES BATTLING HARD JAP OPPOSITION AT MYITKYINA

House-to-House Fighting Is Called Bloodiest of North Burma Drive—Monsoon Rains Beginning.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, Ceylon, May 22 (AP).—The bloodiest fighting of the Burma campaign has developed inside Myitkyina where Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's Marauders are smashing the Japanese garrison street by street and house by house, a dispatch from the front said today.

The strategic railway station which the Chinese occupied Saturday has changed hands several times and fighting was raging throughout the town last night, the dispatch said, adding that heavy rains have caused further delay in completely capturing the important base whose fall seemed only a matter of hours two days ago.

American dive bombers have been plastering the bazaar districts of the city where large numbers of the Japanese are dug in.

New Air Base Deep in Jungle.

It was disclosed that the aerial support of the Myitkyina operation is being provided from a new fighter and bomber base deep in Burma which American engineers commanded by Brig. Gen. Lewis Pick of Auburn, Ala., hacked from the thick jungle.

"Gen. Stilwell (Joseph W.) told us to complete the airport in time for the Myitkyina attack," Gen. Pick commented. "We did, but it was our toughest job outside of building the (Ledo) road."

(Before going to Asia, Gen. Pick, then a colonel and division engineer at Omaha, Neb., drew up a plan for development of the Missouri River Valley.)

The Allied Southeast Asia command's communique referred to heavy rains hampering the Burma operations—apparently the opening of the monsoon season—and said Lt. Gen. Stilwell's forces had blocked Kamaing in the Mogaung Valley from the south. The communique said the main Japanese force in North Burma was believed concentrated in Kamaing.

Allied forces also were reported to have further tightened their grip on approaches to Myitkyina from the west, north and south, and to have repulsed Japanese reinforcement attempts in the Kumon Hills to the northwest.

There was no indication of any Japanese effort to reinforce enemy forces anywhere in the Burma-India theater, but airborne Allied troops continued to land at captured Myitkyina airport.

Allied dive bombers hit the enemy virtually at will and patrolled the one remaining escape route of the Myitkyina garrison—the road southward to Bhamo.

Allied headquarters declared Japanese battle casualties in all sectors had exceeded 25,000. Total enemy forces in Burma have been estimated at well over 100,000.

Stilwell Command Expanded.

An order of the day by Adm. Mountbatten disclosed that Gen. Stilwell had assumed leadership of the Chindit troops which first landed southeast of Myitkyina in an airborne invasion of northern Burma. The Chindits first were under Maj. Gen. Orde C. Wingate until he was killed March 24 in a plane crash, and then were commanded by Maj. Gen. W. D. A. Lentaigne, who now becomes Stilwell's subordinate.

The order of the day said:

"By the boldness of your (Stilwell's) leadership, backed by the courage and endurance of your American and Chinese troops you have taken the enemy completely by surprise and achieved a most outstanding success by seizing Myitkyina airfield.

"The crossing of the 6100-foot Naura Hyket pass is a feat which will live in military history. Please convey my personal congratulations and thanks to all ranks, including Gen. Lentaigne's forces who now are under your command and who have been severing Japanese communications between Myitkyina and the south."

From Chungking, the Chinese high command said that Chinese forces striking westward from the Salween river in Yunnan province have "successfully concluded" the "initial phase" of their strong offensive aimed toward a junction with Stilwell in North Burma.

CARRIER RAID ON MARCUS REPORTED BY TOKYO RADIO

Broadcast Says Allied Planes Made Two-Day Attack on Isle 1200 Miles From Japan.

LONDON, May 22 (AP). — A Japanese communique broadcast by Tokyo radio today said that "enemy naval units" approaching from the east had launched aerial attacks Saturday and Sunday against the Central Pacific Marcus (Minamitori) Island, 1200 miles southeast of Tokyo.

Damage to Japanese installations was acknowledged in the broadcast, which declared that at least 32 raiding planes were shot down.

Marcus Island is about midway between the Marshall Islands and the Japanese mainland, and 600 miles east of the main islands of the Bonin group. It has been attacked before by United States fleet units.

The American Navy attacked the island outpost guarding the sea lanes to Tokyo in March, 1942, and again in September, 1943. In the latter attack Adm. Chester W. Nimitz estimated 80 per cent of the Japanese military installations had been destroyed by an aircraft-carrier task force.

United States losses in the raid last fall were two fighters and one torpedo plane. R. Adm. Charles A. Pownall commanded the attacking force.

Tokyo apparently jumped to the conclusion that it was in for another bombing. The German radio, quoting Tokyo reports, said:

"An air raid alert was sounded in the whole north and east of Japan during the Allied attacks on Marcus Island."

It described the island as "an outpost of the Bonin group of islands which are inside the inner defenses of the Japanese."

KURILE RAID WITHIN 400 MILES OF JAPAN

UNITED STATES FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, May 22 (AP).—A Liberator from the Eleventh Army Air Force penetrated within 400 miles of Japan proper to attack Shimushiri and Ketoi Islands in the Kuriles Thursday night, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced yesterday.

The surprised Japanese made no attempt to shoot down the lone Liberator, Nimitz said. He gave no other details of the raid, the deepest penetration toward Tokyo by a land-based bomber.

The Liberator sortie was the highlight of a series of raids late last week on Japan's north and central Pacific bases.

Ventura search planes of Fleet Air Wing 4 bombed Paramushiro in the Northern Kuriles Thursday night after other bombers attacked two enemy ships near the big enemy base and probably sank one. Venturas of Fleet Air Wing 2 hit Shumushu, northernmost of the Kuriles, at dawn Friday.

In the central Pacific, the Japanese Carolines' base of Ponape was bombed Friday night and Saturday; Nauru to the south was attacked Friday; and enemy positions in the Marshalls were hit Friday and Saturday.

spiracy here charged constitutes the rendering of a return which, to some extent, falsifies the count of votes legally cast."

Dissenting Opinion.

In the dissenting opinion Justice Douglas said that ballot-box stuffing would have been a Federal offense under the so-called reconstruction legislation passed after the Civil War. But Douglas said this legislation was repealed in 1894 by an act which was designed to restore control of election frauds to the states. He added:

"This court now writes into the law what Congress struck out 50 years ago.

"The court now restores Federal control in a domain where Congress decided the states should have exclusive jurisdiction. I think, if such an intrusion on historic states rights is to be made, it should be done by the legislative branch of government."

The Department of Justice, in appealing the District Court ruling, contended that ballot-box stuffing comprised a conspiracy to deprive qualified voters of their right to have their ballots counted.

OPA Penalty Power Upheld.

The Office of Price Administration's authority to limit sales of a retail fuel oil dealer on the ground that he had violated rationing regulations was upheld today by the court.

Justice Douglas delivered the court's 8-to-1 decision. Justice Roberts dissented without writing an opinion.

L. P. Steuart & Bro., Inc., dealer in this city, appealed after the OPA ordered the firm to cut back the number of customers it served to those on its books during the year ended Oct. 22, 1942.

Counsel for Steuart argued before the court that OPA "seeks to punish the firm for not being able to comply with all the cumbersome rules which marked its early operations," He said 227 violations were charged, running "the whole gamut from overdelivery of nine gallons down to the point where they charged us with having a broken hose on one of our trucks."

Douglas' opinion said that "in restricting petitioner's (Steuart) quota the Office of Price Administration was doing no more than protecting a community against distribution which measured by rationing standards was inequitable, unfair and inefficient."

The majority added that Steuart's contention that the firm was being punished was a "distortion of the issue" on the basis of the record. Justice Douglas said that from the viewpoint of a rationing system the middleman who distributes the product in violation and disregard of the prescribed quotas is an inefficient and wasteful conduit."

ENEMY BOOBY TRAP EXPLODES 25 FEET FROM GEN. CLARK

Several Soldiers Wounded—U. S. Commander Sees That Men Are Treated.

ON THE FIFTH ARMY FRONT IN ITALY, May 22 (AP). — Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, Fifth Army commander, narrowly missed being killed when a booby trap on an abandoned German artillery piece exploded less than 25 feet from the jeep in which he was riding yesterday.

The explosion critically wounded one soldier and injured several others who had been standing near the Nazi anti-tank gun. Gen. Clark, who was making an inspection tour of the front, was told that someone had been tinkering with the abandoned gun.

After satisfying himself that the injured men were being treated, Gen. Clark warned other soldiers nearby—some of whom had been knocked down by the blast — against tampering with abandoned enemy equipment. Then he continued his inspection.

OTTAWA, May 22 (AP).—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King returned by plane last night from London, where he attended the empire prime ministers' conference.

3343 JAPS KILLED ON NEW GUINEA IN MONTH BY YANKS

Total in Hollandia — Aitape, Wakde Areas—Enemy Attacks Near Toem Repulsed.

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, May 22 (AP).—Japanese casualties in the month-old American invasion of northern New Guinea stood at 3829 today—nearly 1000 a week, on the average—as the Yanks counted enemy bodies at conquered Wakde and on the mainland nearby where three counterattacks were bloodily repulsed.

Of the total enemy casualties, 3343 Japanese were killed. This meant 76 Japanese killed for every American in the over-all northern New Guinea operation which began with the April 22 landings at Hollandia and Aitape.

American Sixth Army troops on the Wakde Islands, 110 miles northwest of Hollandia, have counted 676 Japanese dead, "with others not yet reported," Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced in his Monday communique, which said enemy forces there had been "completely destroyed."

The Americans pressed against stubborn mortar, machinegun and rifle fire from their Tor River beachhead near Toem on the mainland. Three enemy attacks Friday and Saturday were turned back, with 111 Japanese dead. The Americans had the support of strafing fighter planes.

The last recapitulation of American casualties in the Hollandia-Aitape sector said 28 Americans had been killed and 95 wounded. In the Wakde area invasion which began Wednesday, 16 Americans have been reported killed and 83 wounded.

Heavy Allied bombers, despite bad weather, pounded two airdromes on Biak Island in the Schouten group, 260 miles northwest of Hollandia, with 97 tons of bombs on Friday. The next day Boston attack planes gave the area a thorough bombing and strafing. Large fuel fires were ignited.

Liberators also hit Manokwari and Noemfoor Island in the general area and struck far to the east of Hollandia to harass the enemy along the northeastern New Guinea coast as well as the "milk run" visits to New Britain and New Ireland islands.

An enemy freighter at Nomoi in the Carolines was damaged by a single patrol bomber which knocked down one of four interceptors. Another bomber wiped out nine float planes at Lamotrek, 540 miles to the west.

NEW CEILINGS FOR LIMBURGER, MUNSTER AND BRICK CHEESE

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—Specific dollars-and-cents ceiling prices for limburger, Munster and brick cheese were established by the Office of Price Administration today. The OPA said the new schedule would save the public about $1,500,000 a year.

Revised prices, effective next Saturday, will reduce the retail cost of brick and Munster from 2 to 5 cents a pound, possibly more in some areas, OPA said. The retail price of limburger is expected to stay about the same, despite an increase of 2 cents a pound at the factory level.

The new prices are established for all sales levels except retail, where the price continues to be set under a fixed percentage markup. However, changes at prior levels will be reflected at retail.

'FORMIDABLE' INVASION WON'T MEAN WAR'S END IS IN SIGHT, SAYS ADM. KING

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).

ADM. ERNEST J. KING, commander of the United States Fleet, promises an assault on Hitler's European fortress "in what promises to be the most formidable military undertaking in history," but gave warning against a public tendency to believe the end of the war is in sight.

King, in an address here yesterday, said overconfidence now "will do an injustice to those who are about to go into battle," and declared there was "little justification" for believing Germany and Japan were near collapse.

"In the Pacific," he said, "vast operations are pending, for, despite recent advances, we are still far from the citadel of Japan which must be breached before the war is won.

"We of the armed forces have pondered these great problems; we have calculated the risks; we know the obstacles. But we also know our own strength. We have the men, the ships, the planes, the weapons and the plans and teamwork."

ROMAN CATHOLIC STUDY FOR POLISH YOUTH IN RUSSIA

Instruction in Schools for Children Whose Parents Desire They Have It.

By DAVID M. NICHOL
The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1944.

MOSCOW, May 22.—With the beginning of the new school year in the fall, classes in the Roman Catholic religion will be offered to Polish children in schools in the Soviet Union, it is revealed here.

Instruction will not be compulsory, as was formerly the case in Poland, but will depend on the expressed wishes of the parents or guardians.

This program for Catholic teaching is being arranged through the All-Union Committee for Polish Children, which is attached to the Commissariat of Education for the R. S. F. S. R. (Russia proper), and is headed by Assistant Commissar G. I. Ivanenko. The vice chairman of the committee is Stanislaw Sczesewski, formerly a professor of the University of Krakow.

Teachers will be obtained, it is planned, through the Polish army in the Soviet Union. A conference will shortly be called of chaplains in this connection, and the Bishop of Luck (Lutsk) is expected to lend his aid.

As of Jan. 1 of this year, there were 10,000 Polish youngsters in special schools in the U. S. S. R.

REDS REPORT SINKING 5 SHIPS AND DOWNING 52 NAZI PLANES

LONDON, May 22 (AP).—Sporadic fighting was reported along the lower Dnestr River north of Tiraspol over the week end, but the Russian front remained generally quiet except for continued Soviet aerial attacks on communications far behind German lines.

A broadcast Moscow communique said Red Army troops had killed 600 Germans in repulsing several tank-supported enemy attacks in the Tiraspol area.

Soviet airmen said they sank a 6000-ton transport in the Gulf of Finland and destroyed two patrol ships and two minesweepers in the Gulf of Narva. The Russian communique said 52 Nazi planes were destroyed in combat over the front yesterday.

Stalin Receives Prof. Lange, Affirms Wish for Strong Poland

Chicago Professor Quotes Premier's Views as Expressed in Two-Hour Interview.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, May 22 (AP).—Prof. Oscar Lange of the University of Chicago announced yesterday he had received personal assurances from Premier Stalin that "Poland is going to play a very important role in Europe." The Soviet leader also told the Polish-American visitor "it is in the interests of the Soviet Union that Poland be strong."

Lange talked with Stalin more than two hours Wednesday night and issued a statement at the close of his visit to Russia. He will leave by plane for the United States. The material he gathered here, Lange said, would be used in the United States, presumably for a campaign to win the friendship of Polish-Americans for the Soviet Union.

Stalin received him after twice receiving the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski of Springfield, Mass., and telling the priest, also, that Russia wanted a strong, independent and democratic Poland capable of resisting any further German aggression.

The announcement of Lange's interview with Stalin was issued to foreign correspondents and has not been published yet in the Soviet press.

The fact that Stalin spent more than six hours recently in conferences with Lange and Father Orlemanski indicated the importance attached here to solution of the problem of Soviet-Polish relations.

In addition to these personal consultations it is understood there have been exchanges of official messages on the subject among leaders of the United Nations most interested in the question.

The text of Lange's statement:

"At the invitation of the Union of Polish Patriots I have come to visit the Polish army in the U. S. S. R., and to inquire into the situation of the Poles in this country. I act as a private American citizen and represent nobody but myself. My study consisted of personal conferences with Polish leaders active in the U. S. S. R., and of a visit with the army and visits to Polish schools and children's homes. I also visited Marshal Stalin and Mr. (Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav) Molotov.

"While in the army I held more than 15 informal meetings with soldiers. I talked with soldiers about their ideas concerning the future of Poland. These talks provided me with material which I shall utilize after my return to the United States.

"During my stay with Marshal Stalin I spoke about my impressions of the Polish army and the situation of the Poles in the U. S. S. R.

"Marshal Stalin said Poland is going to play a very important role in Europe. He declared it in the interests of the Soviet Union that Poland be strong. I want to express my thanks to Mr. Molotov for his hospitality during my stay in the U. S. S. R., to my friend, Wanda Wassilewska, for the cordial reception given me by her and by the Union of Polish Patriots, and to Gen. Burling (commander of Polish troops in Russia) for his hospitality during my stay with the Polish army in the U. S. S. R. Officers and the men and women of the Polish army I thank for their hearty welcome. I wish them success in battle and quick victory over the common enemy of the United States, the Soviet Union and Poland."

Father Orlemanski Celebrates Masses at His Church.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 22 (AP).—Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski celebrated two masses at the Church of Our Lady of the Rosary yesterday in his first public appearance since his trip to Moscow to meet Marshal Stalin.

The pastor greeted parishioners outside the church at the end of each mass, but at no time did he mention his visit to Russia which resulted in temporary suspension by Bishop Thomas M. O'Leary, of the Springfield diocese.

APRIL LIVING COST RISE LAID IN PART TO EXCISE TAXES

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—The cost of living rose six-tenths of 1 per cent from March to April, the Labor Department reported yesterday. Part of the rise was attributed to higher excise taxes.

Living costs were 23.5 per cent above January, 1941, and 26.3 per cent higher than in August, 1939, said Secretary Perkins.

The new excise taxes became effective April 1 and half of the rise could be attributed to that, the Secretary said. Higher prices for food and furniture were listed as the other principal causes.

GREEK FACTIONS AGREE TO SET UP COALITION RULE

National Charter Signed — Premier Said to Have Drawn Up List of Cabinet Posts.

BEYROUTH, Lebanon, May 22 (AP).—Formation of a Greek coalition government has been agreed on by representatives of the "whole Greek political world and fighting organizations," a communique announced yesterday, and a spokesman said that a proposed merger of all guerrilla forces in the occupied nation into a national army had been found acceptable in principle.

A "national charter" presented by George Papandreou, new Premier of the Greek government-in-exile, was signed by all delegates to a four-day conference at a closed session Saturday. Delegates intimated that the Premier already had drawn up a list of cabinet posts to be allotted various parties, including the Communist party.

The conference accepted King George's declaration of last year that he would leave the question of his return to Greece until his country's liberation, when he would decide the matter with the advice of the government.

HANNEGAN SAYS PARTY WILL WIN, EVEN WITHOUT F.D.R.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 22 (AP). — Even if President Roosevelt should not be a candidate, the Democratic party still will sweep to a November election victory nationally and in Kentucky, Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, predicted in an interview here today.

If Roosevelt is nominated for a fourth term—and Hannegan believes he will be—the victory will be by "an overwhelming majority," said the party chairman. If another is the candidate "we still would win," he declared.

Hannegan, here to join Senate Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky in addressing a party rally and meeting of the State central committee, said he felt sure that Kentucky, which elected a Republican State administration last November, would return to the Democratic column next November.

COURT RULES OUT MORE MOTIONS IN SEDITION CASE

Lawyer Fined 4 Times for Refusing to Obey Justice — Defendant Also Assessed.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—Justice Edward C. Eicher overruled today all defense motions for a mistrial in the mass sedition conspiracy case which moved into its sixth week.

Attorneys for several of the 29 defendants had contended the opening statement of Prosecutor O. John Rogge was inflammatory and designed to "poison the minds of the jury," but Justice Eicher said he had read the transcript carefully over the week end and concluded that it did not "transcend permissible bounds."

Immediately after Justice Eicher's ruling, defendant Lawrence Dennis resumed the opening statement he began last week, terming free speech as the "only issue" involved in the trial.

The court limited Dennis to 30 minutes today, and said other opening statements also would be limited to a half-hour.

James J. Laughlin, a defense attorney fined earlier in the trial for contempt of court, demanded today that Prosecutor Rogge and his associate, Joseph W. Burns, be called on to "show cause" why they should not be held in contempt.

Laughlin based his petition on two stories appearing in a Washington newspaper last week, one headed "U. S. plans to unmask bund as first step in sedition trial."

Laughlin contended that "certain statements" by Rogge and Burns were made "with a view to obtaining publicity and, with a view to intimidating, coercing and influencing jurors and obstructing the due administration of justice."

Rogge and Burns had no comment immediately.

As today's session progressed, Justice Eicher four times fined Henry H. Klein of New York, a defense attorney for contempt in talking after the trial judge ordered him to be seated. The fines aggregated $200.

Protesting against the court's order limiting opening statements to 30 minutes, Klein shouted "That isn't fair." Justice Eicher told him to be seated and, when he kept on talking, fined him $50.

"I have no $50, but I have a right—" Klein shouted.

For this, Justice Eicher levied another fine—of $25.

"I haven't that either," Klein said, "and I think this is an insult."

This increased the fine total from $75 to $100, but Klein kept right on talking.

"The court has ruled, Mr. Klein," Justice Eicher said.

Instead of taking his seat, Klein persisted, and Justice Eicher added $100 more.

Klein is the fourth defense attorney to be fined since the trial started April 17.

A defendant, Ellis Jones of Los Angeles, was also fined $100 for contempt of court, and Justice Eicher warned that he would impose jail sentences for future disturbances created by defendants.

The Judge told Jones that, after the end of the trial, he would have to stay in jail until he paid the fine.

Jones was fined for persisting in speaking after the Judge had ordered him to be seated.

In the future, the Judge said, any defendant will be sentenced to a week in jail for any disturbance, to be served after the end of the trial. He said he would double the sentence for a second offense.

HENNINGS TO GO OVER PAYOFF CHARGES WITH POLICE BOARD

Members of the Board of Police Commissioners will meet with Circuit Attorney Thomas C. Hennings tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock to discuss Hennings' plans for an investigation into charges that Joseph (Buck) Newell, late boss of the AFL Hoisting Engineers' Union, paid off members of the St. Louis Police Department to permit gambling establishments operated by Newell to operate unmolested.

These charges were made in affidavits by William Ralph Grasswick, 17-year-old stepson of Newell who killed the labor racketeer at his country home near Pevely last June, and by Newell's widow, Mrs. Juanita Geraldine Newell.

Hennings said today that he had not been given a copy of any of the affidavits. The Police Board has a copy of one of the affidavits which Grasswick made, but members of the board said they have not yet examined it.

MOVE TO CALL LIGHTING MEN BEFORE COMMITTEE

The Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Aldermen, which will meet tomorrow to start an investigation of the expired street light maintenance contract, will be asked to call for questioning R. B. Potashnick and Adolph Robinson, new owners of G. L. Tarlton Contractor, Inc., which held the contract for three years.

Alderman J. Ray Weinbrenner, a member of the committee and a leader in delaying action on a bill that would authorize the letting of a new contract, said today he hoped to make a detailed inquiry into how Potashnick of Cape Girardeau, and Robinson of St. Louis, acquired the Tarlton firm for $150,468 May 3.

'I AM AN AMERICAN' FETE ATTRACTS 2500

22 Nationalities Represented in Colorful Pageantry—Judge Moore Speaks.

"I Am An American Day" was observed here yesterday in a ceremony at the auditorium of Beaumont High School with about 150 naturalized citizens participating. Approximately 2500 persons attended the pageant.

Twenty-two nationalities presented eight tableaux depicting various aspects of industry and culture in America. The theme of the program this year sought to emphasize the solidarity of the nationalities as Americans. Men and women costumed in the dress of their own country presented tableaux representing American scenes, rather than scenes of foreign countries.

A tableaux on "Education and Science" included a gray-haired Negro teacher with two small Negro boys peering over his shoulder at a large book which he held in his lap.

Another tableaux showed representatives of capital and labor, with a figure of Justice standing behind them. Music was furnished by a Coast Guard band.

United States District Judge George H. Moore outlined the constitutional guaranties of freedom for all Americans and pointed out the contribution of many foreigners to the growth and development of American institutions.

The program was sponsored by the St. Louis public schools, the immigration and naturalization service of the Department of Justice, the International Institute and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

DISPOSITION OF AUDITORIUM RENT MONEY SOUGHT BY NOLTE

Comptroller Louis Nolte said today he would ask the City Counselor's office to advise him as to action to be taken regarding the $472 rental paid for use of Convention Hall flooring belonging to the city and furnished by Flory Schueler, carpenter of Kiel Auditorium, for the Army Emergency Relief show at Public Schools Stadium in October, 1942. Schueler has said he received the $472 and paid $180 of it to Percy Gash, manager of the Auditorium. Gash was removed by Mayor A. P. Kaufmann last week after inquiry into this and other irregularities.

The Auditorium Commission, at its meeting tomorrow, will probably name a new manager, Chairman Isaac A. Hedges said. Neither he nor the Mayor would name the person likely to be selected. Nolte is considering two persons for the new position of auditor of the Auditorium, creation of which has been recommended by the commission. The commission will consider also the letting of a new concessions contract. The five-year contract of the Finot Concession Co. expired in April.

9 MORE CULTISTS CONVICTED ON PLURAL WIVES CHARGE

SALT LAKE CITY, May 22 (AP).—Nine members of the "fundamentalist" cult, which believes in plural marriage as an expression of religious freedom, were convicted today on Federal charges. Six were held guilty of Mann Act violations and three convicted on kidnaping charges.

This was the second setback in courts for the Fundamentalists, who contend they are practicing the original doctrines of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) Church, which in its early years advocated plural marriage but outlawed it in 1890.

Fifteen Salt Lake City men were convicted Saturday of State charges of unlawful cohabitation.

WATERMELONS TO BE CHEAPER

Ceilings to Be Fixed Soon, OPA Announces.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—Watermelon prices will be sharply reduced this summer "from last season's inflated prices," the Office of Price Administration announced today.

The agency said ceilings will be fixed shortly for country shippers and wholesalers reflecting a parity return to growers on their season's output. The savings will be passed on to householders by fixed retail mark-ups which in turn will be translated to dollars-and-cents ceilings for each community.

From the effective date of the regulation, which has not yet been set, until July 4, the price will be $33 a ton. From July 5 to the end of the season the price will be $26 a ton.

15-DEGREE DROP ENDS TWO-WEEK MAY HEAT WAVE

81 at 11 A. M. and 66 Two Hours Later—Morning Low of 68.

A temperature drop of 15 degrees in two hours brought a quick end today to the unseasonably hot weather that has been plaguing St. Louisans for more than two weeks.

At 11 o'clock this morning the temperature was 81 degrees. Two hours later, after a brief thunderstorm struck the city, the temperature had fallen to 66 degrees. Clearing skies, however, sent the thermometer up again. The 3 p. m. reading was 74 degrees. Before the sudden break the temperatures had climbed slowly during the morning hours from a low of 68 degrees at 6 a. m.

Yesterday's high temperature of 82 degrees at 6 p. m. was forced downward by a low pressure area that moved in over the city, Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said, and as long as it and the accompanying cloudiness here, "the sun won't be able to do its best."

"In any event," he added, "St. Louisans will be more comfortable than they were last week when the temperatures climbed almost daily to 90 degrees."

EMBARGO ON HOGS AGAIN FOR 5TH CONSECUTIVE WEEK

An embargo was placed on hog shipments to National Stockyards at noon today by the Hog Marketing Committee after 38,500 head were received.

It was estimated there would be a hold-over of 22,000. This, in addition to the 8,000 estimated to be in transit, would provide 30,000 for tomorrow's market, more than enough to take care of the normal demand, H. A. Powell, secretary of the St. Louis Livestock Exchange, said.

The committee, composed of representatives of producers and buyers, said the embargo would remain in effect until further notice. A four-day embargo was lifted Sunday. This is the fifth consecutive week that an embargo has been declared.

MRS. WILLIAM K. BURLEN SUES

Mrs. Marion D. Burlen, living at the Avalon Hotel, 339 North Taylor avenue, has filed suit in Circuit Court for separate maintenance against William K. Burlen, chief price attorney for the Office of Price Administration here.

Mrs. Burlen alleged general indignities and contended Burlen failed to provide sufficient money for her maintenance, although his salary was in excess of $6000 a year. She asked allotment in accord with her "station in life." The Burlens were married Oct. 21, 1942, and separated May 11, 1943, the petition said. It is pending before Judge Francis E. Williams.

WOMAN KILLED, 6 HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Mrs. Clara Boettger, 76, Loses Life Crossing Street—Man Hit Last Week Dies.

Mrs. Clara Mary Boettger, 76 years old, of 4234A Ellenwood avenue, was killed Saturday night when she was struck by an automobile while crossing Gravois avenue at Grand boulevard.

Elmer P. Teegle, a shoe worker of 1832 Allen avenue, driver of the car, said he saw the woman hurrying across the street and he tried to stop his car and swerve it to avoid hitting her, but was unsuccessful. At City Hospital physicians said she suffered fractures of both legs and head injuries. Teegle was held for the Coroner.

Six persons were injured early yesterday when two automobiles collided two miles west of Belleville on Route 13.

Five of the injured were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis. They were: Mrs. Ruth Wilson, 41 years old, 1911 College avenue, East St. Louis; Edward McClane, 42, 3600 West Main street, Belleville, operator of one of the automobiles; Mrs. Denora Beeler, 37, 613 North Sixtieth street, East St. Louis; William O'Banion, 8300 State street, and John C. Daniels, 45, 6 South Twenty-ninth street, Belleville. Peter Ritchie, 41, 49 North Ninety-eighth street, Belleville, was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville. They were passengers in the automobile operated by McClane.

Sgt. Henry Ridister, 24, Scott Field, driver of the second car, told police McClane's automobile struck his machine from the rear. Sgt. Ridister and his companion, Miss Irma Smithson, 21, 1760 North Forty-second street, East St. Louis, were not seriously hurt.

Lee Parom, 35 years old, 1005 North Grand boulevard, died yesterday at City Hospital of a cerebral concussion suffered last Wednesday when he was struck by an automobile at North Broadway and St. Louis avenue. The driver of the machine, William Foster Jones, 17, a Negro, 1003 Ohio avenue, told police he was driving south on Broadway when Parom, crossing from west to east, walked into the side of his car.

In the first 60 days of 1944, the report shows, more than 2100 lend-lease planes, almost 2000 tanks and more than 60,000 other military vehicles were sent to our Allies, the bulk of them to invasion dumps.

Nearly $4,750,000,000 in lend-lease aid has gone to Russia, two-thirds of it in the last year. Up to March, 1944, we had sent Russia 8800 fighters and bombers, 190,000 military trucks, 36,000 jeeps, 5200 tanks and tank destroyers and 30,000 other military vehicles.

The report showed a mounting total of reverse lend-lease. Emphasizing the pooling of Allied fighting equipment, it said. "In proportion to their available resources, our principal allies are putting into this war fully as much as we are, including lend-lease aid."

Lend-Lease Percentages.

Here is the report's breakdown of lend-lease: To the United Kingdom, 42.5 per cent; Russia, 27.6 per cent; Africa, Middle East and Mediterranean, 14.4 per cent; China, India, Australia and New Zealand, 11.2 per cent; Latin America, .8 per cent; all other areas, 3.5 per cent.

In the Pacific and Far East almost two billion dollars' worth of lend-lease has been poured into the fight against Japan. The report kept secret the number of planes flying the air supply route from Northeastern India into China, but declared:

"It can be said that the monthly tonnage of supplies carried into China each month 'over the hump' is now 15 times what it was a year ago."

MAN QUESTIONED IN DISAPPEARANCE OF GRANDMOTHER

Hatchet, Lime and Bits of Flesh Found in Auto of Former Boonville Resident.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DURHAM, N. C., May 22.—Edward Martin, formerly of Boonville, Mo., who has been working at a Charlotte (N. C.) war plant, was questioned by police here today in the disappearance of his grandmother, Mrs. Edward M. Jewett, 67 years old, after bits of decomposed flesh, a hatchet and lime were found in his automobile and in a house he rented here.

Searchers for the missing woman discovered a heavy wooden box, about the size of a trunk, when dragging Eastwood Lake at near-by Chapel Hill today. The box remained closed on orders of Deputy Sheriff W. P. Jordon, pending the arrival of Durham police and a physician. A search of the lake followed discovery of a boat with mysterious brown stains in it.

Martin, who police said will talk very little to them concerning his grandmother, widow of a Cooper County (Mo.) stockman, insists he left Mrs. Jewett May 9 in a hotel in Boonville where the two had been visiting. Mrs. Jewett and Martin went to Charlotte two years ago from Boonville, where they had previously lived.

Police said Martin returned from Boonville to Charlotte May 13, deposited $6000 in a bank there, then came to Durham and registered in a hotel. It was while he was at the hotel that attendants at a garage where he had left his car called police attention to an odor coming from the trunk of the machine.

In addition to decomposed flesh in the car, police said they found a set of false teeth and a wrist watch, which Martin said belonged to his grandmother, in the glove compartment.

Bloodstains on the automobile's upholstery were explained by Martin as having come from a buzzard that flew into his car on the way to Charlotte from Boonville. The flesh, he told police, was from four chickens he had purchased in Indiana and left in the car, forgetting they were there.

In Martin's room at a hotel here, police found Mrs. Jewett's ration book and her purse, in which there was a will leaving half of her estate to Martin. Mrs. Jewett, police learned, owned considerable property in Cooper County and also in Boonville.

Bits of flesh found in a vacant house, which Martin rented on the outskirts of this city, were unexplained by the 24-year-old chemist, police said.

While questioning of Martin continued, a chemical analysis of a woman's blood-stained dress found in a trash can was being made. Attempts were being made to identify the dress as one Mrs. Jewett was seen wearing in Boonville.

No charge has been placed against Martin, police said.

Information received from Boonville police was that Mrs. Jewett was last seen in a hotel there May 8. A check of her room disclosed all her clothes, except a white coat, are still there. When Martin left, they reported, he attempted to pay his grandmother's hotel bill for a month in advance, but was refused by the management.

Mrs. Jewett, who had gone to Boonville to inspect some property, had lived for the last two years with her daughter, Mrs. R. Lewis Patton, mother of Martin, in Charlotte. Mrs. Patton's husband is in the insurance and real estate business here.

Man Killed in Fall From Box Car.

Judd Liebler, an employe of the City Ice & Fuel Co. of East St. Louis, was killed early today when he fell from a box car in the National Stockyards. His neck was broken. Liebler, 42 years old, lived with his wife and a child at 564 North Twenty-ninth street, East St. Louis.

Held for Drowning Baby

YOUTH ACCUSED OF AUTO THEFT CAUGHT IN HAYLOFT

An 18-year-old youth who said he was John Wesley Brant of Decatur, Ill., was held in St. Charles County jail today, after a nine-hour hunt which ended in his capture early yesterday in a hayloft near Wentzville. Highway patrolmen said he admitted stealing an automobile at Dalton City, Ill.

A pair of bloodhounds and St. Charles County deputies joined State troopers in pursuit of Brant Saturday night, following a dash into the woods by the youth while he was being questioned on Highway 40 on a routine check of traffic. Brant eluded pursuit, but when he hid in a hayloft on the farm of George Thielman, he was observed by Thielman, who summoned authorities.

DROWNED BABY'S BODY FOUND IN COLORADO RIVER

18-Year-Old St. Louis Divorcee Identifies It as That of Her 10-Month-Old Daughter.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

EL CENTRO, Cal., May 22—The body of 10-month-old Mildred Louise Skelton was found late yesterday in the Colorado river two miles downstream from where her mother, Mrs. Mildred Skelton Mell, 18-year-old St. Louis divorcee, threw the child into the river Friday.

Pvt. Albert Pouzke, a soldier from the Yuma (Ariz.) air base, discovered the body caught in the branches of a tree, which had fallen into the river, when he was fishing on the California bank about 5 p. m.

Deputy Coroner Alfred T. Lyons said Mrs. Mell identified the body at a Yuma mortuary as that of her child. She was taken to Yuma from the county jail here, where she has been held since telling authorities Friday that she hurled her baby into the water, after a quarrel with her common-law husband, and watched it drown.

Lyons said a murder charge would be filed today against Mrs. Mell. An inquest will be held Wednesday.

The baby's body also was identified by Cpl. Robert Mell of St. Louis, whom Mrs. Mell described as her common-law husband, and three persons from a Yuma auto court where the soldier and the young woman had been living since September. Mell, 20, is stationed at the Yuma air base.

Mrs. Mell, who obtained a divorce three weeks ago in St. Louis from Enoch Skelton, a Navy seaman, confirmed the statement given Arizona officials for California authorities, Lyons said.

Mrs. Mell is the daughter of Mrs. Betty Siegal, 3319 Abner place. While a 15-year-old high school sophomore, she eloped with Skelton, then 20, and was married Dec. 12, 1941, at the City Hall. Her child was born July 28, 1943, at St. Anthony's Hospital. She obtained a divorce last April 27.

Mell is the son of Mrs. Grace Mell, 2225A South Jefferson avenue.

FUEL STOCKS LOWEST SINCE START OF WAR
... Says ICKES

It's going to be a long winter, and a cold one, for many people, judging from the report of Secretary Ickes, who states that the level of fuel stocks in consumer storage on April 1 was the lowest since the start of the war.

A disturbing report to say the least. Better order your smokeless SOLARITE or CARBONITE NOW! One empty fuel bin is negligible, you think, but when yours and yours and the other fellows' are empty, someone is going to suffer. What are you going to do about it? MORE EVIDENCE SOUGHT IN BEHEADING OF WOMEN

SEDALIA, Mo., May 22.—Investigators of the State Highway Patrol were combing the eight-room home and 275-acre farm of Edgar Holland near LaMonte today in an effort to collect additional evidence in the killing of Holland's wife and mother-in-law, whose headless bodies were found in the Lake of the Ozarks a month ago.

The patrolmen assigned to the investigation established headquarters here yesterday and Col. M. Stanley Ginn, superintendent of the patrol, said they would work with Leo J. Harned, Pettis County prosecutor, "on any point he wants to investigate."

Holland was charged Saturday with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Molly Holland, 36 years old, but no charge has been filed in the death of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Pearl Fairfax, 59, who lived with them. He has denied any connection with the killings.

Allied gains against Nazi forces in Italy are indicated by arrows. American patrols entered Terracina, on the coast, but were forced to withdraw; other Yanks took Mount San Biagio on the inland front while Allied units cut the Pontecorvo-Pico road and seized Mount Leucio. Fighting was reported at Pico and in Piedimonte.

GERMANS THROW IN LAST RESERVES SOUTH OF ROME

the lower edge of the Liri valley, smashing through barbed wire entanglements, headquarters said.

The Germans were said to be putting up strong resistance to the Eighth Army's attack on the main defenses of the Hitler line all across the Liri valley. A renewed American thrust southwest of Pico in the center of the front likewise was strongly opposed.

(The German high command said Allied forces "had repeatedly succeeded in entering Pico," but had been "thrown out in immediate counterthrusts."

Liri Valley Fighting.

Poles of the Eighth Army burst into Piedimonte on the north side of the Liri valley west of Cassino, and were mopping up trapped Germans.

Polish infantry and tanks, supported by the British from the south, had virtually encircled the town yesterday. An official report said that enemy troops in the town were surprised by the movement and many were taken prisoner.

At the lower edge of the Liri valley, the Allies punched into the outskirts of Pontecorvo.

(The Germans acknowledged heavy pressure at Pontecorvo, and said the Allies had been repelled northwest of that town, with Allied bridgeheads "set up across the Liri yesterday" being wiped out. A Swiss broadcast said Pontecorvo had been taken by the Eighth Army.)

A headquarters spokesman said Allied losses had been "considerable" but not too high in relation to results achieved and the extreme casualties inflicted on the Germans.

The total of the prisoners taken since the offensive was launched has now gone well beyond 6,000.

The Americans in their drive to Terracina had cleared most of the mountain obstacles separating them from the forces in the Anzio beachhead and had reached the edge of the Pontine marshes, parts of which have been flooded and made impassable by the Germans.

Strong natural positions still remain to the Germans to hamper the Allied advance up the Liri valley by way of Highway 6, the Via Casilina, from Cassino.

A headquarters spokesman declared that "when the enemy has been driven out of the Adolf Hitler line there are a number of natural defensive positions between Pontecorvo and Valmontone (45 miles northwest on Highway 6) on which the enemy may attempt to stabilize his position and obstruct our further advance.

"From a study of the map, two positions suggest themselves. First, about San Giovanni and Ceprano, and second, Ceccano-Frosinone.

"Astride Highway 6 at Valmontone there may be expected a strong defensive position which, according to aerial photos, runs through the mountains to Avezzano (about 40 miles to the northeast) and south from Valmontone, thence incorporating the Alban hills, to the sea (at the Anzio beachhead)."

"It is on this line that the battle for Rome no doubt will begin."

Aerial Activity.

Bad weather in the target areas caused cancellation of heavy bomber flights from Italian bases, but medium and light fighter bombers blasted communications behind the enemy lines and British Wellingtons early today bombed the harbors of Portoferraio and Piombino, terminals of the Elba-mainland ferry.

An enemy air attempt to raid the Allied positions was brought to disaster by a Spitfire squadron. The Spitfires intercepted 20 bomb-carrying FW-190s north of Anzio with ME-109s escorting. The British shot down eight of the FW-190s.

BEACHHEAD FORCE SCANNING HORIZON

By DANIEL DE LUCE

ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD, May 22 (AP).—The 1600-foot-high cape of Mount Circeo, 12 miles southeast of the beachhead, drew the eyes of thousands of Allied troops today as the belief grew it soon would be used as a signal tower by attacking American forces now at Terracina.

(Map measurements from the last announced Allied positions on the lower edge of the beachhead show 18 airline miles to Mount Circeo. This dispatch may indicate the beachhead line has been extended farther southeast along the coast.)

Rising steeply from the southern end of Paola Lagoon, Mount Circeo looks like a Gibraltar, and is known to the beachhead as "the island."

Terracina, on the Appian way northeast of Mount Circeo, lies at the base of 2300-foot Mount Reano, which also is another popular land mark among Allied forces here.

Terracina's occupation would outflank any enemy garrison on the cape.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESS GIVEN 5 YEARS ON DRAFT CHARGE

Joseph Leonard Kundl, 19-year-old member of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect who was convicted May 10 of refusal to report for a physical examination ordered by his draft board, was sentenced to five years in the El Reno (Okla.), Reformatory today by United States District Judge George H. Moore.

Judge Moore had delayed passing sentence to allow Kundl time to consider the advice of his father, Joseph H. Kundl, 7540 Thelma avenue, Normandy, who had urged his son to accept a non-combatant job in a hospital, which the court had offered instead of a prison sentence.

Young Kundl told the Court today that he had decided to abide by the wishes of his mother, and go to prison instead of accepting work in a hospital.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN IDENTIFIES SELF AS SOLDIER'S 'MARIE'

Miss Marie Costigan Writes Mother of Dead Man, Sends Her His Letters.

The search made by Mrs. Elizabeth G. Webber of Bangor, Me., for the St. Louis woman who befriended her soldier son, Sgt. Nelson E. Wilson, while he was stationed at Scott Field, ended today when Miss Marie B. Costigan of 4300A Nebraska avenue told officials of the American Red Cross here that she was the unknown "Marie" of whom the soldier wrote before he was killed in action.

Miss Costigan, 27 years old, daughter of Mrs. Albertine Costigan, said she met Sgt. Wilson through mutual friends at Scott Field. During the months from June 20 to Oct. 2, 1942, she said, they frequently went dancing and to motion pictures together. And when he was sent overseas, she wrote to him.

In his letters to his mother, Sgt. Wilson wrote of Marie, but he never disclosed her last name. After he was killed in action, Mrs. Webber asked the Red Cross here to attempt to find her son's "Marie." Miss Costigan saw the story of the search in the Post-Dispatch and called the Red Cross.

She has written to Mrs. Webber about her friendship with the soldier, she said, and has sent to his mother all the letters she received from him while he was overseas and also the letters she had written him and were returned to her after his death.

WLB PLEAS FAIL TO END EAST SIDE STEEL WALKOUT

attend any meeting to which they were invited.

However, the machinists are unwilling to attempt a settlement through a joint meeting, Lloyd Weber, business representative of the AFL union, said. It is their belief, he said, that a settlement could best be reached if the company's master mechanic would confer separately with the two unions. He said feeling between members of the two unions is so strong that an amicable joint meeting would be impossible.

"The machinists want assurance that they will get a fair break," he said, "before they will agree to return to work. They can be led back to work, but they cannot be driven back."

An unsuccessful joint meeting was held last Saturday. A meeting scheduled for yesterday was called off when management representatives were unable to attend. The dispute was certified last week to the WLB, but the board informed the three groups that no action would be taken in the matter until work was resumed. An appeal by the WLB last Friday for resumption of work was followed by a second appeal Saturday which stated the strike "is seriously interfering with the production of critical material necessary to the successful prosecution of the war."

OWNER, 2 OTHERS AT 400 CLUB ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Agents of the State Department of Liquor Control arrested the owner and two employes early yesterday after purchasing a fifth of whisky in the 400 Club at 3631 Grandel Square for $10.

Albert Freeman, Negro porter, who said he lived at 2844 Lawton boulevard, sold the liquor to the agents. When questioned, he said he had obtained the liquor from James Irvin Smith, Negro waiter. Smith admitted supplying Freeman with liquor to sell "on the side" and said he gave Freeman $1 for each bottle he sold for $10. Smith declined to state where he got the liquor.

Agents also arrested Joseph Keegan, owner, who gave his address at 3671A Ohio avenue. The three were booked for selling liquor without a license.

Man, 80, Found Hanged in Home.

John Mittelmeyer, 80 years old, was found dead yesterday, hanging by a rope, in the basement of his home at 4321 Haven street, where he lived with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hayden. Police were told by his daughter that he had been suffering a kidney ailment for some time.

CHURCHILL CONGRATULATES FORCES THAT TOOK PART IN RAID ON JAPS AT SOERABAJA

LONDON, May 22 (AP).

PRIME MINISTER WINSTON CHURCHILL yesterday sent a message of congratulations to Adm. Sir James Somerville, commander-in-chief of the Eastern Fleet, on the joint Allied raid by carrier-borne forces on Soerabaja, Java, principal Japanese Dutch East Indies base.

"I cordially congratulate you and your fleet, and especially the aircraft crews, upon the skillful execution and happy results of your operation against Soerabaja," the message said. "Please repeat my thanks to the United States, French and Dutch units which participated."

The raid, in which forces from the commands of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, Lord Louis Mountbatten, Southeast Asia commander, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, participated, was the first water-borne assault against the base which was lost to the Allies two years ago. Gen. MacArthur's Southwest Pacific headquarters announced yesterday in a special communique that the carrier planes attacked and damaged important oil and dock installations and hit 35,000 tons of shipping sheltering the Java harbor.

WOMAN DIES HIKING IN SNOW TO WIN A STEAK DINNER

Ohio Lover of 'Rugged West' Found Dead in Idaho Mountain Country.

CHALLIS, Idaho, May 22 (AP).—An Ohio woman who "liked the rugged West" was found dead in snow-covered mountain country 14 miles southwest of here Saturday, more than 36 hours after she had set out to win a steak dinner by hiking 20 miles.

Sheriff Lee Clark, who headed a party of trackers in an all-day search, said Mrs. Eva Roberta Gellispi, 21 years old, of Canton, O., had collapsed after she "ran up against a blind mountain."

Clad in two sweaters, hiking breeches and high-top boots, Mrs. Gellispi set out at 5 a. m. Friday for Bayhorse, a small mining community. She had hiked through the area three years ago with her husband, Joseph, now of the United States Navy, and returned three weeks ago with her sister-in-law, Ann Gellispi, 17.

The Sheriff's party picked up her tracks Saturday morning in snow which still is six feet deep in places. Search was delayed because the trail was lost often in swift mountain streams.

She had stopped once, to eat a sandwich, Clark said. She encountered rain, snow and below freezing temperatures.

The body was brought out by stretcher and will be taken to Marion, O. for burial.

Held for Illegal Sale of Liquor.

Wesley Robinson, Negro, who operates a shoe shine stand at Eighteenth and Market streets, was arrested yesterday after he sold a pint of whisky to an Army officer for $6. Robinson, who said he lived at 3020 Easton avenue, was booked for selling intoxicating liquor without Federal, State or city licenses.

NOW

If you're the type who thinks cold is invigorating . . . or, if you like to crawl into bed wearing your bathrobe over your pjs, then fuel shortages and uncertain delivery won't bother you. But if you're among the 99-66/100% who like a certain degree of comfort at least, you'll heed our warning and order your CARBONITE or SOLARITE NOW, because we've been warned that there will be less fuel . . . less transportation equipment for moving it . . . less manpower to deliver it than last winter, which, goodness knows, was bad enough—or have you forgotten? So . . . don't put it off . . . order now . . . buy on convenient terms if you like, but ORDER . . . and NOW.

Look Before You Step, Folks, when getting on or off cars and buses

There is only one more thing we can do to make it safer for you as you step aboard a Public Service street car or bus. That is to ask you to "Watch your step". . . or "Look before you step."

Step heights on all our new street cars and buses have been established by scientific methods. They are spaced right for the "natural step" of most of our passengers. All steps, on both old and new cars, are lighted for your safety at night.

So, neighbors, please do us a favor and "look before you step". . . just to be on the safe side.

MAY 28
MAY 31

There May Be Standing Room Only

At this crucial stage of the war, troop movements must go on, holiday or no

Also thousands of men and women in uniform will be going home on short leaves—possibly their last holiday at home for a long time to come.

This means extra heavy traffic for the railroads—so heavy, in fact, that there may not be enough seats or berths to accommodate all the civilians who desire to make trips over the Memorial Day period.

We are sincerely sorry that war needs keep us from having more equipment available, but we are sure you want the troops and others traveling on war-important jobs to get first call on what we have.

Travel will be extraordinarily heavy on May 26, 27, 28, 29, 30 and 31 . . . many passengers will have to stand . . . so, if possible, try to go and return before or after the dates indicated. Please avoid all unnecessary trips.

East St. Louisan Tells of Hard Fight to Hold Bougainville Hill

His Group Shot Six Japs Crawling Toward Them in Dark—23 Hours Under Fire, No Sleep.

By WILLARD C. HAHN
A War Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WITH UNITED STATES TROOPS ON BOUGAINVILLE, May 7 (by Mail)—Pfc. William L. Monte Jr., of East St. Louis, and Pfc. Harold A. Donovan of Belleville are riflemen in line companies which fought side by side on the battle-scarred ridge of Hill 700 and in recent heavy fighting helped stand off repeated Japanese attacks against our defensive positions.

Monte, whose parents live at 1702 Baugh avenue, told the correspondent of four sleepless nights and five nerve-wracking days on the hill, and of one period when he was under continuous fire for 23 hours without sleep.

"At the end of that time," he said, "we were sent down for a little sleep, and when we had a chance our nerves were so overwrought that we lay tossing on our blankets and listening to the sound of the firing. We went back still tired out.

"Our pillbox was on the north slope of the hill, facing the Japanese attacks and overlooking the valley where they formed for each new rush. There were five of us in the position and in addition to our rifles we had a Browning automatic rifle.

"At first, the Japs tried to knock us out with a mortar barrage, followed by machine-gun fire, after which they'd come crawling up the hill to finish us off. They tried mass attacks at dawn, sneak attacks at night, and daylight rushes. But, except for the first day or so, when they poured whole companies up the hill, they didn't have a chance.

"One dark night we were huddled in our pillbox, listening intently for any sound that might break the silence. One of us heard a slight scraping noise, and we called our command post on the communication phone and asked for flares. "In a matter of seconds a greenish-white light shot up over the darkened hill. The light revealed six or eight Japs crawling toward us with a heavy machine-gun. We opened up with the Browning, and the next morning found their bodies."

Donovan, who is the son of Mrs. Harold A. Donovan, chief probation officer of St. Clair County, had similar experiences in a nearby pillbox.

"There was so much firing going on everywhere you couldn't tell who shot which Japs," he said. "I guess we all got our share. I never was a warlike guy and I sure got a bellyful of fighting up there."

PFC. WILLIAM L. MONTE JR.

Donovan, 20 years old, graduated from Cathedral High School, Belleville, and attended the St. Louis University School of Commerce and Finance for a year. Monte, 24, attended George Rogers Clark High School in East St. Louis and was employed at the Woodson & Fennewald Live Stock Commission Co. before enlisting in November, 1941.

PARATROOPER HOME, HAD PART IN 3 MEDITERRANEAN DRIVES

Pfc. Roy H. Leake, a parachutist who descended on Sicily and Salerno from the skies and was in the first wave at Anzio, is home on leave for a visit with his stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gerking, 2210 South Eighteenth street.

His regiment is officially credited with killing more than 1000 Germans at Anzio during the 55 days they held the famous Herman Goering Division at bay. "The Anzio fighting was a screwy war," he said. "Many times we were so close to the enemy that only a wall separated us. On one occasion we were in a house on a road when there was a knock on the door and a Heinie walked in. He said he had gone after supplies and apparently entered the wrong house," Leake added.

A former printer, Pvt. Leake wears the Infantry Combat Medal in addition to the European Theater of Operations ribbon with stars for the Sicilian and Italian campaigns. As a demolitions man, he had the job of blowing up obstacles and neutralizing mines. "The Germans are devils at inventing booby traps and mines," he said. "One type, very hard to discover, when stepped on would send a bullet through the soldier's foot."

TRUCKERS ASKED TO REPORT OVERCHARGING FOR PARTS

Truck operators in the St. Louis area are asked to report to the Office of Defense Transportation any charges paid for new automotive parts which are in excess of OPA price ceilings, A. D. Mason, district manager of the Division of Motor Transport in the Paul Brown Buliding, announced today.

Reports of alleged violations made to his office Mason said, should contain the name of the truck operator, name and address of the dealer, date and time of the sale, type of parts bought, the OPA ceiling price, the price asked by the dealer, and the price paid. Excessive charges are contributing materially to increased cost of operating motor carriers, he said, and complaints regarding them have been numerous.

Leo J. Vogt, president of the Hess & Culbertson Jewelry Co., 826 Olive street, has been elected president of the Gemological Institute of America, it was announced today at the organization's headquarters in Los Angeles. Institute members include about 1000 gem experts and jewelry merchants in the United States and Canada.

Found Dead, Razor Near-By.

Henry James Burch, 48 years old, owner of a second-hand furniture store at 2621 Chouteau avenue, was found dead yesterday in his living quarters at the rear of the store by two customers who told police his throat was cut. A police investigation disclosed a straight razor near the body. No notes were found.

FORTRESS IS NAMED FOR SON OF FORMER ST. LOUIS A. P. MAN

Henry Jameson Is War Correspondent—Hank Jr. Completes Two Missions.

LONDON, May 11 (By Mail) (AP).—A new Flying Fortress has been named "Hank Jr." for the year-old son of Henry B. Jameson, formerly with the Associated Press in St. Louis, and now serving as an AP war correspondent in England.

Hank Jr. was born last May 26, two months after Hank Sr. went abroad, and father and son have never seen each other.

The Flying Fortress was brought into the picture recently when Hank Sr. was proudly showing photographs of his son around the officers' club at a bomber station. Somebody suggested a plane should be named for him, and Lt. Paul Bodi Jr., Racine, Wis., said he'd like to christen his new Fortress Hank Jr.

The plane came back from its first two missions without a scratch. Hank Sr. has adopted the crew, and promised them a party in London on completion of their first tour of operations.

Jameson joined the Associated Press after serving as city editor of the Abilene (Kan.) Reflector; served with the A. P. in Kansas City one year, and came to St. Louis in 1936. Mrs. Jameson and Hank Jr. are living in Burlington, Ia.

BRITISH SUBMARINE GETS NAZI SHIP INSIDE AEGEAN HARBOR

LONDON, May 22 (AP).—After waiting for three days outside an Aegean harbor waiting for a German coastal vessel to come out, the commander of a British submarine finally lost patience and went in after his quarry.

Surfacing in broad moonlight, the submarine moved up close to the harbor net defenses and torpedoed the ship, an official account of the incident said.

Shore batteries opened fire, but the submarine dived quickly and got away.

EAST ST. LOUISAN AT ANZIO MAKES DARING RAIDS ON NAZIS

Pvt. John Lemp Jr., whose family lives at 2131½ St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, is a member of an infantry patrol called the "Red Raiders," which has made daring raids into the German lines on the Anzio beachhead in Italy, a Fifth Army field correspondent reported in a dispatch received today.

It quotes Lemp as saying that the first six raids resulted in the capture of seven Germans, the killing of five others, and the wiping out of a grenade position, a machine-gun nest and an outpost, without casualties to the patrol.

sign a one-year contract with the Union.

President Roosevelt ordered seizure of the Hummer Co., which consists of three plant buildings and an administrative building, after the WLB referred the case to the White House for action on the concern's refusal to accede to the WLB order.

The WLB said the company was engaged 70 per cent in war materials manufacture. The Hummer concern manufactures propellers, carburetors and gun mounts for military aircraft, as well as farm supplies and machinery. One of the criticisms of the seizure of the Chicago properties of the Ward Co. was that they were not directly engaged in manufacture of war supplies.

The Army seized the Montgomery Ward Chicago properties last April 26 but returned them to the owner May 9, the same day an employes' election was held to determine a bargaining agent. The CIO union involved represented a majority, tabulation showed.

There was no connection between Ward's labor dispute in Chicago and the Springfield subsidiary's union dispute, but the maintenance of membership clause was involved in each case.

Joseph Winoski, Hummer shop committee chairman, said the WLB order also would have provided a four-cent hourly wage increase for most workers, seniority rights and arbitration of piecework rates.

Maj. A. H. Raskin, Army public relations officer, said under the April 14 WLB order, wage rates, with the general four cents-an-hour boost, would have ranged from 60 cents to $1.24 an hour. The WLB-approved scale will be paid under Government operation, he added.

The Hummer plant and Montgomery Ward declined immediate comment. Sewell Avery, chairman of the parent company, was reported enroute to Washington where hearing begin today before a House committee investigating the recent seizure of Ward's Chicago properties.

In the executive order issued yesterday, President Roosevelt said that he found and proclaimed that the facilities of the Hummer division "are equipped for the manufacture and production of articles and materials that are required for the war effort or that are useful in connection therewith; that there are existing and threatened interruptions of the operation of the said plants and facilities as a result of a labor disturbance caused by the failure of Montgomery Ward and Co., Inc., to comply with a directive order" to the WLB.

The Secretary of War was directed to observe the terms and conditions of the WLB order.

TEXT OF BOARD'S LETTER TO F.D.R.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in announcing yesterday that he had ordered Government seizure of Montgomery Ward's Hummer plant at Springfield, Ill., made the following announcement concerning a letter received by him from the chairman of the War Labor Board:

The President has received the following letter dated May 10, 1944, from the Honorable William H. Davis, chairman, National War Labor Board:

The board, by the unanimous vote of its industry, labor and public members, has referred to you the matter of defiance of the Hummer Manufacturing division of Montgomery Ward & Co., Inc., located at Springfield, Ill., of a War Labor Board directive order, dated April 14, 1944.

The Hummer Manufacturing division of Montgomery Ward & Co., Inc., manufacturers, carburetors, propellers and gun mounts for military aircraft, farm supplies and machinery, including repair parts. I am informed that approximately 70 per cent of the production is in war materiel.

The labor dispute between the company and the International Association of Machinists, Lodge 628, AFL, was certified to the National War Labor Board by the Secretary of Labor, pursuant to executive order 9017, on Aug. 11, 1942. The issues in dispute were heard by a tripartite panel, consisting of a representative of industry, labor and the public. On April 13, 1943, the panel filed its report, and on Aug. 26, 1943, the board issued a directive order determining the issues in dispute between the parties.

The company refused to comply with the provisions of the directive order, and the board assumed jurisdiction over the dispute under section 7 of the War Labor Disputes Act and summoned the parties to a public hearing before the board. The hearing was held on Jan. 20, 1944, and the parties were required to show cause why the terms and conditions of employment set forth in the board's directive order of Aug. 26, 1943, should not govern the relations between the parties. At the hearing, both parties were afforded an opportunity to argue anew the merits of the issues in dispute. Thereafter and on April 14, 1944, the board issued a directive order, copy attached, under the War Labor Disputes Act, fixing the terms and conditions of employment to govern the relations of the parties.

The company refused to comply with this directive order and instituted a suit against the board and the Director of Economic Stabilization.

The company's refusal to comply with the directive order, which was viewed as a threat to continued production, has resulted in an actual interruption in production. On May 5, 1944, all the production employes at this division, numbering 525, engaged in a work stoppage, which is still continuing. This interruption in production, has in turn, resulted in a curtailment of production at the Bendix aviation plant, for which Hummer is a sub-contractor. I am informed that Bendix is considering the removal of machine tools and dies from Hummer, for installation in other plants, in order to insure the receipt of needed turret parts for military aircraft.

In view of these circumstances, the board has no alternative but to refer this case to you for such action as you may deem appropriate.

ASSERTS TEXANS SUSPECT SON OF F.D.R. IN REA CASE

Ex-Head of Co-operative Says Delay on Brazos Project Is Laid to Elliott Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—Lt. (jg) Clyde T. Ellis, former executive manager of the National Rural Electrification Co-operative Association, testified today that the 'people in Texas have suspected the hand of Elliott Roosevelt" in the delay of a Rural Electrification Administration project because of 'his friendship with the Texas Light & Power Co."

Appearing before the Senate committee investigating the REA, Ellis said operations of the Brazos River Transmission Co-operative in Texas were held up three months because of REA Administrator Harry Slattery's refusal to approve a contract for the sale of power. This resulted, Ellis said, in a loss of $180,000 to the project.

(Headquarters of the REA are in the Boatman's Bank Building in St. Louis.)

Committee Counsel Carroll L. Beedy commented that this was the project about which Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, "wrote to Steve Early in the White House to delay action on the contract." Beedy said the letter had been placed in evidence some time ago.

'The Brazos people have been unable to figure out why the contract was held up," Ellis testified. "They have suspected the hand of Elliott Roosevelt in there."

A letter to President Roosevelt date May 8, 1943, and signed by Steve C. Tate, as president of the N. R. E. C. A., Avery Moore as acting secretary-treasurer of the association, and Ellis as its executive manager, was entered as evidence. It included a demand of the three association officers that Slattery 'must go, (as REA administrator) and quickly; otherwise we are faced with immediate explosions and investigations in the Congress and as candal of major importance."

Elliott Roosevelt now is a Colonel in the Army Air Forces.

Cards Won 11 of 16 Home Games; Browns Dropped 12 of 17 on Road

Birds to Open First Eastern Campaign in Brooklyn Wednesday

By Dent McSkimming

Victory in one game of their doubleheader with the New York Giants at Sportsman's Park yesterday gave the Cardinals a record of 11 victories as against five defeats during their 15-day stand at home and left them with a lead of three and one-half games as they depart for the East.

Their first action on the road will be at Brooklyn, Wednesday.

The Redbirds came from behind to win the opening game, yesterday, 10 to 3, but dropped the second, 7 to 5, after having taken a 4-2 lead. They thus won the series from the Giants, two games to one.

In view of what the weather man predicted, and in further view of what actually happened, the Cardinals are fortunate to have completed two games. Heavy, black clouds piled in from the south and west before noon, leaving little doubt there would be rain. Still, there were 10,031 cash customers in the park, willing to take a chance on getting wet.

The rain held off until the Cards were at bat in the fourth inning of the first game and then it all came down at once. Play was not resumed until 47 minutes later, and even then rain was falling. However, the sun broke through again and there was no further interruption.

Each game approached two hours and a quarter in actual playing time so that the show which started at 1:30 p. m. was not completed until nearly 7:15.

That provided plenty of time for some interesting developments, some of them rather surprising.

On the Cardinal side, there was reason for disappointment in the pitching performances of Harry Brecheen and Al Jurisich. The wind blowing from the plate straight toward the pitcher may have taken something out of Brecheen's favorite pitch, the fadeaway. At any rate, he had to be jerked out of the game by Manager Southworth after having pitched to only five batters. He retired only one. The other four smacked him lustily, so that the Redbirds were three runs down before they could come to bat.

Jurisich, starting pitcher in the second game, was driven out of the box in the seventh when a walk was followed by two line singles and one run. Previously, the Giants had scored two runs on Jurges' walk and Ott's home run.

With plenty of pitching talent available now for relief duty, the Cardinals can salvage games in which their starting hurler falters, as they did for Brecheen in the first game. But, when some of the present staff members report for military duty, which may be soon in the cases of Munger and Gumbert, the salvage job may not be so well done.

As to the Giants, the afternoon's action brought one significant turn. Manager Mel Ott was forced finally to give up on the young shortstop Buddy Kerr. His two errors in the first game aided in the Cardinal run scoring so the Giants' manager shook up his team for the second game and obtained better results. He sent Bill Jurges back to shortstop, benched Kerr, and played third base himself. Now it would appear that Ott will try to continue with the infield that finished the game, that is to say with Reyes at third base, Jurges at short, Luby second and Weintraub at first.

Ott, one of the greatest money players ever developed, set a fine example for his team by belting Cardinal pitchers for four doubles and a home run, driving in three runs and scoring three himself.

As previously related, Brecheen couldn't fool anybody at the start of the first game, and had to do a fadeaway himself. The Redbirds pecked away at Reuben Fischer's offerings until they tied the score in the third inning and after Fischer went out they kept banging away at Louis Americus Polli (one-time Brownie pitcher) and Frank Seward, for a combined total of 12 hits and 10 runs and victory.

Meanwhile, Fred Schmidt rescued Brecheen and retired for a pinch batter after one and two-thirds good innings. Ted Wilks followed and allowed only two hits in seven innings. That's what pitching reserves—in depth—can do.

Sanders, with four hits, including a double, and Musial, with two hits including a triple, were the batting stars of that game.

In the second episode, when Jurisich threatened to blow a 4-2 advantage in the seventh, Southworth thought he had another "stopper" as good as Wilks. He chose Munger, who recently pitched so brilliantly against Boston. But this time Munger was just another pitcher. Ott greeted him with a double, scoring the tying run, and Medwick's long fly brought home another.

They touched Munger up for single runs in the eighth and ninth and then the Cards threw a scare into Ott by rallying in the ninth after one was out. Garms' single, Hopp's walk and Musial's single scored a run but Ace Adams, who had taken up the pitching in the seventh inning, settled back into stride and retired the next two batters on fly balls.

Two Tie for Golf Honors.

Irvin Beno, representing the James R. Kearney No. 1 team, and Ray Riggin, of General Cable No. 1 team, finished the Y. M. C. A. Industrial golf tournament qualifying round in a tie for low score. Each shot a 76 over the Crystal Lake course. Wagner Electric won the team trophy.

Municipal Horseshoe Results.

In spite of a gusty, strong wind that made accurate pitching difficult, Gene Wors attained a ringer average of 70.5 to lead the pitchers in yesterday's Municipal Horseshoe eague matches on the north side. However, the Gene Wors Fire Fighters dropped their game to Joe Wors team (Smith Confectionery), 50 to 44, and lost the series, 7 games to 9. A. M. Freund team climbed into second place by defeating Security Fire Door, 10 to 6.

Tigers and Cubs Snatch The Baseball Spotlight

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers and the Chicago Cubs nudged the Yankees and the Cardinals out of the major league limelight yesterday. The Bengals swept a doubleheader from Washington to run their winning streak to six straight and climb into the American League first division.

Charley Grimm's Chicago Cubs surprised by blasting the Boston Braves, 15 to 1 and 14 to 5 at Wrigley Field. Al Javery, Braves' starting pitcher, was banished in the third inning of the second game for disputing Umpire Jocko Conlan's calling of balls.

Dizzy Trout and Hal Newhouser turned in two fine pitching performances to whip the Senators, 2 to 1 and 7 to 1, at Washington in the latest development of their road winning streak that started in Philadelphia last Wednesday night, when an error let Trout beat Bobo Newsom, of the A's, in a 2-1 struggle. Trout has pitched two of the six games with Rufus Gentry, Johnny Gorsica, Stubby Overmire and Newhouser also going the route in the other games.

The Boston Red Sox wound up their home stand by whipping the Chicago White Sox twice, 4 to 3 and 9 to 2, to sweep a four-game series. The double setback dumped Chicago into the cellar.

Cincinnati shoved Brooklyn deeper into seventh place in the National loop by winning a doubleheader, 5 to 3 and 6 to 5. Gee Walker's single with two out won the nightcap, which went 10 innings.

Cleveland made it three straight over Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics by taking the first game of a twin bill, 5 to 4, in 11 innings but dropped the nightcap, 3 to 2, on Steve Gromek's wild pitch in the eighth. George Kell of the A's scored from second on the errant heave. In the opener Bobo Newsom fanned 12 batters, but still was the losing pitcher.

Frank Colman's pinch triple in the eighth gave Pittsburgh a 4 to 3 triumph over the Phillies in the first game of their twin bill at Pittsburgh. The Phils were ahead, 9 to 4, in the second game when it was called after the eighth inning because of the Sunday curfew law. The last inning will be played the next time the Phils visit Pittsburgh.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Mr. Rickey's Prediction Comes True.

MAX LANIER, steaming along in front of the pitching parade like a man headed for a record, is wondering how far he will be able to carry on. . . . He's 1-A in the draft and is facing a call for his physical.

At this writing Lanier has won six (losing none) of the 30 games played by the Redbirds. . . . At this rate he figures to win 30 or more games during a full campaign—or, allowing for slumps by the team, let's say 25. . . . His best previous season was last year, when he had a record of 15-7.

Lanier is the No. 1 pitcher of both leagues today and his record was enhanced Saturday night to read as follows:

W.	L.	IP.	H.	R.	BB.	SO.

Here's a success story that speaks for itself. . . . Besides a perfect winning record, Lanier has fanned almost three and one-half times as many batters as he has walked. . . . And the enemy has averaged only a fraction over two runs (earned and unearned) per game. That's super pitching.

Saturday night's victory brought Max's major league pitching record since he joined the team in 1939 to the following totals:

This establishes one Branch Rickey definitely as a true prophet. . . . Rickey, when Max first came up from Columbus, told listening scribes that Lanier had more stuff than any prospect he had ever watched and should become a great pitcher, some day.

For Lanier, it's D day. . . . He has gone over the top in a big way. . . . How long he'll be allowed to carry on depends on his service future. . . . Max has three children, but this would not prevent induction if he passes his physical examination. . . . While he seems healthy enough he has on several occasions suffered violent attacks of appendicitis, but has never been operated on.

Score Card Cost Goes Up, Why Not These?

THE cost of baseball score cards having doubled, at Sportsman's Park, the idea may be picked up by other persons who deal with John Q. Public, but who all the while have been overlooking a similar squeeze play. . . . In line with this idea may we not expect to see these charges develop in the following businesses:

BRANCH RICKEY, who, when general manager of the Cardinals in 1939, predicted that Max Lanier would become one of the game's great pitchers.

BANK—Use of counter while making a deposit, 25 cents.

BUTCHER—For cleaning a purchase of crappie, 10 cents.

RESTAURANT — Five cents charge for a menu.

THEATER—For usher services, 25 cents; for cast of characters in the play, 10 cents.

BOOK STORE—For use of catalogue, a dime.

BARBER SHOP — Fifteen cents for conversation; 25 cents without.

GROCER — Sugar, 6 cents; without ants, 10 cents.

SHOE STORE—For each try-on, 10 cents. If no purchase, 15 cents.

PANTS PRESS (while you wait)—Fifteen cents, extra for booth.

HOT DOG—With horseradish or mustard, 3 cents extra.

Street car—Strap to hang on, 3 cents, two for 5.

And so on, ad infinitum.

THESE WEIRD RULES are giving baseball fans the rickets. . . . A few nights ago the Cardinals played seven innings of a game. . . . Then, because the opposing team had to catch a train, the game was called. . . . Under a new rule the other two innings will be played off later.

Yesterday the Cubs' second game ended after 7½ innings because of darkness. . . . Still it goes as a completed game!

Also, a curfew law yesterday stopped the Pirates-Blue Jays game after eight innings. . . . But it goes as an unfinished game and the remaining inning must be played later.

Sounds as daffy as an income tax blank.

Kutis, Zenthoefer Win Softball Games

The 1944 softball season got off to an auspicious start at St. Louis Softball Park last night before approximately 1500 fans as last year's park playoff winners were both shutout in opening games. Kutis winning 2-0 over the Weicks in the girls' game and the Zenthoefers upsetting Kutis 3-0 in the men's contest.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.

Kutis 2-6-2, Weicks 2-4-2 (girls).
Zenthoefers 3-3-2, Kutis 0-4-2 (men).

TONIGHT'S SCHEDULE.

Pop Kolas vs. Zenthoefers, 7:30 o'clock (girls).

Emerson Electric vs. Mural Room, 9 o'clock (men).

Harlow Under Medical Care at Navy Hospital

PHILADELPHIA, May 22 (AP).—Lt. Comdr. Richard Cresson (Dick) Harlow, Harvard football coach on military leave, was revealed today to have been taking medical treatments at the Naval Hospital here for the last month.

The former Penn State player and Penn State, Colgate and Western Maryland coach, came here from the West Coast, suffering from high blood pressure. His condition is reported greatly improved and, following completion of the treatments, he will rest at his Westminster (Md.) home before being reassigned. He has dropped to 195 pounds from the 240 he weighed when he entered the service in November, 1942.

Dr. Thompson said the committee discussed eligibility rules, but that no changes were made.

Flesch and Bomar Win Pin Honors

CHICAGO, May 22 (AP).—Bill Flesch and Buddy Bomar of Chicago last night won the national doubles match game bowling championship with a total of 16 points, three ahead of Wally Reppenhagen and Bill Kenet of Detroit.

Former champions Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., and Rudy Pugel of Milwaukee finished a surprising last in the field of six finalists who survived the preliminaries in which 36 of the nation's top two-man teams were entered.

In third place was another Chicago entry, Joe Sinke and Paul Krumske with 12 points. Mel Schwoegler and Sgt. Ed Easter of Madison, Wis., scored 11 points for fourth spot, while last year's winners, Nelson Burton and Frank Mataya of St. Louis, placed fifth. The St. Louisans had an 11-point total, but trailed Schwoegler-Easter in pins by 36.

The tourney was conducted on a point rather than total pins basis, one point being awarded for every game won and another for outscoring an opponent in pins in a three-game block.

Day, national singles title holder, and his partner, Pugel, had captured the championship two months ago in a chalienge match with Burton and Mataya.

Finals standings:

	W.	T.P.	Pts.	Prize.
Flesch-Bomar	11	7,231	16	$600
Reppenhagen - Kenet	9	7,264	13	400
Sinke-Krumske	10	7,281	12	300
Schwoegler-Easter	9	7,109	11	225
Burton-Mataya	7	7,071	11	200
Day-Pugel	8	6,856	9	175

Burton and Mataya showed best against the Reppenhagen-Kenet and Schwoegler-Easter combines, counting three points against both of them.

BURTON-MATAYA SCORES.

Against Schwoegler-Easter — Burton 200, 194, 192—586; Mataya 216, 199, 191—606—1192.
Against Flesch-Bomar — Burton 198, 187, 171—556; Mataya 171, 170, 169—510.
Against Day-Pugel—Burton 228, 184, 182—544; Mataya 175, 191, 216—582.
Against Reppenhagen-Kenet — Burton 203, 209, 187—599; Mataya 235, 265, 193—693.
Against Sinke-Krumske—Burton 199, 202, 224—625; Mataya 191, 178, 224—593.

Day and Pugel won their $1000 match with Burton and Frank Mataya of St. Louis by shooting a 12-game total of 5010 against the ex-titlists' 4627. The performance, coupled with their 4890 in the first block Thursday night, gave Day and Pugel a grand total of 9900 for 24 games—533 pins ahead of the Burton-Mataya combine's 9367.

Scott Field and Lambert Winners

Two teams representing military establishment in the St. Louis area showed real batting and pitching power in winning a couple of non-league games, yesterday.

Scott Field, entering the baseball field for the first time in five seasons, walloped Emerson Electric's hurlers, Orville Paul, Harold Fifield and Bill Beckmann, collecting 17 hits and a 9-to-5 victory. Shelton went all the way for the Army post team.

At Manchester, Mo., Emil Kush and Ken Mason, pitching for Lambert Field Wings, held the home team to five hits as the Flyers won, 8 to 1. Vic Heim and Bob Grant were the Wings' batting leaders.

O'Donnell Takes Lead In Bowling Classic

Art O'Donnell, with an eight-game total of 1662, took the lead in the junior bowling classic at the Kaley Recreation over the week end. He was closely followed by William Sablatnik with 1659. Pat Serrold followed with 1635, Ed Pitzel had 1634 and Joe Gallia 1630. D. Schumacher of Crystal City, 1601, for ninth place, had the best score among the out-of-town contestants. Bernard Hearin had a 267 for high single.

Sewell's Men, Back In Second Place, to Play Red Sox Next

By W. J. McGoogan
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

EN ROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, May 22.—Limping back home today, the Browns, proud possessors of the longest opening winning streak of any American League team, are just barely above the .500 mark, but they're still second, as they look forward to a home stand, beginning Wednesday night with the Boston Red Sox, to put them back on their winning ways.

Since leaving home on May 4, the club has played 17 games. It has won but five, while losing 12.

The team is only two and a half games from first place, but the sad part of that is, that they were just that far ahead of the Yankees when they left home in first place with 12 victories and three defeats. All of which means that they dropped a total of five contests to their rivals in less than three weeks.

The Browns had not lost a series until they left home. They did not win a set in the last five, losing four while tying one.

Base Hits Are Needed.

No one has any satisfactory answer for the team's failures except that the club has not been hitting. The Browns have not been hitting when hits meant runs and they have had few extra base blows. On top of that, they beat themselves in many of the 12 losses. They used to say about the Yankees, "You can beat the Yankees, but they won't beat themselves," and it's sad, but true, about the Browns. You can go through the record of those 12 defeats and find many a headache, where somebody did the wrong thing at bat or in the field.

All of which brings up an old baseball axiom. That is, the team which is losing the close ones is a second division ball club.

Now that doesn't mean that the Browns are that bad, but all you have to do is look at yesterday's double loss to the Yankees, 4 to 3 in 12 innings in the opener and 8 to 1 in the second contest, to see how things are going.

Bob Muncrief, who has never beaten the Yankees in his career, was the starting pitcher, while Hank Borowy, one of Joe McCarthy's aces, pitched in the first game. They hooked up in a hurling duel right from the start.

Metheny Gets Fourth Homer.

Muncrief yielded two runs in the first inning, one of them being Bud Metheny's fourth homer of the season. Then he pitched 10 great scoreless innings. He got into jams but only the fine natural stuff he possesses and his own courage got him out of them.

Meanwhile the Browns pecked away at Borowy and, taking advantage of everything, they tied the score in the eighth inning. Then in the twelfth, with two out, Gutteridge was safe on an error and singles by Zarilla and Moore sent him over the plate with what looked like the winning run.

Rosenthal batted for Borowy in the Yanks' half and grounded out. Then Stirnweiss hit a ball a little too far to Stephens' right for Junior to get and it went for a single. Metheny, a thorn to Muncrief all afternoon, with a homer and two singles, was retired on a foul. Stirnweiss, however, stole second, aided by Mancuso's high throw. A wild pitch put Stirnweiss on third.

Levy fell away from a pitch with two strikes on him and blooped a hit to right, which scored Stirnweiss with the tying run. Levy reached second and Otten was purposely passed, as he had been two times previously, but this time Savage beat out a slow roller to Christman and the bases were filled.

Caster Forces In Run.

Manager Luke Sewell called in George Caster, his star relief pitcher, and George proceeded to walk Lindell, getting over only one strike, to force in Levy with the winning run.

Well, that was enough and what happened in the second contest was not at all surprising. All the pep was gone from the Browns and Joe Page easily subdued them with three hits, while Tex Shirley, the Browns' starter, and Galehouse, his relief, were wild and ineffective so that the Yankees waltzed home with the victory.

Brownie Notes.

Ernie White, former Cardinal southpaw, now in the Army, was in New York on furlough and pitched to the Browns in batting practice as did Mace Brown, now a Navy commissioned officer who played with the Red Sox.

The paid attendance was 54,725, the largest crowd of the season at Yankee Stadium and according to Charley DeWitt, traveling secretary, the largest the Browns ever played to.

McQuinn played in the first game because Ellis Clary injured his finger in fielding practice and Sewell wanted to keep Clary out of the lineup. But George retired in the second, Christman going back to first.

Mike Kreevich, just barely recovered from his attack of influenza, played the closing contest, while Frank Demaree, suffering from a swollen elbow, started but had to retire.

After the games, the Browns had to rush for a train and, in the absence of taxicabs, pressed a truck into service, which hauled everybody to the station.

Managers Will Select All-Star Game Players

PITTSBURGH, May 22 (AP).—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis met with major league presidents and other baseball officials yesterday and completed plans for the all-star game to be played at Forbes Field at 9 p. m., Tuesday, July 11. In case of a postponement, the game will start at 1:30 p. m. the next day.

Net proceeds, including a $25,000 radio broadcast fee, will go to the baseball equipment fund of the United States armed forces.

Each league's team will be selected by the eight managers and will consist of a manager, 25 players, two coaches, batting practice pitcher and catcher, and one trainer. Billy Southworth and Joe McCarthy will be managers.

Tickets will range from $4.80 for box seats to $1.20 for left-field bleachers near the scoreboard. Forbes Field has a seating capacity of 40,000.

Names of players on the American League team will be announced the morning of July 3, and of National League players that afternoon.

Kellers Open Muny Schedule With Victory

The perennially strong Keller Drug team opened its 1944 Municipal baseball season yesterday with a 17 to 2 victory over St. Louis Shipyards team, in a Senior South Side League match at Carondelet Park. Norvall Hunthausen, who in previous seasons has pitched brilliant ball for St. Louis U. High, then Notre Dame University, and later for Jefferson Barracks, was back on the hill for his old team, the Kellers, and held the Shipbuilders to seven scattered hits.

Two abbreviated junior games brought out no-hit performances. Joe Becker, pitching for St. George, held Olive Laundry hitless in their six-inning game and fanned 10; Jerry Ahrens, of Kutis, allowed no hits and struck out 12 of the Red Wings, in their five-inning game.

Frog Sets New Mark In Jumping Contest

ANGELS CAMP, Cal., May 22 (AP).—"Maggie," owned by Merlin Fisher, 13, Stockton, Cal., is the international jumping frog champion. "Maggie" set a new world's record of 16 feet 2 inches yesterday in the seventeenth annual event.

The former record was 15 feet 10 inches, held by "Zip," owned by Eddie Robinson, also of Stockton. "Zip" also broke the old record yesterday with a leap of 16 feet.

A crowd of 5000 persons witnessed the event which was featured by the unveiling of a statue of Mark Twain, whose story "The Jumping Frog of Calaveras" brought fame to this community.

Armstrong Favored To Win From Perry

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP). —Old Hammerin' Henry Armstrong, whose "perpetual motion" tactics have slowed down somewhat with the years, takes on Aaron Perry, 18-year-old Washington hopeful with a dynamite punch, tonight in Washington's first outdoor bout of the season.

Armstrong, recent victor over Ralph Zanelli in Boston in a fight billed as the "welterweight duration championship," of Massachusetts rates about a 2-1 favorite over the local "Cinderella Kid."

11-Letter Athlete Is Missing in Action

AURORA, Ill., May 22 (AP).—Ens. William Schatzer, 24, former Mooseheart, Ill., high school athlete and an 11-letter winner at North Central College, Naperville, Ill., has been reported missing in action in the Southwest Pacific, his mother, Mrs. Flora Schatzer of Lewistown, Pa., notified Mooseheart officials yesterday.

Schatzer played fullback on the 1942 Iowa Seahawks football team. His wife is the former Suzanna Truesdell of Detroit, to whom he was married last year, two days after receiving his commission.

Stalemate in War Plant League.

The War Plant League of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Association experienced the worst day of its history yesterday when neither game of the scheduled doubleheader at Heman Park, University City, was completed. Standard Steel failed to put a full team on the field and after a half-hour delay the umpires forfeited the match to Wagner Electric. The second game had gone only two and one-half innings when it was rained out. Curtiss-Wright and McDonnell Aircraft were the contestants.

Gets Third Plane

MAJ. VAL W. BOLLWERK

Maj. Val W. Bollwerk of St. Louis, flight commander of a Lightning fighter plane group based in England, destroyed a German plane on the ground during an Allied ground-strafing onslaught across Western Europe yesterday, an Associated Press dispatch stated.

The officer shot down two Nazi planes last March while accompanying bombers on raids over Europe.

Maj. Bollwerk, 25 years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Val J. Bollwerk, 3415A Utah street. He holds the Air Medal and two Oak Leaf Clusters for operational sorties over enemy-occupied territory.

EUROPEANS GIVEN MORE ORDERS BY GEN. EISENHOWER

identified? Are there any road blocks? If so, is there any way around them? If main roads are not usable, what are the alternative routes? Are fields passable to an ordinary motor car?

On Woods and Streams.

"The next is about woods. Are there any large or small woods close by here? Have any been cut down recently? Are these woods full of undergrowth or could Army transport be hidden in them? Are there any paths and are they passable to an ordinary motor car?

"The next is about rivers and streams. How deep is the water? Is the bottom muddy? Are the banks steep?

"Information about bridges might be wanted. Are they strong enough for the heaviest lorries? Are there any fords? If so, can motor cars and tractors cross them?

"The next is about possible spaces for landing aircraft. Any piece of level unobstructed ground 40-meters or more in length is available if—and this is most important—there is no high obstruction such as trees on the side from which aircraft would approach. Normally that side is opposite to the direction of the prevailing wind.

"By the way, leaflets giving these instructions more fully are being dropped from aircraft. The Germans may scatter fake leaflets. You can recognize the Allies' leaflets because they duplicate the instructions just given you."

Nazi Reprisal Threat.

The threat of reprisals against those who help the Allies came from the Vichy radio.

"Consider carefully before you listen to Gen. Eisenhower," said Philippe Henriot, Vichy Information Minister, in a broadcast in direct answer to Eisenhower's radio statement of Saturday. "The Allied invasion is a gamble and its success is a very open question."

The Germans again sent reconnaissance planes over Britain in another of their almost nightly attempts to find clews to the Allies' invasion plans. These planes flew over north and northeast Scotland and Southeast England. Bombs caused casualties and damage in one Kent town.

Pravda Comment.

An article in the Russian communist newspaper Pravda, broadcast by the Moscow radio, told the Germans that advances in Italy showed "the Allies are capable of breaking any defense and possess sufficient forces to do so."

The "hostilities in Italy are regarded not as an isolated operation, but as the beginning of a general offensive in this theater," the Pravda article declared, asserting realization of this is what "alarms the Germans so much."

"The nervousness and obvious confusion of the Germans in connection with the situation in Italy show how ripe and how favorable the situation is for striking a blow from the west," Pravda said.

"The Germans cannot fail to realize that the Italian front is inseparably bound with the imminent invasion. Meanwhile the tension which the Germans experience in the east does not lessen. It increases."

Denmark is the most logical landing point for Allied troops to strike because it would provide a bridge for operations directly against Germany, the Nazi military writer Heinz Bongarz declared in an article in the Bruesseler Zeitung.

Alfred Klein, Game Hunter, Dies.

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—The death of Alfred J. Klein, hunter of big game and former member of the scientific staff of the American Museum of Natural History, in Nairobi, Kenya Colony, East Africa, was announced yesterday. Klein left New York for Africa 34 years ago and returned only for two brief visits. He was noted as a lion hunter—his last known total bag was 120.

MISTRIAL MOVE DENIED IN VON GONTARD TRIAL

Government Expects to Complete Presentation of Case Today.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Assistant United States District Attorney J. Gerard Cregan announced that he expected to complete presentation today of the Government's case against Gert Hans von Gontard, grandson of the late Adolphus Busch, founder of the St. Louis brewery fortune, and three codefendants charged with conspiracy to violate the Selective Service Act. It was the fourteenth day of the trial, which began May 2 before United States District Judge Murray Hulbert.

The others on trial with Von Gontard are Dr. Arnold Aaron Hutschneker, his former physician; Army Lt. Francis X. Grottano, a former city detective, and Michael Mangano.

At the opening of proceedings today, Judge Hulbert overruled motions of defense counsel asking him to declare a mistrial on the ground that the testimony of two witnesses was prejudicial and prevented fair consideration by the jury.

The Government had consented to a defense request to strike from the record statements of Miss Jessie Matthews and Branislaw Nelken.

Miss Matthews' testimony was interrupted after defense objection was sustained to an account given by Nelken as to the character of an establishment she formerly maintained in New York, patronized, he said, by Von Gontard, Dr. Hutschneker and himself. Cregan said today he would not recall Miss Matthews, now an inmate of the Federal Women's Reformatory at Alderson, W. Va.

After carefully explaining that Miss Matthews' brief testimony was to be ignored entirely and also Nelken's as far as it concerned the establishment Nelken mentioned in direct examination, Judge Hulbert polled the jury, receiving a reply from each juror that the testimony had in no way aroused prejudice against the defendants.

Dr. William Sugarman, draft board physician who examined Von Gontard when he reported Jan. 6, 1943, at Grand Central Palace, New York induction center, testified he found the inductee normal in every respect, but instructed him to return the next day with hospital records when Von Gontard related a history of a chronic gall bladder inflammation. He also recommended that further consideration of Von Gontard's condition should be made by one of the consulting physicians of the examining board.

WLB HEAD SAYS WARD'S SEIZURE WAS NECESSARY

Act provided adequately for all emergencies, adding that if he is mistaken then in his opinion there ought to be a new law.

Nationwide Operation.

Davis said Ward's operates in 47 states and employs 78,000 persons. He said it was one of two big mail order houses supplying 33 per cent of all farmers' drygoods needs, more than 20 per cent of their motorized equipment, 26 per cent of their automotive accessories, 25 per cent of their paint requirements.

"I should not think," the WLB chairman testified, "there would be any doubt that a company which fills the needs of the American farm population is a major factor in the national wartime economy."

Davis emphasized "if you've got a significant strike—I mean one significant in numbers and publicity—you've got to stop it, because the people just can't tell the difference between permitted and prohibited strikes."

Davis said that anybody who doesn't support the no-strike, nolockouts program "is doing less than his duty to his country. I don't care whether he's on the labor side or the industry side. He's not a good citizen."

Seized After WLB Citation.

It was the WLB which cited the Ward Co. to President Roosevelt for refusal to carry out its strike settlement orders. Army seizure of the plant and ejection of Sewell Avery, Ward chairman, followed. The action brought expressions of resentment in Congress and demands for the investigation on the ground that the mail order house is not in war production and thus not under the provisions of the Smith-Connally Act, cited in the seizure.

Chairman Ramspeck (Dem.), Georgia, of the Investigating Committee told a reporter his group does not intend to go into the Army seizure of the Hummer plant at Springfield, Ill. He said the legislation creating his committee restricted the inquiry to the events in Chicago.

Representative Dewey agreed with the chairman, saying "there doesn't seem to be any doubt that Hummer was in war production and the Smith-Connally Act applies to such conditions."

Big U. S. Bombers Attack Kiel and Invasion Coast

attacks on multiple targets in France and Germany.

Located at the confluence of the Rhine and Ruhr rivers, Duisburg is connected with Dortmund by the Rhine-Herne canal, and with German North Sea ports by way of the Dortmund-Ems canal. It also is an important rail center.

Through Duisburg pass vast quantities of heavy freight, including coal, iron and steel for both Germany and Italy. Hannover is the most important German rail center between the Reich and the low countries.

Fierce Opposition.

Airmen back from Duisburg reported fierce combats over the city. They had little opposition on the way to the target, however, and the bombs started plunging down before the German fighter packs arrived. One pilot said the Nazis pursued homeward-bound bombers beyond the coast.

Duisburg, Germany's greatest inland port, had been bombed 61 times previously, of which seven were major attacks.

The gigantic operations yesterday were unique, since never before had American fighter forces and the British Second Tactical Air Force joined in such a gigantic bid aimed at destroying every moving military object in the Nazis' defensive territory behind the Atlantic Wall. From official accounts it appeared everything in Western Europe was driven to cover.

Allied fighters shot up more than 300 locomotives, scores of troop carriers and trains, hundreds of canal locks and barges and scores of grounded enemy planes. They also hit electric power lines and transformers, oil tanks, radio stations, gun emplacements, barracks and even German military staff cars.

While full tabulations have not been completed United States Eighth Air Force fighters reported they strafed more than 200 locomotives, and the United States Ninth Air Force accounted for 70 more, while the R. A. F. got 33 positively—possibly more—and hit 35 miltiary supply trains.

Plan of Attack.

Yesterday's widespread sweeps were divided between British and American planes this way:

1—The Eighth Air Force raked Germany from the North Sea to well east of Berlin, employing up to 750 Thunderbolts, Lightnings, Mustangs and Thunderbolt fighter-bombers.

2—The Ninth Air Force sent out more than 500 Thunderbolts. Fanning out in 13 waves, these planes blanketed Northeast France, cutting a swath 150 miles deep from the westernmost tip of Brest Peninsula as far west as Coblenz, Germany, and as far north as Hasselt, Belgium.

3—The R. A. F. Second Tactical and Home Air Defense Forces sent more than 1000 fighters and fighter-bombers against targets in the Low Countries. The British Air Ministry described this as "the war's biggest attack of its kind."

In addition, a force of 250 or more Fortresses and Liberators, escorted by at least an equal number of fighters, pounded the German rampart in the Pas de Calais area along the coast of France with 750 tons of bombs and returned without loss.

Naval Craft Attacked.

Light German naval units lurking in the English Channel felt the weight of Allied aerial might once more when R. A. F. Typhoon fighter-bombers and Spitfire fighters flew mast-high through intense flak to attack a half dozen vessels off Cap Frehel, near St. Malo, last night.

The Air Ministry said the Spitfires went in first and shot up the German ships, the majority of which were minesweepers. Typhoon pilots said one was in flames as they went in low to bomb. One Typhoon was missing from the operation.

German transport on another side of Nazi Europe also suffered stinging blows as the Mediterranean Allied Air Force's medium and fighter bombers smashed at bridges and other installations behind embattled enemy positions in Italy.

Record Raid Saturday.

The Sunday operations came after a record-breaking assault by 6000 British-based planes Saturday, when 8000 tons of bombs were dropped on German airfields, railway targets at Clermont, Le Treport, Motteville, Estrees-Saint Denis and Buchy, as well as other objectives in northern France. Five bombers and two fighters failed to return from all these operations, an almost incredible fraction of the force involved.

In a belated report, the British air ministry said that at least 121 buildings in Germany's largest armament works, Krupps of Essen, were hit during the heavy British attack of April 26. The total is approximately half the work's structures and not one of the larger buildings remains undamaged.

The Allies bit a 232-plane chunk out of the German air force in three theaters of war last week while losing 155 aircraft.

The Americans bagged 127 over Europe while losing 54. The Royal Air Force shot down 25 against a loss of 26, and 20 Nazi planes were brought down over Britain.

In the Mediterranean, the enemy lost 59 planes and Allied losses were 74. Each side lost one machine each in the Middle East.

OPA AUTHORIZES DEALERS TO LAY IN MORE STOVES

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration today authorized dealers and distributers in most parts of the country to stock more cooking and heating stoves to meet the public's increased demand for ration certificates to buy them.

The action, effective Friday, was taken as the War Production Board considered a proposal by Representative Calvin Johnson (Rep.), Illinois, to remove stoves from rationing. A decision is expected this week. OPA is known to be opposed to such a move at present, claiming that, while supply has improved, it is not adequate for uncontrolled buying.

Inventory increases allowed by OPA generally range from 50 to 150 per cent of the number of stoves allotted to dealers and distributers at the beginning of rationing. They are based on the ratio in each area between present allowable inventories and the number of approved applications for ration certificates.

Norris on Missouri River Problem: Treatment as Whole Only Feasible Solution, and TVA Provides Pattern

Ex-Senator, 'Father' of Southern System, Says Midwest Project Must Be Treated as National to Provide Successfully Flood Control, Navigation, Irrigation, Power.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

McCOOK, Neb., May 22.

FORMER Senator George W. Norris, one of the sponsors of the legislation which created the Tennessee Valley Authority and generally called the father of the TVA, in commenting on the Post-Dispatch editorial of May 14 about the Missouri River problem, said today that a plan treating the river system as a whole is the only feasible solution.

He said TVA has provided the pattern which can be applied successfully to the Missouri River Valley to provide for flood control, navigation, electric power and irrigation.

In a prepared statement, Senator Norris said:

"The people, as a rule, have failed to comprehend that the Missouri River problem, the same as many similar problems in the United States, is a national one. It cannot be circumscribed by state or county lines.

"When God made the Missouri Valley through which this mighty stream flows, He was not thinking of state lines, state jurisdictions and county and municipal problems; and when we go to harness this great stream and save this valley from destruction by floods and, if possible, use the extra waters for the benefit of humanity, we ought to consider it the same as God considered it when He made it. That is, pay no attention to the state, county or municipal boundaries. If we consider it in this light, unselfishly, there will be no trouble in reaching a solution that is fair.

Great Work Approved.

"I have to repeat what was said in the Post-Dispatch editorial, that the question has already been solved. All the Missouri Valley has to do is to see what has been done in the Tennessee Valley. There the flood waters every year were taking their toll of millions in property and hundreds of lives. Flood waters on the hillsides of the Tennessee Valley were washing away the precious soil without which the country could not prosper.

"The same thing is going on in the Missouri Valley. We have saved the Tennessee Valley and our great work in that respect has excited the curiosity and the approval of engineers all over the world.

"There we undertook to develop a river system as a whole and not by piecemeal. We disregarded state lines. We have a system there that is ruled mainly by people who are on the ground and familiar with all the local conditions.

"The statute creating the TVA declared in emphatic terms that the development should take place without considering partisan politics—that appointments of officials and employes, their promotion or demotion, shall depend entirely upon their efficiency.

"As I have said, it has worked—it has demonstrated that the angry water of any river system can be subdued and controlled.

"There has been but one objection. Nobody has objected, for instance, as far as I know, to the principle of controlling the flood waters. If we are to have a civilization that shall be maintained, this is a necessity.

"No one has objected because the Tennessee River has been made navigable. In fact, that has added greatly to the project, but we find that the same things that will control the floods also control navigation. The same dams that prevent damage by floods by holding back the angry waters, make the stream navigable, and it is used as a great system of transportation."

Treading on Power Toes.

"But in building a dam that shall hold back the flood waters and make the river navigable, there gets into the question another problem. These same dams, by the expenditure of a comparatively small amount of money, will produce almost untold quantities of electric power that can be carried into the homes of the people and to the factories, and that is where we reach the first objection, and as far as I know, the only objection. There we tread upon the toes of what I call the Power Trust.

The power interests claim the right to take the natural resources of the country and develop electricity, transmit it and distribute it to the people and the factories at a private profit.

"They have never undertaken in the broad sense the development of an entire river system, and they have spread the doctrine of private enterprise because the Government has added these few extra dollars to flood control and navigation expenses, and has developed and transmitted this wonderful unseen power into the homes and the factories of the people, and rather than have their private control of power interfered with, they would destroy the entire plan and let the floods continue to destroy the property and lives of men.

Storing Flood Waters.

"In the Missouri Valley we have problems that do not exist in the Tennessee Valley. The one prominent one is irrigation. It is perhaps the most important one in the Missouri Valley. When we undertake to control the Missouri River like we have already controlled the Tennessee River we can best store the flood waters in the soil itself.

"This Missouri River, whose roaring floods destroy property and human lives, not only in the Missouri Valley itself but in the Mississippi Valley as well, gets dry in the summer time and the parched soil of this great valley becomes a desert instead of a garden. Instead of producing immense crops, it becomes a barren desert where production of food is impossible.

"If we control the floods as they have been controlled in the Tennessee Valley by building dams and storing these waters we will be able to let them out when the dry season comes and irrigate the great bread-basket of the Union. The possibilities in the way of production of crops almost stagger the imagination, and in addition to raising the crops we will be able to carry to the homes and the factories in this great valley the electric power that shall change civilization as if by magic. We will carry this power to the consumer at less than half the cost they have been paying the private owners of power.

"Why can we not look upon the Tennessee Valley and find an answer, as the Post-Dispatch editorial so well says, to the problems that confront us in this emergency? If we will disregard the claims of the monopolies and think only of the good of the people of the country and the experience of our own Government in the Tennessee Valley the problem becomes at once very, very simple.

"No State Can Do It."

"Under our system of government there is no power able to give life to the simple plan necessary in the problem except the Federal Government. No State can do it, no county or municipality can do it. The project, to get the most benefit out of it, must be developed as one, and local interests must give way to the success of the great national plan that is necessary to harness the Missouri River.

"Unless the Federal Government undertakes it as it undertook the development of the Tennessee River it can not be done. There has never been an organization of men trying to save what they call free enterprise, who have even proposed to do the work that is necessary to control this river.

Division of Expense.

"It is a national problem and it applies to every stream of any considerable size in the nation. Private enterprise can not do the job, it has never undertaken to do the job, it does not even claim that it can do the job, and yet it stands in the way of human progress because this job, if done right, includes the generation, the transmission, and the distribution of electricity.

"The expense ought to be divided as to that which is necessary to control flood waters and that which is necessary to make the stream navigable, and that which is necessary to use the water in the Missouri Valley for irrigation, and that which is necessary for the production of electric power.

"The same work advancing one of these will advance the other almost to the same degree. It would be terribly expensive, too expensive for private enterprise to undertake, if it were all charged to one of these benefits, but when combined, the same dam will control flood waters, assist navigation, produce power and supply water for irrigation. Then it becomes simple and cheap as applied to any one of these different things."

CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRAM, SAYS IOWA GOVERNOR OF POST-DISPATCH PROPOSAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 22.

GOV. B. B. HICKENLOOPER of Iowa today described as "a constructive program" the proposals advanced editorially by the Post-Dispatch May 14 for dealing with the Missouri River problem.

"The editorial emphasizes the necessity for comprehensive and co-operative programming," he said.

"The various problems involved in the development of the Missouri River Valley can be reconciled so that great future benefits can be brought to all sections affected. Flood control, reclamation and transportation can be reconciled and can be put into effect, in my judgment, provided these programs receive proper analysis and a friendly approach.

"Locally, we are more concerned with transportation and flood control, while the upper reaches of the valley are concerned with irrigation. A Missouri Valley States Committee is now engaged in research and study of this whole problem."

Yank Airmen Have Time Now To Tour Britain

But They May Fly as Many as 4 Missions Daily When Invasion Begins.

By ERNIE PYLE
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

A B-26 BASE IN ENGLAND, May 22—(By Wireless).

"MY CREW" of two officers and three enlisted men have been flying together as a team in their B-26 bomber since before leaving America more than a year ago.

Every one of them is now far beyond his allotted number of combat missions.

Every one of them is perfectly willing to go through another complete tour of missions if he can just be home for a month. I believe the same thing is true of almost everybody at this station. And it's a new experience for me, because most of the combat men I've been with before wanted to feel finished forever when they went home.

Every one of "my crew" has the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal, with clusters. They have had flak through their plane numerous times, but none of them has ever been hit. They expect it to be rough when the invasion starts, but they're anxious to get it over with.

In the past they have usually flown one mission a day over France, with occasionally two as the tempo of the spring bombings increased. But during the invasion they probably will be flying three and sometimes four missions a day.

They will be in the air before daylight and they will come home from their last mission after dark. They will go for days and maybe weeks in a frenzied routine, eating hurriedly between missions, snatching a few hours of weary sleep at night, and being up and at it again hours before daylight to shuttle back and forth across the Channel. They and thousands of others like them.

Time on Their Hands.

FIGHTING purely an air war—as this one here has been up to now—is in some ways so routine that it is like running a big business.

Usually a B-26 crewman "works" only about two hours a day. He returns to a life that is pretty close to a normal one. There is no ground war to confuse him or disturb him or even inspire him with its horror. His war is highly technical, highly organized, and in a way somewhat academic.

Because of this it is easy to get bored. An air crewman has lots of spare time on his hands. Neither the officers nor the enlisted flyers have any duties whatever other than flying.

When not flying they either loaf around their own huts, writing letters or playing poker or just sitting in front of the fire talking, or else they take leave for a few hours and go to the nearby villages. They can go to dances or sit in the local pubs and talk.

And every two weeks they get two days' leave. That again is something new to us who have been in the Mediterranean. Down there flyers do get leave to go to rest camps, and even to town once in a while if there is a town, but there's nothing regular or automatic about it. These boys up here get their two days' leave twice a month just like clockwork. They can do anything they want with it.

Most of them go to London. Others go to nearby cities where they have made acquaintances. They go to dances and night clubs and shows. They paint the town and blow off steam as any active man who lives dangerously must do now and then. They make friends among the British people, and they look up these same friends on the next trip to town.

They do a thousand and one things on their leave, and it does them good. Also, it gradually creates an understanding between the two peoples that the other is all right in his own peculiar way.

Many Spend Time Traveling.

AFTER a certain number of missions a crew is usually given two weeks' leave. Most of them spend it traveling. Our flyers often tour Scotland on these leaves. It's amazing the number of men who have been to Edinburgh and who love the place. They have visited Wales and North Ireland and the rugged southwestern coast, and they know the Midlands and the little towns of England.

These two-week leaves don't substitute in the flyers' mind for a trip back to America. That's all they live for. That's what they talk about most of the time.

A goal is what anyone overseas needs—a definite time limit to shoot for. Naturally it isn't possible right at this moment to send many people home, and the flyers accept that fact. But once the invasion is made and the first period of furious intensity has passed, our veteran flyers hope to start going home in greater numbers.

Hull and Senate Group Reported Agreed on Postwar Peace Setup

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).

A SENATE liaison committee was reported today to have reached preliminary accord with Secretary of State Hull on the broad principles of a postwar international peace organization which the "Big Four" of the United Nations would take the lead in forming.

Although there apparently was no agreement on details, it was said authoritatively that the plan calls for creation of an international council as a directing body, with the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China as the council's chief members.

Others of the United Nations would be invited into the general organization membership which would participate in policy-making decisions to be carried out under the council's direction. The reconstituted nations of the conquered Axis would be accorded a place at the conference table.

The liaison group is reported to have discussed with Hull the inclusion of an "escape clause" by which none of the council members could be forced into collaborative action without its consent. This apparently was advanced by some of the conferees as an answer to demands that have been made for the preservation of American freedom of action in any international organization this country joins.

While some thought this had been agreed on in principle, it apparently is one of the important questions on which additional work must be done.

The conferees were said to have determined that so far as the American plan goes, the forceful preservation of the future peace should be carried out on a basis of co-operative military action rather than through the establishment of a standing international police force. This would call for staff co-operation, with each country furnishing an alloted part of the miltiary force needed.

The plan reportedly contemplates the establishment of courts of justice which would seek to settle international disputes. These courts would have the backing of the organization's military power to enforce their decisions.

While this constitutes only the bare framework of the house of peace which its sponsors hope will be constructed, there were indications that the State Department is anxious to go ahead soon with negotiations with other countries on this general basis.

Representing almost every viewpoint, the eight member liaison group was chosen with the idea that if it could reach unanimous agreement, there would be little difficulty in obtaining Senate approval of any plan which it might sponsor. Chairman Connally (Dem.), Texas, of the Foreign Relations Committee is chairman of the group, which includes Senators George (Dem.), Georgia, Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, Gillette (Dem.), Iowa, La Follette (Prog.), Wisconsin, Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, White (Rep.), Maine, and Austin (Rep.), Vermont.

NAZIS MASKING ANTIAIRCRAFT GUNS INSIDE FREIGHT CARS

LONDON, May 22 (AP).—Ninth Air Force fighter pilots reported the Germans tried a new antiaircraft trick to combat the great sweeps of Sunday.

As the fighters swooped to attack trains, the walls dropped from seemingly harmless boxcars to disclose heavily-gunned flak cars that threw up intense barrages.

In many other cases German troops piled off trains and sent up showers of small-arms fire and 20-millimeter cannon shells.

Stalin 'Placed By Lord,' Says Soviet Primate

New Head of Russian Church Avows Loyalty to Government.

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, May 22 (AP).

ALEXI, 67-year-old Metropolitan of Leningrad and Novgorod, became acting Patriarch of all Russia yesterday with announcement that the Holy Synod of the Russian Orthodox Church had "accepted and fulfilled the last will and testament of the late holy Patriarch Sergei." The will directed that Alexei become "the guardian of the throne."

Alexei's formal election as Patriarch by the church council appeared virtually certain, but there was no indication when the council would meet. Sergei, who died earlier this month, was acting patriarch for 18 years until his election last autumn.

In accepting his appointment, Alexei addressed a warm, personal letter to Premier Stalin as a "wise leader placed by the Lord over our great nation."

"Sincere Love."

His letter, addressed to "Dear Joseph Vissarionovich" (Stalin's real name is Joseph Vissarionovich Dzugashvili) referred to Sergei's "love for the mother country" and said "we, his closest assistants, know his feeling of sincere love for you, placed by the Lord over the peoples of our great nation.

"The feeling became especially strong after his personal meeting with you—after our unforgettable interview with you on Sept. 4. Often I have heard him express his warm remembrance of this meeting and what high, historical significance he attached to your most appreciated attention to the needs of the church."

"In my future work I will unfailingly and unalterably keep the principles which characterized the clerical activity of the late Patriarch: to follow the canons of church regulations on the one side and constant faithfulness to the motherland and the Government headed by you on the other.

"I beg you deeply, revered dear Joseph Vissarionovich, to accept my assurance with the same confidence I feel myself, and trust to the deep feelings of love and gratitude to you which all ecclesiastical workers under me are inspired." The letter was dater May 19.

Alexei's reference to a previous

Threefold Task Awaits Wallace In China; May Determine Nation's Course in War and in Peace to Come

Vice-President Expected to Renew Promises of Aid at Earliest Moment, Assure Place Among Big Four for Eastern Ally and Talk Over Country's Political Policies.

By WILFRID FLEISHER
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 22.

PLANS for the visit of Vice-President Henry Wallace to China indicate it to be of much greater importance than has been generally assumed and that the American political implications, if any, are to be overshadowed by the nature of the mission.

Wallace's task, it is learned in well informed quarters, will be threefold.

1. To bring encouragement to the Chinese by renewed assurances that the Allies are going to come to China's help just as quickly as they can. In the meantime, efforts will be continued to step up the deliveries of war supplies to China by means of the air ferry service over the Himalaya hump.

2. Wallace will give assurances to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek that China is to have a place as one of the "Big Four" of the postwar world. He may even lay the ground work for setting up a "Big Four" organization now without waiting for the end of the war.

To Open 'Front Door.'

China, it is recalled, was a signatory to the Moscow agreement last November along with the United States, Britain and Russia, pledging to co-operate in war and in the peace to follow. But China was not a participant in the talks, and the Chinese envoy in Moscow merely took part in the signing of the declaration. China was admitted by the "back door," while Wallace is now expected to open the "front door" to China.

3. Opening of the front door to China is to be conditional on China really embracing the democratic principles for which the United Nations are fighting. Recent events have given rise to some misgivings about the future orientation of Chinese policy. In particular, supervision of Chinese students in the United States and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's book circulated only in China, have aroused some fears abroad that China might be heading toward Fascism. Wallace is certain to talk this whole matter over with Chiang so as to clear the atmosphere of any doubts.

Only recently Chinese Ambassador Wei Tao-ming returned here from Chungking, bringing with him a personal message from Chiang to President Roosevelt. That message has been kept secret, but is believed to have contained an outline of the Generalissimo's ideas regarding the future of China intended to dispel any misapprehension which may exist in this country. It is almost certain also to have brought a new plea for aid to China.

There is need for sending an important emissary of the American Government to Chungking at a time when Chinese morale is recognized to be low after close to eight years of war with Japan and there is no immediate prospect of the Allies coming to the aid of China in a big way, as the Chinese have long hoped.

Problem of Aid.

The matter of bringing aid to China is an urgent one, but the problem is what to do about it. Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's advance into Northern Burma is looked on here as a most hopeful omen for the future, but it is realized that he cannot cut his way through to a junction with the Burma Road before the monsoon, and that the reopening of the Burma Road is therefore a matter of months yet. In the meantime, all that can be done is to step up the air route. Seizure of the airfields at Mitkyina is regarded as a big help, since it will enable the American fighters to protect the air route over the "Hump" and will deprive the Japanese of one of their greatest centers of interference.

There is no disguising the fact that officials here have been deeply concerned regarding the trend of affairs in China. The control exerted over Chinese students in this country has become a diplomatic issue, but one which may be easily resolved by the fact that China may stop sending students here for the remainder of the war. The Chinese are said to feel that it is inappropri-

The Missouri Medical Plan

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The logic embodied in your editorial, "Limitations of the Medical Plan," of last Thursday, is reasonable and sound. The Post-Dispatch has always been of great assistance in the development of Group Hospital Service, the first hospital plan in the country actively sponsored by the medical profession.

The community, the health professions and medical economists are encouraged by the idealism and fair approach to a voluntary solution of spreading the costs of illness as expressed in the editorial. I am sure that you are just as anxious as the doctors and the community to see a successful plan launched for the people.

According to a recent nationwide survey by Opinion Research Corporation, 77 per cent of those questioned indicated that payments for medical care were reasonable and satisfactory. Of this group, 63 per cent felt that methods could be devised for easier payments of medical care costs while only 5 per cent thought that ordinary doctor bills for home and office calls require an easy method of payment.

You state in your editorial that when a person needs hospital care for which he is unable to pay, he will go as a non-paying patient. These non-paying patients are cared for with charity funds and receive free medical care in hospitals and clinics through the charity of doctors.

The Organization Committee, of which I am chairman took all these points into consideration in drafting the tentative program. Further, actuarial information indicates that our plan is based on sound experience.

The medical profession of Missouri does not claim that its plan is the answer to state medicine. It was unfortunate that anyone made such a statement. It does believe it is the first step in the right direction.

The Blue Cross plan of Group Hospital Service had an humble beginning in St. Louis eight years ago. Protection was limited to the employed person.

Since that time, through successful operation in spreading the risk among all members, the trustees have been able to extend the benefits to cover the entire family and include all hospital services, including such expensive drugs as pneumococci serum, sulphonomides, and now penicillin.

I cannot in all honesty question certain shortcomings in the plan, but after all, I do know that medical leadership in St. Louis and Missouri is more cognizant of the need and more self-critical than many others elsewhere.

The St. Louis and County medical societies should be encouraged to provide a voluntary method in a manner consistent with the ethics of good American medicine. I think thoughtful St. Louisans will support a voluntary plan to assist in meeting unpredictable illness costs of a catastrophic nature.

CARL F. VOHS, M. D.,
Chairman, Organization Committee,
Missouri State Medical Association.

Farm Work for Boys and Girls

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Men and women and boys and girls are being asked to give a few hours each day this summer to working either on a farm or in a Victory garden. This year food is needed more than ever for our allies as well as for ourselves. Remember, the war is not over until the last shot is fired and no one knows when that will be.

BLANCHE LINOVICH.

For One Big River Project

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The flood control, irrigation, waterpower and river transportation dispute now being waged by sectional, selfish and political interests is comparable to a childish argument.

There is no reason why all worthwhile interests cannot be served by a single plan, provided, of course, we eliminate the selfish and political interests. No plan yet introduced has the necessary qualifications.

The Northwestern states want irrigation. All right, let's build dams and reservoirs in that section and provide those states with irrigation. Such dams will also serve flood control. But another practice must be co-ordinated with the construction of dams.

The flow must be reduced in the river by retardation at the source, that to be accomplished by proper soil practice in the areas that need protection of the valuable top soil that is yearly washing away and filling the channel of the river with silt. The channel is continually being dredged by our Army Engineers. They will continue to dredge until soil erosion has been checked.

Too much thought should not be given to hydro-electric power just for the sake of building a dam. The Federal Government should refrain from such projects in favor of private enterprise. Then huge sums of the taxpayers' money will not be tied up in useless structures. If there is need for such power and a market for it, free capital will not hesitate to find means to furnish the necessary power.

If all the belligerents in this squabble look at this thing with open minds, I am sure that one plan can satisfactorily serve national purpose. The just execution of river control lies in the hands of our legislators.

RUSSELL F. JACQUES, Secretary,
St. Louis District Chapter, Conservation Federation of Missouri.

Registration Reminder

To a considerable extent, the number of votes cast in St. Louis and St. Louis County will depend on how the registration turns out tomorrow in the city and tomorrow and Wednesday in the county.

The city and county contain many thousands of eligible but unregistered citizens, some newly come of age, some here to do war work. The registration offices this week will be brought close to the people, clear down to individual precincts and townships. From then on, a trip downtown will be required for city residents and one to Clayton for county residents.

If ever there was a year when people should go to unusual efforts to become eligible to express their preferences at the ballot box, it is this one.

The stakes may be the greatest in our history: people will be voting in November for a President and members of a Congress which will probably be called on to make the peace, establish postwar arrangements, get the country firmly started on the road to full employment and sustained prosperity. And if this motive were not enough, everyone on the home front has become in some measure a proxy for some millions of men and women in uniform, comparatively few of whom will surmount the onerous requirements that have been set up for absentee voting.

The first wish of machine politicians on the morning of elections is for bad weather or anything else that will make for a light vote. Hence it is all to the good that numerous organizations are working for widespread registration and voting. It is also good that interested groups of many kinds are canvassing their own members.

By this very token, however, it is all the more important that efforts toward a heavy vote should be not scattering but comprehensive. Since American society is full of special-interest groups, all interests should be active in bringing out their members, lest the too frequent spectacle of minority domination be enacted once again.

Above all, independent voters should let no inconvenience or indifference keep them away from the polls, for it is they who in the end wield the balance of power, for better or for worse.

The heavier the registration today and tomorrow, and the heavier the vote in August and November, the better the chance of getting wise, humane, enlightened, effective government.

No Police Self-Investigation

Among the gravest charges that can be made against a police officer in the line of duty is the acceptance of money for the protection of law violators. Such charges have been made against members of the St. Louis Police Department in an affidavit by William Grasswick, 17-year-old stepson and killer of Joseph (Buck) Newell, former labor racketeer and gambling house operator.

Irrespective of the source, such serious charges must be investigated. Justice and the good name of the Police Department demand a prompt inquiry. The Police Board was well advised to order a complete investigation, and it would be even better advised to adopt the suggestion that an outside agency make the investigation.

Police self-investigation is not a spectacle that inspires public confidence. As has been seen in the botched-up Melendes case, in which officers were accused of fatally beating a prisoner, many citizens fear that whitewash methods are used in such an inquiry.

Whatever the value of the affidavit or of the testimony of witnesses in this case may turn out to be, an independent inquiry, together with grand jury action, is highly in order.

A war-plant strike is not a pleasant picture, and neither is seizure of a war plant by the Government. But when the latter action puts an end to the former, public opinion strongly indorses this use of Federal power. Resumed production is the immediate objective, and this is being attained today at the Hummer Manufacturing Co. of Springfield, Ill., a subsidiary of Montgomery Ward & Co. Striking employes are returning to work after 15 days of plant shutdown.

As in the seizure of the parent company last month, the Hummer plant seizure checks back to the recalcitrance of Sewell Avery, head of Montgomery Ward. Just as in the Chicago case, he refused to deal with the union and defied WLB directives dating back as far as nine months. His case is much weaker than in the previous episode, for there can be no disputing the contention that the Hummer firm is a war plant, since it manufactures propellers, carburetors and gun mounts for military aircraft, in addition to farm supplies and machinery. WLB Chairman Davis says that 70 per cent of the firm's production is war materiel.

Mr. Avery is continuing his one-man revolt against the Government's machinery for maintaining industrial peace in wartime. The circumstances of the Montgomery Ward seizure may have gained some sympathy for him, but who will say that the Government should have kept hands off the Hummer plant, thereby sanctioning both a defiance of its authority and a stoppage of war production?

Mr. LaGuardia's Slip

When Mayor LaGuardia protested the resettlement of Japanese-Americans in New York City, he prejudiced his prestige with many who have supported him on public issues in the past. Further, such a stand lowers the prestige of a city which has long prided itself on its tolerance.

Apparently Mayor LaGuardia's protest has been overruled. Manhattan's first Japanese-American hostel was opened a week ago by the Church of the Brethren and the American Baptist Home Missions Society, and a 24-hour police guard placed outside to protect the family of three Nisei Americans who were first to arrive from a relocation center in Arizona.

Let the Mayor himself take note that these citizens have arrived in a city where the presence of Italian and German aliens is not protested. Let the Mayor ask himself once again whether loyal American citizens of any race shall live under the protection of a democratic constitution, or be persecuted in spite of it. If his conclusion is humane, then let the armed police guard, which serves only to point a public finger at people with a right to private lives, be removed at once.

End of the Mihailovic Legend

In the months following the fall of Yugoslavia, in April, 1941, reports of a spectacular guerrilla leader began to trickle out of that country. His name was Draja Mihailovic; his deeds were mighty, and his valor was great. His Chetniks were fighting gallantly in the mountains, it was reported, and inflicting heavy losses upon the Germans and Italians. Mihailovic's name was enthusiastically linked on the rolls of military prowess with those of Timoshenko, Alexander and MacArthur.

The first whispers against him were discounted as "Communist smears," aimed at discrediting King Peter and his exile Government. The British stood by Mihailovic, but soon the evidence became too strong for Downing Street. Mihailovic, it was shown, had co-operated with the Axis. He had fought and killed Yugoslav patriots led by a little-known figure named Marshal Tito. Furthermore, many Partisan victories had been mistakenly credited to Mihailovic. The latter's army dwindled, and at last ceased to fight, professedly awaiting Allied invasion of the Balkans.

The Mihailovic legend suffered a deadly blow last Feb. 22 when Winston Churchill announced that British military aid thereafter would go to Tito. Now the legend has been officially killed by King Peter's ouster of Mihailovic as Minister of War.

In Yugoslavia's turbulent domestic feuds, Mihailovic was the King's man; Tito, the people's spokesman. That the King now, even if under British pressure, drops Mihailovic, moves to form a more representative Cabinet and bids for Tito as a member is a happy omen for the Allied cause and for democracy.

Death in the Cab

The wild run of a Reading Railway express train with its engineer dead at the throttle should call public attention to the need for modernization of railroad safety devices and practices.

In subway operations, a device known as "the dead man's button" would have made such a wild run impossible, for relaxation of the operator's pressure against it would stop the train immediately. Why could not a similar apparatus be used in railroading?

In any event, practices which would leave an engineer alone in his cab for a single instant, permitting an accident to him to endanger every life on the train, are unsafe practices.

Flood Regulations for Bagnell

Senator Clark deserves support for his efforts to obtain Federal regulations which would prevent the Union Electric Co. from adding to flood heights at St. Louis by the manner of its operation of Bagnell Dam on the Osage River, a tributary of the Missouri.

The objections of irrigation interests, which fear application of the regulations to their reservoirs, should be subject to solution without too much difficulty. Surely our neighbors of the Upper Missouri Valley will be willing to agree to some form of regulation to provide this city with the protection it so manifestly needs.

No one is asking that Bagnell Dam be operated to provide flood control, though its owners and operators, the Union Electric Co., made flood-control claims for it when they were seeking a certificate of convenience and necessity for construction of the project. All that is being asked is that the operations of Bagnell be supervised so that they will not again make St. Louis floods worse, as the United States Army Engineers reported they did last year.

The existing situation, which permits Union Electric to dump Bagnell storage water into the river when it will do most damage to farms and communities downstream, is intolerable. The operation of this reservoir must be regulated for the protection of the public. The responsibility for making and enforcing the regulations rests upon the Federal Government.

Late, But a Good Idea

A proposal advanced belatedly by Delegate Stratford Lee Morton of St. Louis County affords the Constitutional Convention a reasonable method of dealing with the puzzling St. Louis city-county problem.

Under the proposal which Mr. Morton hopes to get the convention to consider, the city and county would be free for five years to work out their own form of merger or consolidation under any one of the four plans embodied in the provision already approved by the convention.

However, if nothing had been done at the end of five years, it then would be mandatory for a proposition for return of the city to the county to be submitted to the voters of the whole area. If a majority approved it, the city would become a part of the county and then would have the same rights for extension of its boundaries which apply to other cities in Missouri.

A proposal by Delegate Ethan A. H. Shepley of St. Louis, to return the city to the county automatically if no other plan has been adopted in five years, was defeated in the convention by a narrow margin. Mr. Morton hopes to get reconsideration of the Shepley proposal with his plan attached as an amendment.

The merit of the Morton plan is that it leaves final decision fully in the hands of the voters, but still gives assurance that some action will be taken within a reasonable time toward solution of the problem. It avoids the arbitrariness of other proposals which could not have been voted on separately but only in the statewide vote for or against whatever new constitutional measures the convention submits.

The convention would do well to reopen this matter in the hope that real progress can be made on one of the State's most serious problems.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

G. O. P. gains in Congress are attributed to age of New Deal and the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has not been in campaign; what Republicans think is a swing toward them is declared to be reaction to war's petty irritations; Coolidge conservatism is held to be dead.

Gerald W. Johnson, Former Editorial Writer on the Baltimore Sun, in the New York Times Magazine

The Democratic majority in the House, which was 99 over all opposition at the beginning of the Seventy-seventh Congress, in 1940, has been whittled down to one.

If the party of the Right, then, has been gaining in the Senate and has won virtual control of the House, can any rational man doubt that there is a trend, and a very marked trend, to the right in the political thinking of this country?

One can. The extreme agitation of Mr. Willkie, for example, was based upon his fear that the Republicans would mistake for a definite trend in thinking what is, in reality, no more than the cumulative effect of many small irritations. His agitation was justified, for no political party can long be successful if its program is supported by nothing more substantial than petty indignations.

It is always possible that what the people dislike is not the New Deal, but the New Dealers.

The Range of Choice

In that case, if they were presented with the alternatives of reverting to the policies of Coolidge and Hoover or putting up with the New Dealers for another term, they might choose the latter, although they would welcome an opportunity to proceed with a strongly liberal policy under different leadership.

It is possible that Republicans have been winning (a) because the New Deal is now very old indeed; politically, and (b) because Roosevelt has not been running.

The New Deal has been in power now for almost 12 years, which makes it by long odds the oldest administration in American history. Youth's natural desire for change and adventure unquestionably accounts for some Republican votes and may account for not a few Republican victories.

Again, Mr. Roosevelt has brought into office an extraordinary number of extraordinary men. Not all of them were lovable. Indeed, some were to be deemed extraordinary mainly because they were extraordinarily objectionable. True, some of the most hateful were also among the ablest—as witness Secretary Ickes, at one time perhaps the most detested man in the country, yet one of its finest public servants.

When Voters Are Irritated

Finally, the Democrats have run into the unpleasant necessity of having to put the screws on. True, at the outbreak of war the New Deal was dissolved by its creator, and many of the most important offices in the Government are now manned by Republicans. Nevertheless, the administration is technically Democratic, and although the order that irritates a voter may have been issued by Stimson or Nelson, it is the Democrats against whom his irritation is directed.

Even the most patriotic find military discipline onerous. No matter how loyally they may accept it, they do not like it, nor does it increase their affection for those who impose it.

But none of these things is an indication of a revival of faith in the political philosophy of Boies Penrose and Reed Smoot. The traditional liking of youth for change is certainly not linked with conservatism.

It is a curious fact that even those who believe in the existence of a strong trend to the right frequently admit that the President is stronger than his party.

Yet if the President is stronger than the party, it must be because of his difference from the party; and that difference is precisely that Mr. Roosevelt is farther to the left than the bulk of Democratic leaders.

To say that Mr. Roosevelt has not been a candidate in any election for the last two years is something of an understatement. He has not been in the fight at all. This fact alone goes far to account for the steady attrition of the Democratic party. Not even he can fight two gigantic wars and at the same time give close and continuous attention to party affairs. In the circumstances, he has made the only choice that decency allowed—he has been giving his primary attention to the wars and letting the party slide.

The evidence indicates strongly that the change in the political complexion of Congress is due to Democratic deterioration more than anything else. The Republicans have been winning without making a direct, frontal assault on Democratic principles. There has been no such assault since 1940.

Only Outlet for Protest

But in a two-party system, the opposition party is necessarily the vehicle of all protest. Whether one wishes to register objection to the whole New Deal, or only to Ickes, or the OPA, or the chairman of the local draft board, the procedure is the same—vote Republican.

The social irresponsibility displayed by certain segments of organized labor within the last decade has created a strong demand for disciplinary action. Even those who believe most strongly that labor czars must be curbed and labor racketeers eliminated as a measure of public safety do not contend that the work should be left to employers. Their position is that labor should be disciplined by public law, not by private caprice. Even in this field, therefore, the popular movement is not in the direction of the policy of laissez-faire, which is commonly supposed to be the doctrine of the extreme Right.

The number of Americans who really believe that it is possible to go back to the days of Coolidge and Hoover must be small. The system existing in 1929 is now so badly shattered that it can never be restored exactly as it was. Hence, even a man whose emotional drift is toward the Right is warned by his reason that he cannot go all the way, and probably cannot go very far in that direction.

GENTLE TOUCH

From the Detroit Free Press.

The honorable and gallant member for Stafford remarked in the debate in the British House of Commons on a bill purporting to guarantee jobs back after the war:

"I will not say it is a swindle because that word has unfortunate associations in current by-elections, but it is a political maneuver with which I should not like to be associated."

American politicians have yet to learn the art of calling an opponent a crook without spelling the word in capital letters.

A Fine Novel of Old Vienna And Development of a Youth

"Peter Domanig: Morning in Vienna," by Victor White. (Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis.)

This novel has that rare quality of magic which one associates with only the greatest fiction. It transports the reader to a new world, makes him forget his own world, creates the illusion, almost, that he has never known any people but the characters of the book, and, hence, that the outcome of their experiences is the most important thing in the world. These are strong words, superlatives, and the book deserves them.

Vienna of World War I (and of the years just before) is the setting of the book. Its hero, Peter, is one of Vienna's disinherited—illegitimate and poor. The effect of poverty and illegitimacy upon the formation of his character is handled with great comprehension and insight.

Mr. White recognizes that, important as birth and background are, they are not all-important. Peter is no spineless creation of deterministic forces. Though buffeted about, he has positive resources, both of character and environment, which make of him a forceful person, rather than a perpetually abused malcontent. So, like many other people who have known poverty, pride, failure and success, Peter Domanig is a person worth knowing.

Peter is the book; of plot, there is no more than may be found in most human lives—but there is at least that much. As a result, this is a biography of a fictional character. When completed, it will be a very full biography in several volumes, for it seems apparent that the two books here contained in one volume, and dealing respectively with childhood and adolescence, are only the first two installments.

Such a long work, though plotless as life itself, must be carefully constructed. Both in the individual chapters and in the book as a whole, careful planning is apparent. One incident leads the reader naturally to another; there is no stopping.

Most notable is Mr. White's understanding of character, especially that of Peter, his fullest creation.

Most readers will look forward to the further adventures of Peter Domanig, wondering whether, in the long run, his immense capacity for good will outweighs his potentialities for evil. Here, thanks to Mr. White's good sense, is no stock character, no predictable automaton. Here, I think, is one of the great characters of twentieth-century literature.

Anthology of Women's Writings

"It's a Woman's World," Edited by Mary Louise Aswell. (Whittlesey House, New York.)

The title calls for a question and a quip. Is it a woman's world? If it is, look at it. The answer is that it is a woman's world as far as this book is concerned, for there are no men among its authors.

This anthology of women's writings as they have appeared in Harper's Bazaar will be looked at by two kinds of people, men and women—perhaps more men than women, for the title is a teaser.

Philip Wylie, man of courage, who wrote the foreword, says as much. It's the chance of a lifetime, he hints, for men to see themselves as women see them. It is his way of inviting the men to form on the right, and predicting that they will.

Except for a few about children, the stories are about men. It could not very well be otherwise, for one grouping is titled "Women in Love," another is "Women and War," with men as warriors, and a third is "Women's Professions," as related to men's professions. The writings of 28 women, the first-string sort who write for Harper's Bazaar, make up the collection.

EDGAR ANSEL MOWRER

Zones of Influence—And of Censorship

This is Mr. Mowrer's first article since his return to this country from his trip abroad.

BRITISH military censorship of an interview given by Marshal Tito to the two newspaper men whom British military authorities have permitted to enter Yougoslavia appears to have shocked American opinion. It comes as no surprise to those who, like this writer, have visited the Mediterranean area.

For this, be it understood, is a British "zone of influence" wherein British authorities do as they please. If the traveling American is somewhat startled by what he finds in one area of a common war, he is no more so than are many locally stationed American officers and officials who complain of growing British control.

The explanation runs that at Casablanca in January, 1943, President Roosevelt agreed with Prime Minister Churchill that the Mediterranean area would be "British." What we recevied in exchange has not, to my knowledge, been published. Nor has it been explained how such a state of affairs is compatible with Secretary Hull's promises that there would be no zones of influence.

A Disquieting Secrecy.

Such an arrangement may or may not be a good thing. The mystery surrounding it is disquieting, to say the least. Why all the secrecy? What is the reason for a censorship ferocious in its severity and authoritarian in its loftiness? At Cairo, for instance, newspaper men or broadcasters wishing to argue a point, are frequently cut short by the explanation—(if it is one)—: "orders from above."

As a result, American publicists in that area have half given up trying to cover the situation fully or accurately and are looking forward to an assignment elsewhere.

Just what is going on? Essentially this: In Italy, in Yugoslavia, in Greece, in Syria and Palestine, in North Africa east of Tunisia, British military authorities are endeavoring not only to fight a war but to lay the foundations for a postwar political situation.

A Clamp on Tito.

The Badoglio Government exists just as much or as little as British Generals decide is good. Tito and his armies the British can control only partially. But except for an occasional Soviet plane entering Yugoslavia, they control the approaches and alone decide what outsiders shall be permitted to make contact with the Yugoslav Marshal, and what the world may learn about him.

King Peter's Government, whether in London or in Cairo, is entirely under Briitsh control. The Greek Government-in-Exile is kept subordinate to King George and shifted, modified, bossed around, not in accordance with the desires of the people of Greece, but as British Generals and diplomats decide. Premier Venizelos was recently kicked out brutally to make room for the virtually unknown Papandreou. Members of the Greek armed forces who protest are held guilty of mutiny and treated accordingly.

In Palestine, a new scheme of partition is being prepared. Lord Moyne, British Cabinet member in the Middle East, has a map showing the incorporation of most of Palestine into a Greater (Arab) Syria. In Egypt, King Farouk and British-controlled Nahas Pasha are at swords' points. Only personal intervention by Churchill prevented an open break. Anthony Eden informed the House of Commons that conquered Cyrenaica would not be restored to Italy.

This British policy is, of course, supported by President Roosevelt. It may or may not be best to our common war effort. What disturbs this writer is the obvious British effort toward shaping the future, now, with American help, without any public discussion of the issues involved.

Necessity for Light.

For unless this situation is brought into the light now, the American people may, at some future moment, find themselves facing a new situation hitherto hidden from them by censorship of which they will not approve. For if Mr. Churchill did not become Prime Minister in order to liquidate the British Empire, the American people are certainly not fighting to fortify and extend any imperial system, whether it be London's, Moscow's or Washington's.

Permanent Anglo-American co-operation, upon which the future of the world so obviously depends, cannot, in this writer's judgment, be based upon high-handed and imperial schemes worked out in deepest secret between two statesmen, giving each of them a "zone of influence" and a "free hand" within it. To be acceptable to Americans, it must, I think, be indivisible and based upon clearly understood and commonly accepted principles.

If this be true, then the sooner Washington and London tell Cairo to pipe down, drop this secrecy and moderate the bossiness, the better for all concerned. After all, Anglo-American co-operation is so necessary to both peoples that it can stand frankness. It will have to.

LOWELL MELLETT

Public Approval of OPA

CHESTER BOWLES is on Capitol Hill battling for the OPA's life. Actually the battle seems to be about over. Some say Bowles could demand unconditional surrender and get it. Of course, that's just what he won't do; he'll discuss patiently each point that is brought up, consider seriously any suggestion that is offered and agree to adopt any that will work. Bowles gets along fine with congressional committees.

This is due partly to his own obvious competence, and partly to the fact that he represents something the American people have found to their liking—rationing. For rationing, with all its irritations, is largely the people's own operation.

Out of a total of 161,000 OPA workers, 106,000 are unpaid volunteers. At times the number of volunteers has reached 325,000. They are neighbors of the people who are rationed and are themselves the victims—or beneficiaries—of the same rationing. So when Bowles talks with Congressmen about the work of his enormous staff, he is talking about the Congressmen's own constituents.

Rationing Is Accepted.

There was a time when it seemed possible to make political capital out of the annoyances that resulted from rationing, but that time has passed. The system is accepted. Last winter, the ballyhoo against subsidies was so loud some people got the impression that repeal of subsidies was as important as the defeat of Hitler. It's not like that now. Congress seems satisfied with a situation that leaves it opposed to subsidies in principle, but agreeable to them in practice.

There is every reason to believe Congress will vote to continue OPA operations very much as at present. Committee members have confined their suggestions to possible improvements in detail. Several members want amendments of the regulations to care for hardship cases, meaning the working of actual hardships on firms whose costs of operation are higher than the average. Nobody, however, seems to have found a formula for amendments that would not result in general price increases.

There is a disposition on the part of some members to argue for either increased court review or the establishment of a board of review within the OPA. Appeal to the courts can be taken now only when penalties are imposed by the OPA. Only 36 such appeals have been taken, nothwithstanding that OPA has suspended licenses in 8000 cases because of violation of regulations. Books have been taken from a great many automobilists, but only two have appealed to the courts.

OPA Has Met the Test.

All in all, OPA seems to have met the test of popular acceptance. It is not likely to be made much of an issue in the coming campaign. If it is, it will be made by the Democrats, bragging about what they have done, while skirting lightly over the fact that the job has been non-partisan. Indeed, the biggest howl raised on the hill over OPA was that of the Democrats at the very beginning, when it was discovered that Leon Henderson had been appointing as many Republicans as Democrats—some said more.

The thing to which the Democrats will point with pride this summer and fall will be the manner in which prices have been held down and inflation checked. They will have a great story to tell, no matter who deserves the credit.

Now, in the third year of the war, one-half of our national production is for war purposes. During our last war, which lasted only a year and a half, only one-quarter of our output was for war purposes. We are now spending 32 billion dollars every four months on the war; that's as much as we spent during the entire 18 months of the last war.

If controls had not been better this time than the other time, we would now be in the midst of disastrous inflation.

ROOSEVELT URGES END OF 'HATREDS OF HUMANITY'

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt says that "we must resolve that those hatreds which have been the bane of humanity shall be swept from our land for all time to come."

In a message read at the national memorial services of the Jewish War Veterans of America yesterday, he said the observance was "in keeping with the customs of the faith of Israel as well as with the American tradition of honoring the memory of those who have given their lives that freedom may continue to be the portion and inheritance of those who inhabit the land."

MRS. ROOSEVELT ADDRESSES NEGROES ON NEED OF UNITY

BALTIMORE, May 22 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told approximately 5000 Negroes yesterday that the United States must show other nations "that all peoples should go forward together and no group can remain disunited without bringing harm to the rest of the world." Addressing a meeting of the Baltimore chapter, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, she declared that the United States, as a virtual league of nations, should set an example for the rest of the world in peaceful settlement of problems.

"We must learn that generalities are not good things to deal with. We need to really have a nation where all people have equal opportunity and eventually the chance to take part in their government," Mrs. Roosevelt said.

"Our military records show that no race is inferior to any other in participation in the common battle against the enemy," she said, adding: "All peoples have to fight together to win the war. The tide is turning but we have much to do before the war is won. To do it better we should work together."

COST OF FOOD SLIGHTLY LESS

Food which cost St. Louisans $10 in April, 1943, cost them only $9.60 in April of this year, it was announced today by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics' regional office in Dallas, Tex. However, the over-all cost of living essentials increased 0.3 per cent in St. Louis from April, 1943, to April, 1944.

The cost of living index here last month was 123.5 as compared with 100.9 in January, 1941, an increase of 22.4 per cent.

ART PRIZE TO GRACE H. KENNEDY

CENTENNIAL SERVICES AT ST. JOSEPH CHURCH

The Rev. Schwitalla Traces Background of Parish—Altar Built in 1865.

St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Eleventh and Biddle streets, commemorated the 100th anniversary of its founding yesterday with a solemn pontifical mass, with the Most Rev. George J. Donnelly, Auxiliary Bishop of St. Louis, as celebrant.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, S. J., dean of the St. Louis University School of Medicine, who traced the history of the parish from the day when it was a struggling mission of St. Louis University, to the present. He praised the work of its pastors and described them as men who made substantial contributions to the culture of their community.

The church was filled with about 2500 former residents of the parish, visitors and friends of the Jesuits, who administer the parish. A color guard of Knights of Columbus Zouaves and the Columbus Girls' Club drill team, lined the main aisle as the church dignitaries proceeded down the aisle to the altar for the mass. After the mass, the crowd flowed into the street to view a drill demonstration by the Columbus Girls.

One of the features of the present church, which was built in 1865, is its main altar, which was built in fulfillment of a vow, and is known as the "Altar of Answered Prayers." Father Charles Imbs, S. J., the present pastor, explained that during the great plague of Asiatic cholera which swept St. Louis in 1866, members of the parish made a vow that if they were spared they would construct a new main altar. Their prayers were answered, Father Imbs said, and they donated funds for the present main altar.

HOSPITAL CONFERENCE STUDIES CASUALTIES

Rehabilitation Needs Gone Over—Warnings Against Socialized Medicine.

The role of the hospital in rehabilitation of war casualties was studied today by approximately 2000 delegates from all parts of the United States, Canada and six Latin American countries at the second wartime conference of the Catholic Hospital Association of the United States and Canada at Kiel Auditorium.

The importance of mental as well as physical restoration was emphasized in a series of sectional meetings.

Rehabilitation is more than a medical problem, for it includes less tangible factors of spirit and mind, Dr. Jack Masur, assistant chief medical officer of the Federal Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, declared. The patient must attain mental peace in order to gain complete recovery, he pointed out.

The conference, a five-day program combined with the association's twenty-ninth annual convention, opened yesterday with a series of addresses warning against socialized medicine.

Leo Crowley Speaks.

Leo T. Crowley, Foreign Economic Administrator, urged hospitals to avoid too great reliance on Government subsidy, declaring that public opinion opposes socialized medicine. "Nearly every individual in the country, given his preference, would choose hospitalization in a private institution," he said. "Knowing Americans, I am sure this inclination is not likely ever to change."

Crowley also warned against complacency and overconfidence in the war effort. "The victory will not be easy," he declared. "We face powerful, ruthless enemies both in Europe and in Asia. We count upon the unflagging industry of the American medical and nursing personnel to keep the human cost of invasion at the lowest possible figure."

The Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, S. J., president of the association and dean of the St. Louis University Medical School, pointed out the association has consistently opposed exercise of any monopolistic power over the nation's health care by the Government.

"In this health area, as in so many others pertaining to social well-being," he said, "the step from the approval of an objective to the drafting of a coercive program, and from this to mandatory legislation, is all too easily taken, particularly under the stresses of a national or an international emergency."

Roosevelt Greetings.

President Roosevelt sent greetings to the conference yesterday, praising the association for its contribution to the war effort.

A pontifical high mass was celebrated yesterday morning at the St. Louis Cathedral, with Archbishop John J. Glennon presiding. The Rev. Patrick J. Holloran, S. J., president of St. Louis University, who preached the sermon, deplored a world-wide "wave of materialism," and stressed the need for reclamation of souls, as well as rehabilitation of bodies.

Conferences of Bishops' representatives and hospital chaplains are being held in conjunction with the convention.

NEW ORDER CALLS FOR FEWER ARMY MEDICAL DISCHARGES

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—The War Department has issued instructions to its unit commanders and physicians to make every effort to assign physically handicapped personnel to less arduous tasks instead of granting medical discharges, the Army and Navy Register reported yesterday.

"The discharge of an enlisted man for physical reasons because he is incapable of serving in a physically exacting position when he may render adequate service in a less exacting assignment is a waste of military man power," the Register quoted the instructions as saying.

"The discharge of men who can render effective service is prohibited," the quoted regulations continue, adding, however, that retention of men unable to perform a "reasonable day's work" is wasteful. "Therefore, commanders and surgeons will exercise extreme care and judgment in arriving at a decision to discharge an enlisted man on physical grounds."

GRANITE CITY HONORS 20 WAR DEAD AT CEREMONY

Tribute was paid to the memory of 20 Granite City service men who have given their lives, with a parade and program yesterday in dedication of a Memorial Honor Roll at the City Hall.

Despite intermittent showers which made it necessary to hold part of the program in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, about 1000 persons witnessed the ceremony and more than 200 members of patriotic and civic organizations took part in the parade.

The Honor Roll board was erected by the Victory Mothers' organization and mothers of the war dead received gold star pins.

Arcade Lobby Office Open for Any or All Performances.

Tickets for any or all performances of the 1944 Municipal Opera season, which opens June 1 with the operetta "The Open Road," went on sale today at the box office in the lobby of the Arcade Building, Eighth and Olive streets.

The box office will be open throughout the twenty-sixth annual season from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Saturday, and from noon to 5 p. m. on Sundays. Eighty-eight performances are scheduled this season.

Rehearsals for the opening presentation have begun. Dorothy Sarnoff, who appeared in the recent New York operetta "Rosalinda," and Pvt. John Tyers will sing the leading roles in "The Open Road." Others in the cast will include William Lynn, Eduard Franz, George Lipton, Zamah Cunningham, Adelaide Bishop and Corky Geil. The ballet dancers, Marina Svetlova and Leon Varkas, also will appear in the operetta.

"The Open Road" was written by Milton Lazarus. Lyrics and musical arrangements of Johann Strauss' melodies featured in the operetta are the work of Ann Ronell.

PAULETTE GODDARD IS WED

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 22 (AP).—Paulette Goddard, movie actress, and Capt. Burgess Meredith, former actor now with the Army Air Forces, were married yesterday in the garden of David O. Selznick, producer. Capt. O. Stanley Brown, Army Air Forces chaplain, officiated.

Miss Goddard wore a natural colored linen dress of long empire style and had a gold chain bound around her hair. One of the seven guests was the bride's mother, Mrs. Alta Goddard. Mrs. Selznick was matron of honor. Miss Goddard was married twice before—to Edward James, Nashville (N. C.) lumberman, and Comedian Charlie Chaplin. Meredith was previously married to Helen B. Derby and Margaret H. Freauff, both of New York.

CENSOR'S VERSION OF WHY HE HELD UP TITO INTERVIEW

Cites Time Required to Gain Partisan Leader's Consent to Deletion of 'Military' Data.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 22 (AP)—The following statement was issued to the press yesterday by Allied Headquarters in the Mediterranean Theater:

"By letter dated April 30, the Bureau Chief of the Associated Press in the Mediterranean theater forwarded from Italy to AFHQ in Africa for censorship a press story by an Associated Press correspondent. The story was based on statements by Marshal Tito in response to a questionnaire submitted to him by this correspondent.

"The accompanying letter made the following stipulation:

"'Tito answered questions with the understanding that his views would not be sent at all if they were deleted or altered by the Allied censorship.'

"This press story contained specified mention of ship locations and other military information of value to the enemy. This information was deleted on security grounds by the Allied censorship.

Tito's Consent Needed.

"The stipulation made by Marshal Tito as definitely stated by the AP bureau chief (that the story would not be sent at all if deleted or altered by the Allied censorship) made it necessary for this headquarters to secure Marshal Tito's consent to release the story as censored.

"Due to the absence of direct communications with Tito's headquarters, it was necessary to arrange communications through a personal intermediary. The consent of Marshal Tito was not received until 10:09 p. m. May 19. The story was released early in the morning of May 20.

"For the information of the Allied public, at the time this written interview was obtained, arrangements had been made for the entry into Yugoslavia of a limited number of accredited correspondents equally divided between the American and British press.

"This was in accordance with the desires of the press and the stories of these correspondents were to be pooled for the world press. Also, despite difficulties of transporting correspondents by air into enemy-occupied Yugoslavia and limitations on communications, efforts have been in progress for several weeks to increase this representation.

"Military Security" Only Factor.

"Allied press representatives now in Yugoslavia have been sending from Yugoslavia and Marshal Tito's headquarters since May 12 their full and complete stories, censored only on military security grounds.

"By this method of an impartial, equitable and balanced press, it is believed the world public is receiving and will continue to receive the fullest and most accurate information on conditions existent there as well as on activities of Marshal Tito and his forces.

"Such information will be censored only for reasons of military security to obviate unnecessary danger to the lives of Allied soldiers or impairment of the success of military operations.

"The policy of the supreme Allied commander on news censorship, as previously stated and hereby reaffirmed, is to release the fullest and earliest news connected with the war effort in this theater where such release will not impair operations or risk the lives of Allied troops or others fighting in the Allied cause. This policy will continue in force in this theater of operations."

Edward Kennedy, chief of the Associated Press staff in the Mediterranean, reported May 13 that the story, prepared by Joseph Morton on the basis of questions submitted in writing to Tito and similarly answered by him, was being held up by censorship. On May 17, an Associated Press dispatch said it had been learned that clearance of the story had been refused largely because of a paragraph in which Tito referred to his rival, Gen. Draja Mihailovic, whose Chetniks Tito has accused of aiding the Germans.

9 DEAD AND MANY HOMELESS IN IOWA FLOODS AND STORMS

DES MOINES, Ia., May 22 (AP).—Loss of lives, property and crops continued to mount today with many homeless and some communities under water as rivers of the State overflowed their banks. Nine persons have been killed in floods and tornadoes since Thursday.

Two girls drowned in a flooded street in Chelsea, Ia., yesterday when they were playing. A father and son, Walter Gallery and Walter Jr., 12 years old, drowned in the Cedar River at Waterloo when a launch in which they were riding went over a dam.

Waters from the Iowa River in east central Iowa submerged farmlands. Heavy livestock losses were reported.

NLRB CRITICISED BY CIO BOARD FOR RECENT RULINGS

Agency's Proposed Changes in Regulations Called Threat to Organized Labor.

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—The CIO sharply criticised yesterday recent decisions of the National Labor Relations Board, called its proposed changes in regulations a new threat to organized labor, and laid the entire trend to the influence of one board member—Gerard D. Reilly.

The protest, issued by President Philip Murray and the executive officers of the CIO, was touched off by a hearing last Friday on a proposal to give employers the right to petition for a collective bargaining election when they doubt a union's majority.

The recent Montgomery Ward & Co. seizure grew out of such a contention by President Sewell Avery, that the CIO union with which he had been directed to negotiate a new contract lacked a majority. The union won the election; however, and the Government returned the plant to the company.

In addition to a resolution adopted by the executive council, Murray wrote each CIO union state council and regional director condemning the board's recent acts, and urging that pressure be brought at once upon the three members of the board, and upon the military or naval officers "concerned with maintaining full production" in their war plants.

Of the new proposal, the resolution stated: "In the face of labor's no-strike pledge, the proposed regulation would invite a wave of petitions by employers intent upon delaying bona fide collective bargaining and thereby unquestionably provoke strife and turmoil, with a terrifying impact upon war production.

"It appears that the entire change in the course of conduct and administrative attitude on the part of the National Labor Relations Board is due to board member Gerard Reilly. It is he who had determined, for whatever his reasons may be, to bring about these new policies and administrative rulings.

"Undermining the protection afforded labor by the National Labor Relations Act in peacetime would be serious enough. But, this activity, carried on during wartime, reflects a sense of irresponsibility and a complete lack of understanding of our war problems."

Reilly declined to comment. Decisions to which the CIO objected specifically were those handed down in the American News Co. and the foremen's cases. In the former, the resolution said, the board enunciated a policy "which is a throwback to the days when labor unions as such were held to be illegal."

"In the situation involving the right of foremen to obtain protection under the National Labor Relations Act, the board succeeded in floundering so long as to provoke the situation which developed in Detroit," the resolution said, referring to the recent strike at 13 Detroit plants where supervisory employes walked out.

"As a result of the conflicting decisions of the board, a kind of class B citizenship has been given to the foremen in American industry," said the resolution.

meeting with Stalin was when he, Sergei and other church leaders had their long discussion with the Premier at the Kremlin.

Great Patriot.

Speculation over the next patriarch had centered on both Alexei and Nikolai, Metropolitan of Kiev. Nikolai had served on numerous state investigating committees but is older than Alexei, which may have been a factor in the late Sergei's choice.

Alexei is regarded as a great patriot. He has been awarded the defense of Leningrad medal for his refusal to leave that city while it was under German siege. Born Serge Vladimirovich Simansky in Moscow, he was graduated in 1899 from Moscow University where he studied law and from the Moscow Theological Seminary with a doctor of theology degree in 1904.

In 1921 he became vicar of Petrograd and Bishop of Yamburg and in 1922 became Metropolitan of Novgorod. He has been Metropolitan of Novgorod and Leningrad since 1933. Highly educated with a liking for English authors and classical music, the thirteenth Patriarch in the history of Holy Russia was described by a writer as "a man who looks like either a poet or prelate." He is a man of medium stature with small, symmetrical features, a short, white beard and finely-shaped, delicate hands.

URGES U. S. KEEP ONLY BEST SHIPS AFTER WAR

Carmody Here, Says Quality, Not Size, of Merchant Fleet Is Vital.

A recommendation that only the best of the warbuilt merchant ships be retained for use in the postwar era was made today by John M. Carmody, commissioner of the United States Maritime Commission, in an address at a Maritime day luncheon at Hotel Statler.

Speaking before a meeting sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Propeller Club of St. Louis, Carmody said that in his opinion it was a better policy to strive for an efficient fleet of moderate size rather than the largest fleet afloat.

"It is the part of wisdom to emphasize quality," Carmody said, "quality of service and of ships—modern in design and speed. We have such ships and more are now on the shipways. These are the ships that we think you will want us to retain. This means a tonnage of 10 to 12 million—approximately what we had before the war but infinitely better and more effective because it will be modern.

"It is estimated that this fleet will carry what is generally considered to be our fair share of our foreign commerce—50 per cent of the total. These ships belong to the American people. We want to sell them at a price that is fair to you who paid for them, and that will enable a competent operator to make a profit."

Today's luncheon was part of a national observance of Maritime day, held to commemorate the 125th anniversary of the sailing from Savannah, Ga., of the 100-foot Savannah, the first ship to use steam propulsion on a transocean voyage. It also was considered part of the observance of Foreign Trade Week, which begins today.

THREEFOLD TASK AWAITS WALLACE ON TRIP TO CHINA

ate for them to send young students to this country when American students are being taken away from the colleges to fight the war.

Political Question.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's own views expressed in his recent book, "China's Destiny," published in China but barred from export until it has been revised, have aroused some uneasiness. The book has been interpreted by some as anti-foreign. This interpretation, however, is said to have arisen from the fact that Chiang placed much of the blame for China's condition on the so-called unequal treaties of the past, which he pointed out have been done away with now. In this light, he appealed to the Chinese to rouse themselves to carve out their own future. Certain paragraphs, however, calling on China to revive the spirit handed down for fifty centuries and to lay a new foundation on the basis of "the state above everything" have caused some misgivings regarding China's conception of democracy.

Wallace's visit is therefore intended to be much more than a mere good will visit or a gesture of hands across the sea. Coming at this critical time in China's long struggle, it is destined to have an important bearing on China's future part in both the war and in the peace to follow.

NEWSPAPERS HAIL PROMISE OF HELP

CHUNGKING, May 22 (AP).—Chinese newspapers united today in assuring Vice-President Wallace the heartiest welcome to China and hailed his statement that nothing would stop America from bringing this nation "all possible and prompt aid."

The official Central Daily News declared that Chinese who have read President Roosevelt's and Wallace's announcements of the purpose of the Vice-President's visit "cannot but feel intensely gratified."

The newspaper Ta Kung Pao observed that "Wallace's visit to Siberia at this juncture has significance. We hope the Russians will fight together with us one day on the same battlefield against the same foe." Wallace will travel through Siberia on his way to Chungking.

He will find China facing the threat of invasion of its northwest, prices astronomically high in the economic field and many disturbing political undercurrents.

An egg, at the official rate of exchange of 20 Chinese dollars for one American dollar, costs 35 cents in American money. A pound of bread costs $4 in American money, a cake of Chinese soap $3. A towel costs $20, and everything else is on a corresponding scale.

Political differences are punctuated by lack of complete unity between the Kuomintang, the Government party, and the Communists.

A statement by five professors of the National Southwest Associated University yesterday declared China was "nearing the brink" of financial collapse, basically because the professors declared, the wealthy are not sharing a proportionate burden of China's war expenses—paying not more than 3 per cent of the costs though they should bear 12 to 20 per cent.

Remedial measures proposed included a halt in issuance of bank notes, restriction of cash withdrawals from bank deposits, institution of a system of compulsory lending to the Government, a forced loan to the Government of at least 5,000,000,000 Chinese dollars monthly by specified wealthy persons, and institution of a 500 per cent luxury tax.

CARNEGIE-ILLINOIS INDICTMENT QUASHED

PITTSBURGH, May 22 (AP).—United States District Judge R. M. Gibson today granted a defense motion to quash an indictment charging Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation with destruction of records of tests on steel ship plate.

Judge Gibson's action came as Robert L. Wright, Government attorney, completed his summation of evidence presented during the three weeks' trial. The company also is charged in another indictment with falsification and concealing of records of the tests.

The motion to quash was made last week by Defense Attorney Elder W. Marshall. Judge Gibson granted the motion "for lack of sufficient evidence," and directed the jury of six men and six women to return a verdict of acquittal on the one indictment. Summations of evidence on the second indictment still are to be heard. The charges against the steel corporation followed an investigation by the Truman Senate committee early in 1943.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY LISTS ASSETS AS $1,009,092,488

BOSTON, May 22 (AP).—Assets of the Ford Motor Co. now aggregate $1,009,092,488, compared with $813,079,878 a year ago, the annual statement filed with the Massachusetts tax commissioner, showed today.

The statement, covering the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1943, listed surplus as $669,102,290.

The statement follows: Cash, notes and accounts receivable, stocks, bonds, securities and patents rights, $503,923,672; real estate, $127,377,624; machinery, equipment, furniture and fixtures, $229,720,862; merchandise and supplies, $147,945,952; prepaid insurance, taxes, etc., $124,375.

Liabilities: Accounts payable, $258,226,501; reserves, $64,499,196; capital stock, $17,264,500; surplus, $669,102,290.

RAILROAD BONDS EXTEND GAINS IN NEW YORK MARKET TRADE

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—Rail issues extended their gains in the bond market today and the plus column was joined toward the final hour by numerous issueswhi ch had shown little rising power in the forenoon.

As buying increased, advances rose to around two points for many of the more prominent loans. Only a handful of carriers ran into liquidation.

Intermittent support was accorded New York Central 4½s and convertible 3¼s, Frisco 4½s of '78, Morris & Essex 4½s, Lehigh Valley stamped 4s, Colorado & Southern 4½s, Rock Island convertible 4½ and St. Paul 5s and adjusted 5s.

Industrials, utilities and foreign loans moved narrowly. U. S. Governments were dull.

In the Associated Press bond averages the 20 railroad bonds closed at 89.5, a new 1944 high, up .1; 10 industrials 104.9, unchanged; 10 utilities 106.1, up .1; 10 foreign 66.3, unchanged, and 10 low-yield bonds 115.6, a new high for the year thus far, up .1.

Sales were $8,553,700, compared with $12,435,900 Friday.

While a number of the more active loans ran into profit cashing that pared gains sharply in the last hour, closing gains ranged to more than two points. Among the better advances were Cotton Belt refunding 5s, up 2 at 57; Abitibi Paper and Power stamped 5s, up 2 at 75; Morris & Essex 5s, up 1⅞, and the same road's 4½s, up 2⅛.

PHILADELPHIA, May 22 (AP).—Allegheny Corporation, Wilmington, Del., today registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission 30 million dollars principal amount of 3¼ per cent secured convertible notes, due 1954.

The note can be converted into pledged common stock of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co.

Proceeds, plus other funds, will be used to redeem at 102½ per cent $21,661,000 principal amount of Allegheny's 20-year collateral trust cnovertible 5 per cent bonds due 1949 and $19,137,000 due 1950. The bonds are to be called within 60 days after the issuance.

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—Stone & Webster & Blodget, Inc., and Associates, were apparent high bidders today for $23,000,000 first and refunding 3 per cent bonds offered for competitive bidding by Virginia Electric & Power Co., an affiliate of Engineers' Public Service.

The investment banking group bid 102.2999 for the issue and plans to reoffer at 103¼ subject to formal award by the company and approval by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Proceeds are to be used by the company to carry out its plan to absorb Virginia Public Service Co., a merger which previously had been approved by stockholders. Virginia Public Service Co. is a subsidiary of General Gas & Electric Corp.

SPECIALTIES HOLD TO STOCK LEADERSHIP

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—Selected motors, rubbers, gold mines and specialties kept the recovery fires glowing in today's stock market while numerous leaders again suffered from a lack of buying.

Prices turned a shade mixed and dealings slowed after a steady and rather active opening. Near the close advances ran to a point or more for favorites, a number of which established highs for the year or longer, but losers were plentiful. Low-quoted issues were lively.

Transfers for the full session were 700,800 shares compared with 789,300 shares last Friday.

Of the 825 issues traded in today, 341 were higher, 256 lower and 228 unchanged. Forty-four made new 1944 highs and three new 1944 lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was down .1 of a point at 52.2. It was the first slight decline since May 12.

Among 1944 New Peaks.

Investors were notably conservative, basing demand mainly on prospective earnings and dividends. Invasion selling continued to wane but potential purchasers inclined to step carefully pending more important foreign developments.

Among stocks at peaks for 1944 were Mack Truck, Fruehauf Trailer, Goodyear, Firestone, National Acme, Hayes Mfg. and Public Service of New Jersey. Ahead most of the time were General Motors, Chrysler, Dome Mines, Homestake Mining, du Pont, Johns-Manville, Dow Chemical, Westinghouse, Chicago & Northwestern preferred, Flintkote and Libby-McNeill. Occasional casualties were U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Sears Roebuck, Consolidated Edison and Texas Co.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 20C A BALE OFF TO 15C UP

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—After modest early gains on mill buying, support dried up in the cotton market and prices moved gradually lower. Dribbling liquidation and hedge selling was taken on the scale down through the trade.

Late values were 25 cents a bale lower, to 10 cents higher, July 20.63, October 19.92, December 19.67.

Small mill price fixing against Government textile awards held cotton steady in a quiet trade. Contracts were supplied through light liquidation and hedging. Spot cotton markets were quiet.

Noon values were 5 to 10 cents a bale higher, July 20.69, Oct. 19.94, Dec. 19.68.

Futures closed 20c a bale lower to 15c higher.

REPORTS BY CORPORATIONS

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—Paramount Pictures, Inc., is playing to sell $2,000,000 of convertible notes with certain stock purchase rights to Barney Balaban, president, the company's proxy notice to stockholders disclosed today.

Stockholders will vote on the proposed sale at their annual meeting June 20, and in addition will vote on elimination of 144,672 shares of the $100 par first preferred stock and 555,101 shares of $100 par second preferred stock from the authorized capitalization of the corporation. This stock is authorized, but not outstanding. The notice to stockholders said that by the proposed elimination of these shares and reduction of capital, there will be added to the capital surplus of the corporation and made legally available for any purpose for which such surplus may be used, the amount of $15,926,425.

The statement said the board of directors entered into an agreement with Balaban on May 9, subject to approval of the stockholders, to issue and sell to him $2,000,000 of convertible promissory notes carrying interest at 2¾ per cent. These notes will be convertible into common stock of the corporation at $25 a share, the closing quotation on the stock on the date of the agreement.

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Co. reports consolidated net profit for the quarter ended March 31 of $1,431,591 equal to 30 cents a share, compared with $467,848, or 10 cents a share in the 1943 quarter.

WALTHAM, Mass., May 22.—For the year ended Jan. 1, 1944, Waltham Watch Co. reported net profit of $597,757 after Federal taxes, compared to $481,231 for the preceding year. Last year's profit is equivalent, after dividend requirements on $7 prior preferred and $6 preferred stock to $8.72 on class A common and to $4 on the class B common. The 1942 profit was equal after preferred and prior preferred dividend requirements to $4.03 on class A and $4 on class B common. Sales totaled $10,877,564 last year and $8,487,013 in 1942.

WHEAT IS STEADY, RYE PRICES MIXED

CHICAGO, May 22 (AP).—A decline of about 3 cents was recorded in May rye today, but the deferred rye contracts were strong as the result of short covering. Trading was nervous with wide price changes as traders closed out all May futures.

Wheat was about steady, the price supported by commercial buying. Oats were strong. Middle West rains further delayed the seeding of corn, bookings of which were only slightly in excess of 50,000 bushels.

May wheat, oats and barley held at ceilings. Active wheat futures closed ¼c to ⅞c higher than Saturday; active oats were 1c to 1¼c higher; active rye was 3 cents lower to 2 cents higher, May, $1.12½@¾. Active barley was ¼c to 1½c higher.

Partly responsible for the heavy trading was the fact that today was the last day on which there may be trading in May contracts. Any May contracts remaining open after today must be settled by delivery of the cash commodity.

Rain in many sections of the Middle West was reported today, further delaying overdue planting. Good planting weather last week, however, had enabled farmers to overcome some of the delay previously experienced. Pastures were improving rapidly.

Wingate's Raiders

Men Were Trained To Imitate Tarzan

By Charles J. Rolo

This is the second installment from the book, "Wingate's Raiders."

THE first thing Wingate, then a Brigadier, did on arriving in India was to send for books on the training and tactics of the enemy, the religion and customs of the Japanese and the Burmese, and the climate and topography of Burma, and for every available report on the engagements fought against the Japanese. In two months, thanks to an infallible memory, he had thoroughly mastered this material. Then, singlehanded, he blueprinted his plan of campaign.

WINGATE

Wingate realized that every man assigned to the expedition must be expendable. He was not surprised to learn that no crack regiments could be spared for the job. It was typical of him to accept and make the best of it. As he looked over the drafts allotted to him, his only comment was: "I'll make any man who's fit a jungle fighter capable of coping with the best the Japanese have got." In July, 1942, he assembled his men in the jungle region of India's Central Provinces for six months of rigorous training, the first part of it in the sweltering heat and torrential rain of the monsoon season.

WINGATE'S BRITISH troops consisted of a large draft from the King's Liverpool Regiment and odds and ends from a dozen other regiments. They were nearly all married men, aged 28 to 35, from the smoky industrial areas of northern England—wartime draftees taken from a coastal defense unit at home and sent out to India to do garrison work. Most of them had expected to remain in that type of soldiering for the duration. They were born and bred to town and factory life, to the comfortable routine of a big plant and the bright lights and smooth pavements of Manchester and Liverpool, to movie houses and the steak and kidney pie of peacetime England or Lancashire hotpot and fish-and-chips from the shop on the corner; to a day's work at a factory bench and an evening game of darts capped by a pint of mild and bitter in the cheery atmosphere of the local pub. None of them had ever before been under fire.

A FORCE OF Burma Rifles was to be the eyes, ears and mouthpiece of the expedition. All of them knew the country intimately and would act as contact men with the natives. Their officers would be responsible for intelligence work and for the propaganda through radio loudspeakers and leaflets. The rest of Wingate's force consisted of Gurkhas, keen-eyed, wiry little hill fighters from the independent state of Nepal, units from the Royal Corps of Signals, plus doctors, medical personnel and veterinaries for the pack animals from the Royal Army Medical Corps and the Indian Medical Service; a small group of R. A. F. flying officers to act as liaison with the aircraft; a sprinkling of Commando officers and N. C. O.'s who had taken part in the raids on Norway and the French coast, to perform demolitions, carry out reconnaissance, and conduct the most ticklish operations.

With a few individual exceptions, none of the officers or men were volunteers. The British officers in the Burma Rifles spoke Burmese fluently. Some officers in the force spoke Gurkhali, and all of them knew a smattering of Hindustani, which was understood by most of the native troops. In the ranks, the British communicated in sign language with the Gurkhas and Burmese.

THE BURMA RIFLES—native Burmese troops commanded by both British and Burmese—were courageous, cheerful little fighters, for whom the British contingent acquired the greatest respect. Many of them had been educated at the American Baptist Mission and bore such names as Washington, Nelson, Billy and Robert. At night they would gather around the campfire and devoutly sing hymns. In jungle-craft they were unsurpassable.

Wingate had insisted on having R. A. F. flying officers attached to his force in order to ensure the maximum chance of success for his daring scheme of co-operation between ground and air forces. The dropping of supplies was, to be sure, nothing new. The Transport Squadron that was to supply the Chindits had the previous year dropped food, boots, and clothing to the refugees struggling through the mountains of Burma in the backwash of defeat. In Russia and Yugoslavia guerrilla forces had been supplied with food, arms and ammunition from the air. But such droppings had been haphazard, hit-or-miss affairs. Never before had a force of several thousand men planned a long-range penetration of enemy territory relying solely on airborne supplies.

FURTHERMORE, Wingate expected that, operating in the thick of Jap troop concentrations, he would be able to relay to the R. A. F. precise information as to what targets in Burma to bomb and when. The R. A. F. was to be his supply line, and he in turn would serve as the eyes and ears of the R. A. F. On both counts—bombing and supply—Wingate felt it was essential that the messages sent to the air base in Assam should be drafted by a skilled pilot who knew how to pin-point objectives and what could be done with a particular type of plane under given weather conditions.

The area in which the Chindits were to be trained was 35 miles from the nearest small town. The Brigadier with his officers and noncoms arrived in advance of the main force. It was the suffocating period just before the monsoon season when the temperature sometimes hits 120 degrees in the shade. Nerves were on edge and tempers near boiling point as they waited for the dense storm clouds massed oppressively overhead to break and bring relief from the intolerable sultriness. Before the medical contingent arrived several men collapsed from heat exhaustion, which can quickly result

ITALIAN DAM BLASTED BY ALLIES

Above, the big Pescara dam 19 miles from the Adriatic port of Pescara, Italy, as it appeared before the daring aerial attack in which Allied bombers smashed the barrier May 5 and released a flood of water on German positions in the Pescara valley. Below, a view of the area made by reconnaissance flyers the day after the raid, after most of the water in the upper reaches of the river had flowed through the breach (at left), leaving the bed nearly dry. The dam, unit in a hydro-electric system, had been used by the Germans. These are official British Air Ministry photos.

BROADWAY

By WALTER WINCHELL

The Private Papers of a Cub Reporter

IT is supposed to have happened during Churchill's last visit. . . . A youthful War Dep't aide was rushed over to 1600 Pennsylvania avenue one hot Sunday dawn with confidential news of military importance for the President. . . . Though the hour was terribly early, he was brought to FDR's bedside. . . . The President listened and then ordered the young officer rushed to the Prime Minister.

Breathlessly, he retold the news to Churchill, whose huge, round face was all he could see imbedded in four or five pillows. The celebrated cigar smoldering in the semi-darkness. . . . The officer ended his message and stood at attention, waiting tensely for Churchill's answer. . . . The Britisher kept focused on the youth and then softly growled.

"Are you the young man who took my daughter out last night?"

"Yes, sir," gulped the astonished fellow.

"I'd like you to understand," said Mr. Churchill, "that my daughter is not accustomed to staying out until 3 in the morning!"

And then, getting out of bed in his white sack-like nightgown, England's Commander in Chief, cigar between his teeth, strode off hurriedly down the White House corridors in his nightie.

OVER AT THE BRITISH EMBASSY they enjoy telling the one about the pair of Gurkhas (noted as India's bravest tribe) who volunteered for the Indian Army's sky-troops. They asked the British officer: "From what height are we supposed to jump?"

"Five hundred feet," they were informed.

"Nothing doing," one complained, "that's too high. Can't we try from 300 feet?"

"No," said the officer, "from such a low height there is great danger the parachute won't open in time."

"You mean," they exclaimed, "that we get parachutes?"

BEAVERBROOK'S FORMER EDITOR on his London Standard is editing a one-sheet newspaper for Mountbatten. . . . His name is Frank Owen. . . . It has the best comic strip in England, and Owen writes a daily editorial called "Good Morning." . . . Naval officers here on leave tell us Owen's paper is so popular that Mountbatten issued an order not to permit anyone to read it—unless they first buy a copy of The India Times, which almost "went out of business" because of Owen's circulation.

CONGRESSMAN DIES' RESIGNATION is no reason for Congress to pigeon-hole legislative probes of un-American activities. There is a great need for them, because Mr. Dies merely scratched the surface. . . . The new group should try to emulate the respected Truman Committee, which probes first and then gives the news to the headline writers. . . . The McCormick-Dickstein Investigating Committee set a good example. It turned in a brilliant job of spotlighting subversives and suspects. . . . Look up their files. You'd be astounded by the fact that our Congress hasn't done anything about some of the no-goods this congressional group exposed—in 1934!!!

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE C-249: Myrtle G., aged 19, is a college sophomore. "I want to become a physician," she announced. "Although you generally refrain from dealing with strictly medical problems in your psychology column, I wonder if you'd tell us some of the greatest advances in medicine in the past century. Please describe some of the human interest elements in modern surgery."

REMEMBER THE old adage about "starving a fever"? Now we tend to follow the patient's appetite and feed him whatever he seems sufficiently interested to eat. Remember how urgently people tried to break the fever? Now we are grateful for the fever, in a sense, and if it doesn't go much above 105 degrees, we sit tight. Why? Because germs don't seem to multiply as fast at fever temperatures as do white blood corpuscles, so the elevated body temperature increases our armies of white corpuscles faster than the invading enemy can flood us with new crops of young bacteria. In the old days of severe vomiting and diarrhea, moreover, the patient might get seriously dehydrated or deficient in fluids. Now we give ample glucose and salt solutions under the skin or by vein, so we can feed and fluidize a patient without disturbing his inflamed stomach or intestinal tract.

WHEN I WAS AN INTERNE, an arthritic little woman, weighing 85, was brought into the hospital. Her attending physician started fluids by vein, and said as soon as one liter had trickled in, to substitute another liter. He said to keep it up until he personally cancelled the order. The interne on his service called me next morning for advice, saying he had already given the woman 17 liters of glucose and saline in the preceding 12 hours, and wondering if that wasn't enough. Although she had thus taken four gallons of fluids during the night, which was at least four times her total blood volume, she was as pert as a bird, and showed no ill effects. I cite this case for my medical colleagues, since it is very unusual.

IF I WERE TO list the greatest advances in medicine, I would include the following, though they may not be in order of maximum value. First, vaccination and inoculation. We have thereby almost eliminated some of the dangerous epidemics, such as smallpox, diphtheria, and whooping cough. And by such psychological mediums as this column we can also almost vaccinate against functional insanity. Second, pasteurization of milk and purification of water, by means of which we have almost wiped out typhoid, intestinal tuberculosis, etc. Third, anesthesia, thereby permitting the development and miracles of modern surgery. Fourth, asepsis and antisepsis, fortified by a growing array of valuable drugs, such as the sulfonamide group, penicillin, quinine, etc. Fifth, complementation procedures or methods of making up body deficiencies as glandular therapy, including insulin, thyroid extract and other products, either synthesized chemically or obtained directly from other animals. Under the fifth heading should also come blood transfusions, oxygen therapy, intravenous feeding, vitamins and the like. Sixth, X-ray and radium, which permit our modern diagnosis and treatment of fractures, plus the elimination of much cancer.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

THESE filled cookies are delicious, beautiful, and unusual because of their delicate flaky texture, their jelly centers and attractive form. While they are elegant enough to serve at a wedding or other festive meal, they are simple to make and sufficiently inexpensive to prepare for the homefolks for an everyday meal. Because they need jelly of excellent flavor for their filling, the dough should be folded over the jelly with care, then it should be pressed down firmly enough to insure that none is going to leak out in the baking. Any oozing means a waste of material, it causes the cookie to burn on the bottom before it is well done and this also spoils the appearance. Careful baking results in that "just right" color and puff.

Hungarian Filled Crescents.

One-half cup butter or half butter and half margarine, one tablespoon lard, two cups sifted all-purpose flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two small egg yolks, one-half cup sour cream, about one-half cup stiff, tart jelly.

Work butter, lard, flour and salt till consistency of cornmeal. Drop in the egg yolks, add cream and mix thoroughly. Shape into a patty, wrap in waxed paper and chill overnight. Roll on lightly floured board to one-eighth inch thickness. Cut into rounds three inches in diameter. Place about one-half teaspoon jelly off center on each round. Fold edge near jelly, completely covering jelly. Press down to seal then roll up—turn and shape into crescents. Brush with egg and milk (one yolk beaten with three tablespoons milk), place on cookie sheet and bake at 400 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from pan while warm, sprinkle with powdered sugar when cool. Makes about two dozen.

MENUS FOR TUESDAY.

Breakfast.

Grapefruit halves, two whole grapefruit; ready-to-eat cereal, four generous servings; raisin bread toast and jelly, eight slices bread, homemade jelly.

Luncheon.

Beet salad, two cups coarsely shredded, cooked beets, two tablespoons sliced fresh green onions, one teaspoon prepared horseradish, three tablespoons French dressing, salt to taste. Toss lightly and serve on shredded lettuce. Garnish with four hard-cooked eggs, sliced. Meat loaf sandwiches, one-half pound. Banana dessert, four Mary Ann cakes, bought, two bananas, sliced, top with chilled custard sauce.

Dinner.

Barbecued spareribs, wipe spareribs, cut into serving pieces, sprinkle sparingly with flour, a bit of red pepper and salt and pepper. Bake at 350 degrees uncovered for 30 minutes. Meanwhile saute one minced onion in two tablespoons drippings in a skillet. Add one tablespoon vinegar, one tablespoon sugar, one-half teaspoon prepared mustard, one-half cup water, one-fourth cup chopped celery leaves and one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Simmer five minutes. Pour over spareribs and bake another 30 minutes. Oven French fries, peel and cut four large potatoes into strips one-half inch thick. Spread lightly with melted fat; bake in pan, allowing space between the strips—turn as they brown. Bake from 30 to 40 minutes at 350 degrees. Buttered fresh peas, three pounds. Cabbage salad, shredded cabbage, green pepper, pickle relish and mayonnaise; bread sticks, six bought; Hungarian crescents, see recipe above. (Use one-half.) Butter or fortified margarine used on all breads. Include in today's menus milk to drink, seven cups for children, three cups for adults.

Deviled Eggs

Six hard-cooked eggs, one tablespoon mayonnaise, one and one-half teaspoons vinegar, three-fourths teaspoon prepared mustard, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one and one-half tablespoons grated cheese.

Shell the hard-cooked eggs and cut in half lengthwise. Remove yolk and put through a sieve. Add seasonings and beat until smooth and fluffy. Refill whites of eggs. Garnish tops with a dash of paprika, a sprig of parsley or chopped chives.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Sunday, May 21.

I WONDER if living away from the country gives one a keener joy when one has occasional glimpses of the beauty of the country. I know that getting back to Hyde Park on Friday, picking the pansies in my own little border around the cottage, and the lilies-of-the-valley from the bed which a very dear friend of mine planted for me a few years ago, and going to the top of the hill where there is a wonderful show of dogwood, gave me a particular thrill.

Sitting on the porch of my husband's little cottage and looking down at the countryside below, with masses of rhodedendron and azaleas in bloom all around, made me almost forget that the world is too sorrowful at present for life to have much zest. Perhaps it is just the spring which renews our hope, since it tells us the same old story that no matter what happens to human beings, everything in the world is put to use and a rebirth does take place in nature once a year!

The fruit tree is no longer in blossom, which I regret, but the lilacs are still in bloom, and perfume the air wherever you find them. They always remind me of my childhood, for we had a great clump of lilac bushes near my grandmother's home, where I spent so much time as a child, and it was always the first thing we looked for when we went back there in the spring after our long winter in the city.

On the train between Hyde Park and New York City, I went through a "Political Handbook for Women," which was written by Miss Eve Garrette. This year the exercise of our citizenship is very important because we are in the peculiar position where men may be unable to vote. This book seems to me admirably arranged, and it should be equally popular with men and women, because it answers so many of the questions which come up when you start to take an active part in politics. You know many of the answers vaguely, but when you have to know them accurately and in detail, you find you are not quite as sure of them as you thought you were.

On the twenty-fourth of May, there will be a celebration at the Capitol in Washington which I would have liked to attend if I did not have a long-standing engagement in West Virginia. This is the 100th anniversary of the sending of the first telegraph message. The sending of this message in 1844 represented the first use of electricity in industry for the world. Fourteen years later, in 1858, a cable was first used, and then, in 1878, the first telephone switchboard was set up, with 21 subscribers. How many wonderful things have come about through the use of electricity which we take so blithely for granted today!

Your Stars -o- By Marion Drew

Sun in Gemini.

General Tendencies—Just take things easy tomorrow, for this is a time when you will find it difficult to reach the hights of your plans or ambitions. The trouble is that you are aiming a trifle too high, and can get better results by concentrating upon less far-reaching ideas. Later in the day you may believe this more readily than you will in the morning. If you are making business contracts at this time, be sure to place all details down in black and white.

If Tomorrow Is Your Birthday.

Your coming year can well be full of surprises, new faces, unfamiliar scenes and strange ideas. It will be hard for you to pass through the next 12 months without radical adjustments in at least one of the departments mentioned. Your most favorable time for progress will be due around the first part of 1945, events moving slowly for you in the next few months. This is particularly true for women born on this date.

Tomorrow's Watchword.

Put a few minutes tomorrow upon a thought to your standards of holiness. Most of us associate this idea with churches, but a man or woman of high ideals may or may not be a member of a separate creed. Some very fine people truly believe that there is good—holiness—in all religions, and that different types of people need different types of faith, hence the diversity of forms of worship. The point is that you should live up to your own ideals of what is right.

Flashes of Life

Public Home.

NEW YORK.—A Government worker arrived at her building minus her badge, so her identification had to be checked. This took 15 minutes and when she reached her office she was required to fill out a form explaining the tardiness. On reaching the question, "where did you reside during the period of your absence," she wrote:

"In the lobby of this building."

ELBERTSON, Ga.—It was hot when Sheriff John Starke reached his office with a Negro prisoner and discovered he had left his six-shooter in his car down the street. Knowing that Negroes don't mind a little heat, he said:

"Boy, go back to the car and bring me my gun."

PORTLAND, Ore.—Two policemen found a motorist asleep at the wheel of his automobile parked in the center of a downtown street. Explained the driver:

"I was just waiting for the light to turn."

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Dear Martha Carr:

WE are both 21 and he is in the Army. We have known each other from grammar school days and he loved me very much. Then he met another girl and began dating her more than me, fell in love with her. Then he came home on a furlough, became engaged to her, gave her a ring. Just the same he still writes to me, sent me a beautiful birthday gift. Does he still love me? He writes me he won't marry this girl until after the war. How can I get him to break this engagement with the other girl? He writes that he will have another furlough before he gets shipped overseas and will come to see me then. I want very much to marry him. Should he stop writing me since he is engaged to another girl? What shall I do?

L. B.

Often when a boy and girl have gone through school and grown up together they feel more like brother and sister than like sweethearts. Their friendship has nothing of the romantic about it. They confide in each other and are pals—no more. This seems to be the case regarding your boy friend's attitude toward you. Unfortunately, you don't feel the same toward him. You would be doing very wrong to try to undermine his affection for the other girl, and now that he is in love with her the best thing for you to do will be to stop writing to him. Explain to him that you think it better to do this, for in the other girl's place you wouldn't want some other girl writing your fiance. If they don't intend to marry until after the war, it is just possible they may change their minds. But don't count on that. Interest yourself in other boys, keep busy, and try to remember you aren't the first girl who loved a boy who loved someone else. It is always hard to take, but before too long some other boy will come along whc really appreciates you and this grief will be forgotten.

Dear Martha Carr:

I am a boy in my teens, and until three weeks ago was going steady with a girl 16, for about four months. She got so she nagged me a lot and was very mushy and I couldn't stand any more of it. So two weeks ago I began to date another girl, so the first one and I fell out. She stayed mad a while, but now she's back at me again. She calls up every day, says she's sorry, wants to make up, wants me to come over for dinner. I don't want to date her any more at all, but I don't want to hurt her feelings, either. What shall I do?

ROBIN.

When you began dating the other girl and broke the steady going agreement, you and the first girl evidently had it out. You should accept her apology, of course, when she offers it, but at the same time rather than spend weeks running from her at sight, it would be better to be honest about the matter. Tell her you feel that you and she had been having too many differences and since you aren't so happy in each other's company it would be better not to date any more. Perhaps you can each find someone more congenial. You are sorry, but a previous engagement will prevent accepting the invitation to dinner.

IN ANSWER TO "Roy": Possibly the other boys are jealous of the fact that you get along so well in company with the girls, whereas they feel awkward and shy. Perhaps if you will pay more attention to baseball and to the other manly sports you will eventually lose the terrible title of "Sissy." Blushing you will probably outgrow when you cease to be self-conscious because of the other fellow's teasing. Go to the party, of course, and have a good time.

IN ANSWER TO "Mrs. S.": You might join the Rose L. Brown Pen Club which meets on the third Tuesday of the month, September through June, at Stix-Baer-Fuller. For details contact Mrs. Rose L. Brown, 6403 San Bonita, CA. 1440. Washington University has classes in short-story writing. You might inquire and see if you are eligible for these.

IN ANSWER TO "Dot": I think you girls should have three of my leaflets, "Popularity Hints," "Sub-deb" and "What About the Petting Question?" If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope I will mail them to you.

IN ANSWER TO "Snow Bird": The first sentence you enclosed is in French and means "I love you very much." The second sentence I was unable to get a translation of, as no one seems to be able to identify the language in which it is written.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

IT is not that I want to establish a custom (although I should be very glad to do so!) but merely to repeat a suggestion made by a reader who was also afraid that people would pay no attention to R. S. V. P. on her invitations and that she would either provide too much or too little food. She told me that with her invitations she had enclosed a small white stamped and self-addressed postcard on the back of which was printed "I am coming . . . . " "I am not coming . . . " and that the results had been one hundred percent effective. All those, who received these invitations, had to do was to cross off one line and sign their name and drop the card in a post-box.

DEAR MRS. POST: My husband wants me to have some cards engraved for our personal use. He has professional cards on which is included his office address and office hours. How shall I have our cards worded?

Answer: Doctor and Mrs. John Henry Wells and your house address at the lower right.

DEAR MRS. POST: What is the proper way to butter pancakes and what is the proper way to butter English muffins which are toasted and brought to the table unbuttered?

Answer: You use the knife to spread pancakes with butter if that is what you meant by the question. If the butter is hard you can use the fork to help mash it soft before putting it on. As for the muffin, if there is one thing that should be buttered—and with melted butter immediately upon leaving the toaster, it is an English muffin. It should never be proffered to anyone unbuttered. Of course if it should be, you would have to butter it as you would any piece of bread.

DEAR MRS. POST: What is the proper reply to make after a salesperson says "thank you" and hands the package and change?

Answer: Nothing generally, or nod slightly and perhaps smile.

Doctor on Treatment Of the Skin

By

Logan Clendening, M.D.

MOST skin diseases, it would be a good guess, are first treated at home, by the patient himself or some member of the household. The favorite remedies are some sort of greases or ointments —zinc oxide ointment for soothing itching and inflamed eruptions; ammoniated mercury for pus infections of the skin like acne or impetigo or hair follicle or shaving infections; mentholated or camphorated ointments for hives and chapping and sunburn; sulfa ointments for infections; and to get away from ointments tincture of iodine or mercurochrome for cuts and bruises.

When these don't work and you go to the expert dermatologist you will find him depending more on X-ray, radium, electrolysis, diathermy, drugs by vein and vaccines. It is natural for him to use these more complicated methods because he probably knows you have already been using the standard local remedies at home. And here is a point to emphasize—if he gives you a medicine for local application it will likely be in the form of a lotion, that is a watery or liquid suspension rather than an ointment.

NOW ALL OF THESE remedies are good. For household use the medicine closet should certainly contain a zinc oxide preparation for soothing and ammoniated mercury for pus conditions and iodine for cuts and infections, and perhaps comphor ice. But there are a good many times when the household dermatologist needs to be restrained in their use and there are a lot of things not to do for skin diseases that he doesn't always remember.

One is that very tendency noted above to stick to ointments rather than lotions. An ointment gums over the surface of a skin eruption, keeps the air out and the secretions in and often adds to the damage. A lotion can be dabbed on and will stay in place just as well as the ointment, besides lets the skin breathe and draws secretions to the surface where they can be wiped off. Zinc oxide in an ointment doesn't get to exert its effect as well as calomine in a lotion, and the action of the calomine is just about the same as zinc oxide. Ointments are all right in their place, but that place is not wholesale and universal use.

A tendency of anyone treating the skin, and this includes many doctors, is to overtreat, either by treating with applications that are too strong or using them too much. This is particularly true of poison ivy or any similar acute dermatitis from contact that is in an angry, inflamed condition. Here some of the medicaments applied may add to the inflammation and make things worse. Ointments on these conditions do no good because the ointment never gets in contact with the trouble, since the serum which is constantly oozing out pushes it away. A mild wet dressing of half of 1 per cent of aluminum subacetate is most likely to do good.

A WET DRESSING should keep the part wet. If when the dressing is removed it is stuck to the skin it has obviously not been wet enough. A good wet dressing that holds moisture is oatmeal and bicarbonate of soda. But an opposite danger of wet dressings is that they are allowed to waterlog the skin.

Sulfa ointments should never be used except under medical advice. They are very likely to sensitize skin and make any eruption worse. I just saw a peculiar example of this. A detail man who goes to doctors to demonstrate new preparations was in the habit of showing how a sulfa ointment could be completely absorbed in the skin. He would take out a little jar of it and rub it on the back of his hand. After doing this a few weeks he developed a peach of a dermatitis that took a few weeks to cure.

A sore skin is sensitive to drugs. The basic rule of treatment is —don't do anything to make it worse.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. A.—Is a temperature that varies from 99 to 101 always indicative of infection? Could it be caused by nerves? What reaction does benzedrine sulphate have on the body?

Answer: Yes, it always indicates infection. Many people regret having ascribed such things to nerves. Benzedrine sulphate stimulates the brain, produces wakefulness and mental stimulation, raises blood pressure and, applied locally, shrinks mucous membranes, as of the nose.

A. G.:—What function does the spleen have in the body? Can a person live with the spleen removed? Can a suspected enlarged spleen be detected by X-ray?

Answer: The only certainly known function of the spleen is to destroy antiquated blood cells. But there are numerous areas of splenic tissue — accessory spleens — scattered throughout the body which perform the same function, and the spleen has often been removed with no bad result, the patient living a long time. The X-ray visualizes the spleen only when a contrast medium — thoracotrast — is injected into the blood.

Viennese Dessert

Six slices stale bread, two egg yolks, one-half cup margarine, one cup milk, one-half cup water, two egg whites, two cups stewed fruit.

Soak bread in water. Cream egg yolks with margarine. Add milk. Squeeze bread dry and combine with first mixture. Add stiffly beaten egg whites. Grease an oven-proof baking dish. Pour in a layer of mixture, then a layer of stewed fruit. Continue this until all is used up, making layer of egg-bread mixture on top. Bake at 375 degrees one-half hour.

How Wingate Trained His Troops

BRIGADIER ORDE CHARLES WINGATE (bearded) photographed with another British officer just after his troops returned from the jungle. Made a major-general, Wingate was killed several months ago when his plane crashed near the Burma-India frontier.

in death if not properly treated. Wingate did the doctoring himself. He had no hospital and no ice packs, but he carried the victims to a dak bungalow—a post rest-house—rigged up makeshift fans and pulled all of his patients through.

On the camping site was an ancient Indian well, a large rectangular affair situated beside the ruins of some maharajah's hunting lodge with a tall tower. The night he arrived Wingate went off to explore the tower and found himself staring into the eyes of a panther, ready to defend its lair. He bagged the male then and there and a few days later shot the female. Thereafter the tower was known as "Wingate's Folly."

The Brigadier held his early training lectures at dusk, and the night would close in as he began speaking. He grouped his cadre of officers and NCOs on the tiers of steps around the well, and held forth to them under the stars with the old Hindu architecture of the maharajah's hunting lodge as a backdrop. As Wingate had sensed, it was a stirring setting. After the first talk, in which Wingate explained how he wanted the men to be trained when they arrived, his officers went back to their tents with the exhilarating feeling of being in on a great adventure. Church services, too, were held around the well throughout the training period. Wingate never failed to attend and liked his officers to show up.

The Brigadier put the cadre through an interminable course of "Tactical Exercises without Troops." The conventional way of carrying out "T. E. W. T." is on a table covered with sand modeled into miniature contours. Wingate scorned this as "unrealistic nonsense" and ordered sand pits dug, 400 square yards in size. Men were represented by the tip of a match sticking out of the ground, forest by tiny pieces of bamboo. The Brigadier insisted that every hill, tree, river, and gun emplacement be built in exactly to scale—100 yards to a foot—and that every movement be timed with stop-watch precision, so that an officer lying down in the sand pit could clearly visualize the operation as a whole.

In one of his training lectures Wingate explained this painstaking attention to detail:

"Before a leader can discharge a task successfully, he must picture that task being discharged. Every operation must be seen as a whole. By that I mean it must be seen pictorially as a problem in time and space. The chief difference between a good and a bad leader is that a good leader has an accurate imagination. Most commanders are unable to foresee accurately. Their minds present them with a series of pictures showing their commands moving victoriously from point to point. These pictures are completely bogus.

"The good commander requires an anxious, meticulously accurate, and ever active imagination. By constantly insisting on scrupulous realism in the detail of his images, he will learn to picture only what he can perform and to reject all fancy."

One of the incidental hazards of the sand pit exercises was the Brigadier's mania for swatting flies. An officer stretched out on the ground pondering some intricate maneuver would suddenly feel a wallop on the head and look around to see Wingate standing over him triumphantly brandishing his fly swatter. With a Flit gun the Brigadier was as uninhibited as a Stuka pilot over a road jammed with civilians. He was given to sudden fly-killing raids in the officers' mess and would spray Flit over the food, the assembled company, and on one memorable occasion, on the bald heads of two visiting generals.

Wingate set an exacting standard for his officers and non-coms and was a hard commander to satisfy. During the training period he weeded out several officers on the ground that they were "good but not good enough." In dismissing one captain who, in his opinion, was downright bad, he bluntly recommended that he never be given a rank higher than second lieutenant. "The only test of an officer," he used to say, "is in the field of battle. No officer should be allowed to hold a rank that he cannot carry in battle."

When the men arrived, full-scale maneuvers began. "Jungle fighting," Wingate told the Chindits, "is a matter of quick, close encounters, where a man's life hangs on his cunning and speed and skill. Often the platoon commander is too far away to control action. Individual initiative is decisive. Man fights man."

Wingate's slogan for the force was: "We have to imitate Tarzan." He taught his men how to find their way through tangled forests, how to march silently, how to cover up their tracks, how to recognize landmarks in a jungle. He trained them in infiltration tactics, river crossing, column deployment, camouflage, patrol work, and marching in the dark. River crossings were practiced with full equipment on a river 400 yards wide, where rifle sections had to be posted on each bank and in boats to protect the men against crocodiles. Wingate explained to the Chindits the habits of wild animals and how to scare them away, and gradually broke down their fear of living in the jungle. So far as animals were concerned, the training area was as bad as Burma; in Burma, at least, there were few leeches and no crocodiles. When the men had become acclimatized, Wingate led them on long forced marches with heavy packs, until they were the toughest of shock troops, capable of covering 40 miles with full equipment in a day's march. On returning from Burma, one private remarked: "The whole job was a piece of cake compared to the training."

Just after training had started, the monsoon broke with great crashes of thunder and mountainous black rain clouds. The choking atmosphere cleared, and the temperature dropped to 90 degrees. It was a grand moment. Officers and men stripped and ran out naked into the torrential downpour. For the next three months Wingate and the Chindits generally wore nothing but shorts. Training went on in heavy mud and under incessant rain. The jungle hissed and steamed and the rivers began to rise.

In August a river in the training area rose 30 feet above its bank. Half of the force was trapped and had to take to the treetops. The Brigadier's headquarters were situated on high ground some distance from the river. To make sure that everyone was safe Wingate swam across a mile of swirling water strewn with clumps of bamboo and small uprooted trees.

No one knew how long they would be marooned, and most of the officers grabbed a book or two. One major found himself with a Bible, the complete works of Shakespeare, and a volume that had just arrived by mail and had not yet been unpacked. He settled back in the branches of a gigantic teak tree with water lapping a few feet below, tore off the wrapping, and turned to the title page. It was Louis Bromfield's "The Rains Came." The Chindits did in fact imitate Tarzan until the flood subsided.

At the beginning of October the weather turned dry and later pleasantly cool. The Chindits folded up their tents and went into open bivouac, with the cold ground as their lodging and a roof of stars overhead. In December Wingate carried out elaborate maneuvers, involving a 200-mile march, whose results were to determine whether his men were in shape for the Burma venture. The maneuvers were completely successful. Wingate now sent an advance party to Assam to purchase oxen and collect special items of equipment. "Whatever happens," he said to Maj. Jefferies, the officer in charge, "don't let the grass grow under your feet." When Jefferies put in a large order for oxen, he found that the Indian dealers had raised the price above the figure which the local purchasing officer was authorized to pay. At this point any delay in obtaining pack animals would have held up the whole expedition. Jefferies countersigned the purchase at the higher price knowing that he could rely on Wingate to back him up if any questions were asked.

Just before Christmas Wingate's force moved to a large cantonment town to enjoy fourteen days of relaxation under canvas, and Wingate took his first drink since training had started. Christmas morning the sergeants in the force shaved off their mustaches and put up a notice to the effect that all mustached officers would have to submit to a razor before being entertained at the sergeants' mess —a Christmas Day tradition in the British Army. One officer, Lt. John Long, a Commando who had boxed for Oxford and rowed for his college, sported a large brown mustache of which he was excessively proud. He decided to fight for the honor of his whiskers and battled so furiously against heavy odds that he was spared the sergeants' razor. Next day, demonstrating to his section the correct way to handle gun powder, Long blew himself up. When the smoke cleared there he stood, relatively unhurt, but with no eyebrows—and no mustache.

On Jan. 9 special trains carried the Chindits to a railhead in the mountains of Assam, leaving them a march of 130 miles over passes 5000 feet high to Imphal, close to the Burma frontier, the point of assembly for the expedition. By now the unlikely force dumped in the jungle of Central India six months before had taken shape. It represented the maturity of Wingate's belief that he could make a jungle fighter of any man that was fit. Every Chindit was trained to a fine edge. A tougher, more confident lot it would have been difficult to find anywhere.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

IT is extremely dangerous to draw trumps in the expectation that a vital side suit will break. Consider this case:

South, dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

♦ 10765432

WEST
♠ J105
♥ AKQJ72
♣ AK6

♥ 10542
♦ QJ9
♣ Q10972

SOUTH
♠ K9832
♥ 86
♦ AK
♣ J543

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Double	4 spades	Pass
Pass	5 hearts	5 spades	Pass
Pass	Double (final bid)

West led the heart king, shifted to the club king, and then forced dummy with another high heart. After ruffing in dummy, declarer cashed the trump ace and led low to the king, hoping to find a trump break as well as a 2-2 diamond break. This, however, was a little too much for the "probabilities," and when East showed out on the second trump lead, declarer saw that he had better get the diamonds started. He laid down the ace and king—but too late! West ruffed and led the club ace. Dummy ruffed with its last trump, and declarer still had two losing clubs. Result, down three, for an 800 penalty.

If declarer had tried out the diamond break before giving up most of dummy's trumps, 600 of these points would have been saved. West would have ruffed the second diamond and forced dummy again with a club, but now declarer could well afford to ruff a diamond with the trump king, draw the outstanding trumps with the ace and queen, and claim the rest of the tricks with dummy's diamonds.

BATMAN AND ROBIN—By Bob Kane

CHASING AFTER THE JOKER AND THREE EXTRAS IN HIS PAY WHO HAVE PIRATED A ROMAN GALLEY MOVIE SET, ABOARD WHICH A MOVIE STAR AND HER JEWELS ARE CAPTIVE, BATMAN AND ROBIN OVERPOWER THE EXTRAS, BUT FIND...
GONE! THE JOKER SKIPPED WHILE WE WERE MIXING UP WITH HIS MEN!
WHY DON'T WE SCOUT AROUND FOR HIM? HE CAN'T HAVE GONE FAR!
FAR ENOUGH! YOU ALL RIGHT NOW, MISS GAYLORD?
KNEES A BIT WOBBLY BUT OTHERWISE IN ONE PIECE!
AND HOW DOES A MOVIE STAR LIKE PLAYING IN A REAL-LIFE DRAMA?
IT WAS EXCITING! WHEN YOU CHASED AFTER THIS ROMAN GALLEY WITH THAT OLD AIR MACHINE FROM THE NEAR-BY MOVIE LOT, WHY, IT WAS SOMETHING... WELL...LIKE OUT OF THE MOVIES!
WHAT DO YOU INTEND TO DO ABOUT THE JOKER, BATMAN?
DO? NOTHING FOR US TO DO BUT CHECK UP ON THE JOKER'S NEXT JOB AND TRY TO OUTSMART HIM!
